The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

The opinion expressed by this newspaper several weeks ago that Lauderdale County would remain in the dry column after Tuesday election was verified by the overwhelming "No" vote record. Our opinion was based on periodic surveys made by the beer distributors of Alabama who found time after time that Lauderdale County would not, under any condition or circumstance, vote for liquor or beer stores of any shape, form or fashion or under any type of control. An official of the beer distributors association gave us this information at the beginning of the recent campaign and on this information and our knowledge of the great majority of the people of Lauderdale County from close association for many years, our opinion was formed.

The fact that Lauderdale County's voters had a chance to express their wishes in a legally called and conducted election Tuesday, is true democracy at work. Many wounds were opened in the campaign that today, we are certain, are healed. The results will, of course, be discussed for a time but very soon all will be forgotten and everyone will go his even way. It is hoped that there will be no lasting ill-will as all too often remarks are made in a heated election that are immediately regretted. The people have spoken. Let's abide by the decision in all good faith.

A Czech was explaining why he thought that Adam and Eve were undoubtedly Soviets. "They had nothing to wear," he pointed out, "and nothing to eat but an apple—but they were told they were living in paradise."

The absent-minded professor chided his biology class to order shortly after the lunch hour. "Our special work this afternoon," he said, "will be cutting up and inspecting the inward workings of a frog. I have a frog here in my pocket to be used as a specimen." He reached into his pocket and pulled out a paper sack, shook its contents on the table, and out rolled a nice looking ham sandwich. The professor looked at it, perplexed, scratched his head and muttered: "That's funny; I distinctly remember eating my lunch."

"Two good aids to health," says a doctor, "are to swim regularly and drink plenty of water." To ensure the most gratifying results, of course, these should be done separately.

According to statistics, today there are more than 35 million ardent fishermen in the United States—and yet the Russians are able to out-lie us.

A country preacher down in the southern part of the state was asked by his congregation to pray for a more abundant crop. He responded: "Oh, Lord, we pray thee in accordance with the request of thy people that thou send them a more abundant crop; but, oh, Lord, thou knowest, as they know, that what they need is deeper plowing, harder work and more manure."

A Florida columnist had her say: "I've known for some time that men are not only being replaced by the electric blanket, they're fast becoming extinct! You'll know what I mean if you ring a few doorbells. See who answers the door in a colorful apron while apologetically drying their hands on a dish towel... Oh, I know we women are largely responsible, but I heard that for a man to be hen-pecked, he has to be a little chicken."

A young minister the other Sunday morning wanting to get the services off to a good start, remarked to his flock: "As I gaze about, I see before me a great many bright shining faces." Immediately, eighty-seven compacts were seen to open.

County Cattlemen Hold Annual Meet And Plan For '59

E. H. Wilson Speaks On Rapid Growth Of Cattle Industry In State

The Lauderdale County Cattlemen's Association met Friday night, Dec. 5 at the Underwood School Cafeteria. The growth of the cattle industry in Alabama, which has seen the state climb at a rapid pace in 1958 until beef is now the second top money producer as a farm commodity, was outlined.

E. H. Wilson, executive secretary of the Alabama Cattlemen's Association, and W. W. Cotney, superintendent of the Upper Coastal Plain Substation at Winfield, were chief speakers at the meeting.

Mr. Wilson, of Montgomery, explained that Lauderdale County had the largest percentage increase in membership during the year of any county in Alabama from 21 members to 126 members. He said that the state's beef program this year had been one of the most successful ever reported.

"We now have 5,517 members in the Alabama Cattlemen's Association who own 85 per cent of the cattle in the state," Wilson pointed out. He also stated "Our Association is now the second largest cattlemen's group in the nation, second only to Texas, and we feel we have just scratched the surface. Alabama is really in the cattle business."

Wilson urged members of the Lauderdale Association to attend the state get-together to be held in Montgomery January 29 and 30.

Mrs. Cotney, who was the first speaker before the some 150 persons at the gathering, listed three points to consider from the standpoint of beef production, those being: good management, a good feeding program and good cattle.

Entertainment was provided by "The Wagon Sisters," Ann and Becky Wagon, who were talent winners at the North Alabama State Fair and were also participants in the talent contest sponsored by the Mid-South Fair in Memphis.

Plans for 1959 include controlling breeding to secure fall calves; a repeat on the fat calf show, and efforts to further increase membership and to bring about better feeding programs and grazing crops.

The food for the annual meeting was prepared by the cafeteria staff at Underwood School.

Another, and permanent, change in schedule, is moving of the Three Forks distribution center to Jones Chapel Church on Waterloo road. Distribution of free food will be made on the following dates: Lexington, Anderson and Rogersville, Thursday, Dec. 11; other distribution points in the county, Friday, Dec. 12; city of Florence, Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 15-16.

Missile Experts Not To Be Disturbed; Roles May Be Enlarged

In connection with the President's Executive Order issued Dec. 3, affecting the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Senator John Sparkman and Congressman Bob Jones issued the following joint statement:

"Yesterday we again had an extended conversation with Dr. Keith Glennon, Director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, concerning the Executive Order issued by the President and the interagency agreements affected by the Department of the Army.

"Dr. Glennon has assured us that this reorganization would not in any way disturb or separate the scientific team now located here. The research family and development teams would be continued and no lessening of activities at Huntsville is foreseen in the future.

"On the other hand, Dr. Glennon pointed out that the new Order may enlarge the roles and missions of the Huntsville activities not only to satisfy the military needs and requirements but would offer opportunity for increasing astronomical and space exploration research for peaceful pursuits.

"The work carried on by the organization in Huntsville has been so outstanding and successful that we feel this new Order is in recognition of its accomplishments and capabilities.

"We will continue our efforts in close surveillance of this Huntsville installation to see that this well-developed scientific facility is utilized to the maximum extent."

Education Board Meets Saturday

Supt. Thornton Reports On Action Of Southern Association Meeting

Lauderdale County Board of Education in session Saturday heard a report by Superintendent Allen Thornton on the meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at Louisville.

Mr. Thornton reported that Rogers High School, Greenville, of which J. D. Hawk is principal, was accepted into membership in the association following a recent evaluation program which proved highly successful. This makes four of Lauderdale county's rural high schools members of the association with the fifth now in the process of seeking membership. Central High, Waterloo High, and Lexington High are now members and Lauderdale County High, Rogersville, is now seeking approval.

In view of the fact that only 119 Senior and Junior high schools in Alabama have been approved for membership in the association, the standing of the local county system is truly significant, it was pointed out.

The resignation of Mrs. Georgia Richards, Cloverdale; and Mrs. Marguerite Butler, Lexington, were accepted and Mrs. Priscilla Darby and Mrs. J. Frances Seaborn were elected to fill these vacancies at Cloverdale and Lexington, respectively.

A complete survey of the various school plants throughout the county system has recently been made by a state fire inspector and Mr. Thornton reported that a splendid safety report was made to the board of education. Only three of the entire school plants have buildings of two stories in height, all other being of the standard one-story architecture, it was pointed out.

Over 12,000 Votes Cast In Bitter Cold Weather

A resounding victory was won by the United Dry Forces and those who chose to follow their leadership by a count of almost 3-1 against the legal sale of alcoholic beverages in Lauderdale county.

The unofficial count on the question: "Do You Favor the Legal Sales and Distribution of Alcoholic Beverages Within the County?" was:

"YES" — 3,211.
"NO" — 9,150.

The great interest over the issue was shown as some 12,116 voters went to the polls despite the bitter cold weather.

Lauderdale county, which has been in the dry column since voting for prohibition in 1910, chose to remain that way with a very one-sided majority.

The Rev. L. E. Kelley, chairman, United Dry Forces of Lauderdale County, issued the following statement:

"In behalf of the dry forces of our county, I want to express my heartfelt thanks to all pastors and laymen who joined with us in the fight for this good cause. Your efforts brought a great victory. It is now up to us to keep our campaign alive so that never again will it be necessary that such a campaign be waged.

To do this, we must be ever on the alert to aid in the enforcement of the laws we live under and never let up in our vigilance so that our county may always be a better place in which to live and raise our children. Again, my sincere thanks."

Let's Have A Fire-Free Christmas

Christmas is a time of joyous festivity. But wouldn't it be a terrible thing to be called on Christmas day to go look over the smoking ruins of your policyholder's home?

We hope this never happens to any of you, but we believe you should do everything you can to have your insured follow the well-defined Christmas safety rules that everybody should observe.

Here are two lists of Do's and Don't's that, when practiced, will reduce the chances of fire to a minimum:

DO'S

Cut a growing tree or try to buy one that hasn't dried out from prolonged storage.

Stand the tree in water or snow outdoors until you're ready to use it indoors.

Bring the tree indoors just before Christmas and take it out as soon afterwards as possible.

The larger the tree the greater the hazard, so don't get one any larger than you need.

Just before setting up the tree, saw off the trunk at an angle at least one inch above the original cut.

Place the freshly cut tree trunk in water and keep level of water above the cut the entire time the tree is indoors. (Check the water level at least once a day for absorption and evaporation.)

Support the tree well. Don't put it near sources of heat (fireplaces, radiators, etc.) or where, standing or fallen, it would block the way out of the room and out of the house in case of fire.

Plan on what you must do if fire breaks out.

Guard against flying sparks from a fireplace with a substantial screen and don't use the fireplace to burn up Christmas wrappings and decorations.

Keep matches, lighters and candles away from tiny hands. Have water-type fire extinguishers that work, buckets of water or even your garden hose connected to a faucet, within reach of the tree. If fire should strike, first get everyone out of the house and then call the fire department immediately before attempting to fight the fire yourself.

Use only electric sets that bear the UL (Underwriters' Laboratories) label.

Check lighting sets each year before using for frayed wires.

Be sure the fuse on the electrical circuit you use is not over 15 amperes.

DON'T'S

Don't plug too many cords into one outlet.

Make certain that all tree lighting is turned off before retiring or leaving the house.

Don't let Christmas wrappings accumulate in the home. Use non-combustible material (metal, glass, asbestos, etc.) to decorate the home for Christmas wherever possible.

Don't buy pyroxylin plastic dolls, toys or non-flameproofed cowboy suits, etc. Toys operated by alcohol, kerosene or gasoline are especially dangerous; they may upset and set fire to children's clothing, the tree, or to the house itself.

Don't set up electric trains or spirit-fueled toys under a Christmas tree.

Don't allow smoking near the tree amidst decorations or piles of wrappings; have plenty of safe ashtrays around and use them.

Do not use candles on the tree or nearby where there is any chance for an open flame to contact the tree or combustibles piled beneath the tree. (Reprinted from The Mutual Link, Nov. 1958.)

The Greatest Wonder of All

If Christmas shopping is any indication business is unmistakably picking up again and it promises to reach a new record for spending in the retail marts of the country.

The advertisements are the big news items in today's newspaper for with all their frilly doo-dads embellished with views of St. Nick and his reindeer, the important thing is Christmas. The spirit of giving is in the air pervading every home and household with tinsel and holly and sparkling trees and soon the voices of children will resound with delight throughout the house as each discovers his or her new toy that Santa brought.

Who is responsible for all this bustle and activity, the Christmas shopping, the quick decisions and the buying of food for the big Christmas feast? Dad? Not a bit of it. Dad may pay the bills but his is the least of it.

No, it's Mother who shoulders the big job of making Christmas happy for all the family. Without her there would be no Christmas. And, as we said, it's not all gift-buying, though that's a big part of her responsibility. She still has to make that long Christmas card list; address, sign and stamp those cards; never miss a single church or PTA meeting, meanwhile do the everyday family shopping for food and other necessities, to say nothing of her everyday tasks such as getting out the laundry and cleaning up the house and getting the children off to school.

Most of us never think how much mental and physical strain Mother goes through with when she shoulders the burden of Christmas. She has the job to do so she does it, usually without complaining. We wonder at the terrific performance record of today's automobile, we marvel at modern inventions, the rockets and jets that travel faster than sound, and we sit entranced before the almost unbelievable miracle of color-television . . . but have we ever considered the greatest wonder of them all . . . Mother?

All the "Oscars" and "Emmies" in the world are not near enough to do her justice. Let us strike a special medal for her this Christmas and let it be in the form of words telling her of our love and affection.

Negro Sentenced To Six Years

Late Wednesday, Dec. 4, a Lauderdale jury returned a verdict of "guilty of manslaughter in the first degree," against Lemuel Vaughn, after deliberating some two hours and 30 minutes. The 42-year-old Florence Negro, was charged with the shotgun slaying

He was formally sentenced Wednesday before Judge Robert M. Hill to six years in the State Penitentiary, but gave notice of appeal through his attorneys George Barnett and Stewart O'Bannon of Florence. The appeal bond was set at $3,000.

Pasternak, a Russian, was prevented from attending since he had been accused of insulting the Soviet Union in his novel, "Dr. Zhivago." The diploma and gold medal intended for Pasternak will be placed in a safe to be given to the author if he ever comes to Sweden, officials in charge stated. The $41,420 cash prize will be returned to the Nobel fund.

Will Take Sheffield Bride

Heralding an early February nuptial event is the announcement which has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. Campbell, Sheffield, of the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn Joan, to William Robert Dean, lieutenant, United States Army.

The bride-elect was graduated from Sheffield High School before attending Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn. She is presently a senior student at Florence State College where she will receive her degree in January.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dean of Killen, Lt. Dean was graduated from Coffee High School and Florence State College. He is now stationed at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

Killen Church of Christ will be the scene of their February seventh wedding.

Jettie Muriel Bergin Weds Henry M. Garner

Before a candlelighted altar in Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Lexington, Jettie Muriel Bergin became the bride of Henry McCoy Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Garner of Cleveland, Ohio, on Friday, November twenty-eighth.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Bergin of Lexington are parents of the bride.

Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were accented against a background of Boston ferns and English ivy to define the altar space.

Nuptial selections were presented by Mark Robinson, pianist, and Clyde McCain, vocalist, preceding the half past six o'clock ceremony. The Reverend S. T. Byars officiated.

Mr. Bergin gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white lace over satin was designed with basque bodice featuring a V neckline and long sleeves that tapered to points over the hands. Her floor-length skirt was very full and she wore a veil of illusion which fell from a pearl tiara. With her white Bible she carried a white orchid showered with satin streamers.

Miss Jena Butler of Rogersville attended the bride as maid of honor and Miss Jean Bergin of Sheffield as bridesmaid. Flower girls were Susan Lentz, Rogersville, and Denise Dupree, Cleveland. Their frocks of pink and blue satin were complemented by matching headpieces and their flowers were nosegays of white mums.

Grant Robinson of Lexington served Mr. Garner as best man and ushers included Jack Dupree of Cleveland and Jerry Bergin of Florence.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. An arrangement of white and pink gladioli and carnations centered the refreshment table, spread with a white linen cloth and lighted by white tapers in silver stands.

Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Isabel White and Mrs. Kathleen Lee, both of Lexington, and Mrs. H. T. Bergin of Sheffield.

Marshall-Chandler Vows Said In Late November

Wearing a sheath of white lace over taffeta and a sequined headpiece with tiny veil, Carolyn Marshall exchanged nuptial vows with Carl W. Chandler on Friday, November twenty-eighth. The Reverend Lewis E. Kelley, minister of Highland Baptist Church, heard their pledges at 8:45 o'clock in the evening at his home, 236 Norwood Boulevard.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Chandler, all of Florence.

Miss Tommie Lou Sumner, whose wedding to Farley Vaughn took place last Saturday, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a brown suit with matching accessories.

The couple is now at home at 733½ North Wood Avenue.

Engagement Fete

Decorations of pine and poinsettia made festive the home of Mrs. Joe Butler, Hermitage Drive, when she entertained recently as a courtesy to bride-to-be Jane Gungelman.

The occasion was an evening tea-shower and a cloth of white Irish lace covered the refreshment table. A miniature bride was the central ornament, encircled by an array of gaily packaged gifts.

Guests who called during party hours of half past seven 'til half past nine numbered more than thirty-five.

The hostess was assisted by Miss Virginia Rasch.

UDC Chapters Have Christmas Luncheon

The Florence and Tusculum Chapters of United Daughters of the Confederate met in joint session at noon on Tuesday, December 2, when a musical program was a feature of their Christmas party in the private dining room of Muscle Shoals Hotel.

Poinsettia and Christmas wreaths centered the tables where the forty-five members were seated and in the background a gaily decorated tree added a festive note.

Mrs. George Jackson and Mrs. Earle Darby, program chairmen, presented Mrs. J. W. Scarborough and Mrs. Jarman Stanley, pianists, and Mrs. Otto Speake and Mrs. Charles Rock, vocalists.

An exchange of gifts concluded the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thrasher have been called to Arab, Ala., by the illness of her mother, Mrs. O. O. Hawk.

Prenuptial Fete

Miss Faye Palmer

Introduced by her fiancé's parents to family friends in Lafayette, Georgia, Faye Palmer was complimented by the Reverend and Mrs. Dennis Hannah when she was their recent week-end guest.

In Second Baptist Church parlors, Lafayette, Miss Palmer and Carl Hannah were honor guests at a gift tea on Saturday evening, November twenty-ninth.

A heart-shaped wall decoration of gardenia foliage was centered with a cluster of white bells to fashion a central background for the table, piled high with miscellaneous gifts for the engaged couple. Furthering the traditional bridal color-theme, white tapers were garlanded by greenery to light the party setting and individual cakes were covered in green-tinted icing and decorated with miniature white bells as an accompaniment for the pale green punch served to the fifty-odd guests who called during party hours.

Another courtesy to bride-elect Faye Palmer was hosted on Thursday, December fourth, by Miss Rose Vaughn who entertained at the family home on Cloverdale Road. Miss Doris Llewellyn was a cohostess.

The occasion was a kitchen-gadget shower and college friends of the honoree were included on the invitation list.

A Christmas-y decorative theme prevailed. Red and white carnations were about the living room and the diningroom a white cut-work cloth over red linen veiled the table and tiny reindeer were encircled by red tapers to fashion the central motif. Holiday colors were continued in the small red-tinted cakes, each topped with a cluster of white bells, and matching punch.

Mrs. B. D. Palmer greeted guests with her daughter. The wedding will be an event of December twenty-eighth.

Recent Prenuptial For Bride Of Saturday

Prior to her wedding of Saturday afternoon, Tommie Lou Sumner (now Mrs. Grinnell Farley Vaughn) was feted with a number of courtesies.

Hostesses entertaining in her honor on Tuesday evening, December second, were Mrs. Robert McKinney, Mrs. C. J. Somers, Mrs. Howard Ingle, Mrs. J. B. Gilmer, Mrs. Mary Masterson and Mrs. G. W. Willis.

Pink blossoms fashioned the flowering background in the Willis home at 602 Howell Street and white lace was posed over green linens to cover the party table where punch was served from a crystal bowl garlanded with pink rosebuds and ivy tendrils. Pink tapers burned in silver stands to complete the appointments.

Greeting the forty-odd guests with the bride-elect was her mother, Mrs. Shirley Sumner, and her fiancé's sister, Mrs. Everett Smith of Sheffield.

The affair was a gift tea and the hostesses were assisted during the hours of seven 'til nine by Mrs. Gerald Comer.

Mrs. William C. Olive was hostess at her home on Cumberland Avenue last Thursday when the occasion was an evening tea. Party hours were from seven 'til nine.

Greeting guests with the hostess and honoree were Mrs. Shirley Sumner, Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. Donna Cole.

An oblong crystal bowl was filled with pink gladioli to center the table, covered with an imported cloth of cutwork and lace, and pink tapers in silver candelabra gave light to the setting. Assisting here were Mrs. Roger Lee Babcock, Mrs. U. H. Martin, Mrs. Charles Ginn, Mrs. Carolyn Marshall Chandler and Mrs. J. H. Carter, Sr.

Guests numbered more than one hundred fifty.

Pless Home Scene Of Christmas Party

The Marshall Pless home at 3643 Norwood Avenue was the setting on Sunday for the late afternoon tea hosted by the local chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Chapter, an international group with a cultural and social background.

A decorative Christmas theme in pink and silver abounded. Packaged gifts under a stately silvered tree were an ornamental background and clusters of pink and silver bells contributed to the festive scene.

Assisting Mrs. Pless in welcoming the seventy-five guests who called was Mrs. B. F. Aldrich, Jr., and presiding at the register were Mrs. B. K. Roden and Mrs. Neal Marks, Jr.

Contributions were made toward a fund which will be used by the sorority to further their Yuletide project of purchasing toys for underprivileged children.

The silver-appointed teatable was veiled in pink lace and lighted by tall, pink tapers. Afternoon dainties were in the chosen party colors and pouring at opposite table ends were Mrs. Marvin Beckman and Mrs. Sherman Burnett.

Party hours were from five 'til seven.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penland and children, Marguerite, Mitchell and Lyman, spent the past week-end with her mother, Mrs. William Lyman, in Birmingham.

Mrs. Joseph E. Johnson of Birmingham is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. B. C. Luna, 401 East Mobile.

M. A. Meath of Talledega is in a Birmingham hospital for surgery. Mrs. Heath will be remembered as the former Lila Stuts of Killen.

Underwood Club Most Outstanding In County For Year

The Underwood Home Demonstration Club was selected the most outstanding club in Lauderdale County this year.

President of the Underwood club is Mrs. W. W. Harrison. Mrs. Charles Richeson is project chairman. "These leaders, assisted by the 46 members of the club, set an enviable record of attendance at all leadership schools," said Home Agent Sara Frances Conner.

Club projects during the year included upholstering long furniture at the Underwood School, supplying toilet articles for patients at the state mental hospital and providing clothing and bedding for two needy families. The club also cooperated with the State Fair Association by tending an educational booth exhibit. The exhibit won first place at the fair.

The club's good attendance record was also a factor that was considered when the club won the award, said Agent Conner. The club has had a 90 percent attendance record at every meeting.

Bill Of Rights Day, Dec. 15

Proclaiming Dec. 15 as Bill of Rights Day in Alabama, Gov. James E. Folsom urged that "it is necessary now, as never before, to call on the American people to do their utmost to act concertedly and with determination to uphold the sacred principles of American unity."

The Governor warned against those who would attempt to use the Bill of Rights "as means to distort and destroy the basic principles" for which it stands, and said, "the American Way of Life and Government shall not be undermined by foreign propaganda, the ideology of which is diametrically opposed to that of the U.S."

THE SPILLWAY

ON BUYING CHRISTMAS gifts too soon
We speak our piece today
We made our purchases last June
And now they're all passe

WE'D THOUGHT FOR years on end that... one of these days we'd be smart like Eleanor Roosevelt... Only we weren't... Eleanor tells all and sundry that she buys AND WRAPS during the entire year and... believe us... it's the wrapping that counts... Putting purchases inside pretty paper covers which you'd not think of tearing away...

AND SO... dear readers... our advice today is GO THE WHOLE WAY with Eleanor... or else go immediately into the merry... milling throngs of Yuletide shoppers... As for us... we're just plain GLAD we disapproved our summertime choices... Nothing's more fun than Christmas shopping at Christmas-time.

AS WE THINK of packages... and OUTER WRAPPERS... et cet... we're reminded of a recent incident... Our story has to do with a charming Florentine... a beautiful heirloom silver... and a Nashville, Tennessee, silversmith... A coffee service... sent to Nashville for repairs... was long overdue at the return address of its local owner... The Nashville SM reported shipment at the appointed time and... therefore... the local Post Office Department was alerted... The scene now shifts to the Nashville P. O. where silversmith was called to explain the contents of said package... being held there... And that's where OUTER WRAPPINGS come into play... For its journey to Florence (a DRY city) the silver service had been packed in an empty ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE case... At long last our gracious Florence subject is again pouring from her lovely service... It seems to us a timely tale.

ASK THE LADY to remove her glove... That is... if the lady is Mary Jane Darby... and if you hanker to see the sparkler that ever dimmed your vision... It's a combination WEDDING ANNIVERSARY and Christmas gift from (hubby) Elton... An eight-carat edition (according to our eye measurin'-rod) which you'll certainly want to see... (Our advice... the first glimpse should be taken in partial shade...)

LIVING IT UP in Miami Beach... Virginia Carr has been a guest at THE CRILLON... a fabulous resort hotel... for the past two weeks... returning Saturday to Florence... It's the very nicest vacation story we've heard in "many a moon" at the white-washed turn you to Virginia for the tellin'.

OTHER OUT-OF-TOWNERS for the nonce are Elizabeth McCone... 206 North Wood... who journeyed to Memphis on Saturday with Sue King... She's spending this week at the Peabody... enjoying the city in its holiday dress... doing a bit o' Christmas shopping... getting the holiday spirit after the Delta fashion... LEAVING Monday for Washington... Zilla Kernachan's presence will delight friends and relatives of our Capital City during the week ahead... She is a guest of her sisters... Edna Bates and Mary Jane Powell in Alexandria, Virginia.

MADAM WAS CAUGHT napping... when Ann McCallup and (tooth doctor) Rivers Lindsey, Jr., dropped over to Russellville on Saturday soir to say their I Do's... We're told they'll take themselves off to Augusta, Georgia, to reside.

ASHCRAFTS ARE BUILDING Home On Mexican Border... are headlines we glimpsed recently on the social page of the Atlanta Journal... Betty and Gus... who moved to Texas a few years ago... are now Arizona ranchers and adobe for their new residence (which will be right on the Mexican border fence) is being made by hand in Mexico... The nearest town is two miles distant Sasabe and they plan to call their place "Rancho Gustavo." We continue to claim one-time Florentine Gus as our very own and to cherish the brief visits made "back home" to family members and friends in the district.

OFF TO CHATTANOOGA tomorrow will go Betty Barton Pride and Ann Gilchrist to charm many a uniformed gent as they attend the Christmas ball at McCallie School... They'll be chaperoned by lovely Grace Ellis... who'll probably do a bit of charming... too... with ease and delightful dignity.

A BIG WELCOME HOME to Liz Norvell who arrived in Florence on Tuesday from her present (temporary... we hope) home in Thahran, Saudi Arabia... after stopping en route to visit former Florentine Clara Villiers in a regular story-book setting in Hawaii.

ORCHIDS TO SWEETIE HIGHTOWER... since a skid on her backdoor step left her with a broken arm... She's recuperating at the family home on Lella...

COMRADES GOT TOGETHER... Just about the nicest Christmas party ever, was the covered-dish luncheon at the home of Lil Holmes... on Old Jackson Road... other day... Always lovely... and especially so with its holiday attire... Lil's home was radiant with decorations of the Season as The Comrade's Class of First Methodist Church gathered thirty-five strong...

AND NOW... CHEERIO and goodby... until more news comes through The Spillway...

goal. Things like charm, a well-trained mind, character.

A nice long visit to your aunt next Summer, perhaps, but always a visit, mind you. Come home after it's over and stand your ground.

With a changed attitude on your part things should take on a different color soon.

Let's Talk It Over
By SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze, My problem is my sister who is two years older than I am, but the way she expects me to wait on her is very sickening to me.

She is very pretty. Or that is what everybody tells her. And she really goes for it in a big way. (Frankly, she doesn't look so good to me. But maybe I am just disgusted.)

I am very tired of pressing her blouses and washing her hose. She does nothing but stand in front of a mirror, and when we're in the car she keeps the mirror turned so she can peep in. We're in the same grade at school because she was sick a long time once and just never would study hard and make it up. And so my folks even make me do her homework. And she goes out on dates at night and fusses awful when she comes in if I'm not through with every bit of it.

She has a lot of boy friends. And every time I say I'm tired of having to wait on her all the time, she says, "You're just jealous of men." That's the way every single conversation ends.

I'm thinking about going to live with my aunt. Please tell me if you think this is best.

"Sissy."

Dear "Sissy," I think you should lift yourself by your bootstraps into a better frame of mind. Then begin immediately to refuse to do the washing and ironing chores.

Often a person who has experienced a long illness during childhood ends up a spoiled brat, but if your sister is well enough now to "go out on dates," etc., I see no reason why she should be allowed to continually brow-beat you. I should think your parents would raise a voice.

Don't do any more school homework for her, either. She needs to do her own in order to train her mental faculties, and besides, there's quite a dishonest tinge to the way she's getting by on your efforts. It's a bit like cheating on exams, if you ask me.

As for her accusation that you're jealous, I can only say that I hope she's wrong. A pretty face lasts only a few years at best and I'd like to see you strike for a higher

As amended in 1956, the law provides that farm employers must report for social security purposes the cash wages of any employee who earns at least $150 cash wages annually, or who works for a farm employer on a time basis on at least 20 different days during the year. The farm employer must pay 4 1/4% social security tax on each affected employee; the employer of course may deduct 2 1/4% of the tax payable from each worker's pay to the employee's share of the cost of the program. The social security tax reports on all employees who are affected by this change during the 1958 calendar year must be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue on or before January 31, 1959. Domestic workers employed on a farm operated for profit are included just as other farm employees under the program.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by the Physician as a health service of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

BLOOD VESSEL DISEASES

There are approximately one thousand miles of blood vessels in the average human body. These vessels vary in size from about one and one-half to two inches in diameter to a size so small that they would transmit only one blood cell at a time.

The parts of the circulatory system which supply the extremities of the body are known as the peripheral blood vessels. Two of the most common diseases involving the peripheral blood vessels are Buerger's disease and arteriosclerosis. In Buerger's disease there is an inflammation within the lining of the blood vessel wall which produces a thickening and a resultant narrowing of the luminal opening. In a diseased blood vessel, a deposit of a fatty substance, known as cholesterol, will be evident in the inner lining layer and the layer immediately beneath it. This is the abnormal deposition which occurs in the condition known as arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries.

Both conditions then produce not only a narrowing of the luminal opening but also a loss of elasticity of these blood vessel walls. Thus the blood flow is not even and smooth as it should be but more or less impeded and even obstructed. In addition to impairing the blood flow, the deposits and infections responsible for the narrowing of the blood vessels can produce such a pronounced narrowing that blood clots can be formed within the artery itself which ultimately may lead to the development of gangrene.

While Buerger's disease and arteriosclerosis produce changes throughout the body, these changes are much more extensive in the lower extremities. They result in muscle cramping on walking, coldness of the skin of the feet, as well as a change in color and consistency of the skin. The skin is thin and inelastic in the involved ex-termities and may be extremely pale or fiery red or dark blue in color.

There are several diagnostic tools to aid the physician in determining the extent of inadequate circulation. Once the exact diagnosis has been established, every effort is made to improve the blood flow. Management is directed to the prevention of a recurrence of an acute episode and prevention of the development of a gangrenous condition.

BSU Open House Held On Sunday

Special Honor Paid To Miss Randall, Director Of Center Past 4 Years

The Baptist Student Union of Florence State College kept open house at the Center Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. They included faculty, students, and members of the local congregation on their invitation list, and more than 200 called. This affair was a special honor to Miss Mary Jo Randall, Director of the Center for the past four years. She is leaving in mid-January for a stay with her family in Eufaula before sailing for Japan on March 11. Miss Randall is entering the Baptist Mission field. She explains that the first two years will be devoted almost entirely to learning the language and the customs of the Japanese.

For the party occasion a color motif of pink and silver was developed throughout the reception rooms with coronations, Christmas bells, and silvered foliage. Garlands on the stairs were repeated in the doorways, and madonnas were featured on the mantels.

Among those assisting were: Peggy Norton, BSU president, and Betty Baker, Social Chairman; Ida Meeker, Jo Smith, Carolyn Crawford, Marilyn Barr, Linda Sims, Katherine Sherer, Peggy Kirkpatrick, Mary Tom Rikard, Jimmy Moore, Harold Gibson, Phillip Williams, Clarence Smith, Charles Bruce, Shyrone Worlund.

Background music was played by Betty Lynn Miller and Mary Virginia Roan.

Tree Farm Tips

Trees are like other crops in more ways than one, and young stands of trees probably are more like cotton than any other crop. More cotton is planted than is expected to grow to maturity, and this is usually the case with trees, whether they are planted by man or nature.

Thinning of timber stands is based on the theory that a given acre of soil will grow a certain amount of wood each year, regardless of the number of trees, if there is adequate stocking. If that growth is concentrated on the correct number of trees, they will grow bigger and faster.

Of course, nature will thin trees, but when that happens, you have no control over the quality or number of trees that survive. Also, you lose the growth that goes on the trees that die in the struggle for survival.

Frequently, natural stands need thinning before the trees get big enough to sell. Whether to do this or not is a decision you will have to make, based on whether the increased growth on the trees to be left will pay you for the time and work it takes to do the job.

Most areas, especially if they are over-stocked, will need thinning after the trees reach pulpwood size and before they grow large enough for other products, such as sawtimber, utility poles, pilings and veneer bolts.

There are several rules of thumb for thinning, but foresters debate the value of sticking with any set rule all the time. Frequently, the spacing of the trees to be left boils down to common sense, based on one or two general principles.

One important rule is, always mark the trees to be cut. And see to it that all marked trees are removed, and that the unmarked ones are not harvested.

Early thinnings serve the important function of stand improvement. In going through to mark the trees to be cut, be sure you get all the crooked, diseased and otherwise poor quality trees on the first cut. They will never be really valuable, anyway, and it is better to let the future growth be put on your best trees.

In picking out the trees to be left, try to pick those of good form, with the best and most uniform crowns, and with at least 30 to 40 per cent of the total height in foliage. Watch it at the other end, too, because a tree with foliage over 50 per cent of its total height will produce a limby, knotty log of poor quality. One with less than 30 per cent foliage has a hard time producing enough plant food for fast growth.

Above all, don't be afraid to take out plenty of trees. They need room, sunlight and moisture, and if your thinning is too light, it may have to be repeated in a couple of years. Leave some daylight between the tops of trees remaining in your stand, and try to thin so the crowns will close in five to seven years.

Technical foresters usually try to take out about one third the volume and one half the trees when they thin. That way, you have sawtimber and pole timber much sooner than if each tree has to fight its way all its life.

One word of caution: Be careful of bugs. If you thin during the tree's growing season, spring and summer, try to spread your cutting out so that it is fairly constant.

That way, the Ips (engraver) beetle will keep moving on to freshly cut limbs and tops, and will not bother live trees. Of course, during the fall and winter months, this is not a problem.

Ordinarily, thinnings can be made every five to 10 years, depending upon the growth rate on a particular site and the volume taken out on each thinning. By the time a few thinnings have been made, you should have a top-notch stand of high quality sawlogs and poles, tall and straight, that will go a long way toward paying for a child's education, or for your own retirement.

Also, I assure you, I have no desire for the world to think of me primarily as a poultryman." This article extracted from ma- terial published in the Nov. 29th issue of the TV Guide.

Every time I think about the Ralph Graham family, I think of a book which was extremely popular several years ago—"Cheaper by the Dozen"—I rather imagine that family could write its own version.

Their version might very well be even more of a "best seller" than the original because first to last, the members of this family are quite interesting.

Three of these attractive people have already graduated from Florence State; five more are on the way to graduation. Two are seniors—Samuel and Maurice—one is a sophomore—Patrick—and two more are freshmen—Bill, and the lone feminine representative, Phoebe.

Evidently, Florence State is a family affair with the Grahams, not only do the younger members of the clan claim FSC as alma mater, so does their father who graduated in 1939.

Who's Who and Hall of Fame have finally been announced. For some reason, the whole thing (Hall of Fame more so than the Who's Who election) must be kept a deep dark secret until the announcement is made in the Flor-Ala, oh, well.

At any rate, a student-faculty committee chose Betty Baker, Eldridge, Barbara Brown, Paris, Tennessee, Jimmy Hooper, Russellville, Maurice Reece, Haleyville, and Doug Crawford, Birmingham to represent FSC in the Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Members of the Hall of Fame are selected by a committee set up by the Flor-Ala consisting of students from the F-A staff, students at large, and faculty members. Membership in the Hall of Fame is an honor bestowed by the Flor-Ala upon four students of junior or senior level who have been active on the campus.

This year's additions to the Hall are Jack Akin, head proctor of Keller Hall; Doug Crawford, SGA president; Gerda Newton, WSGA secretary; and Maurice Reece, Flor-Ala editor.

GWC Day Is Proclaimed Jan. 5

January 5 has been named George Washington Carver Day by Gov. James E. Folsom.

In his proclamation, the Chief Executive said: "On Jan. 5, 1943 George Washington Carver died and the whole world mourned his passing. He had devoted his life to helping his fellowmen and his accomplishments were many."

"In the field of agriculture and conservation," the Governor said, "the whole world has benefited from his many discoveries and from his writings. This great scientist was also a deeply religious man who taught Bible classes and believed that science confirmed the Scripture and that the natural world and the spiritual world were closely united."

The less men think the more they talk.

A Salute to DALE COUNTY

PEANUTS and PIGS

... the Two "P's" of Progress

Rich in history and Indian lore, DALE is one of the most progressive of Alabama's 67 counties. It was created in 1824 and named for Gen. Samuel Dale, famous Indian fighter and member of the Alabama Hall of Fame.

While diversification has greatly enhanced the economy of DALE county, peanuts and pigs still remain its two basic "P's" of progress. The Dale County Swine Breeders Association, organized in 1916, was the first of its kind in the nation.

With its sizeable personnel and impressive purchases, Ft. Rucker—permanent U. S. Army aviation headquarters—is also contributing much to the economic fabric of this county.

Another factor aiding the prosperity of DALE county, and Alabama as a whole, is the considerable amount of state, county and municipal taxes paid annually by the Brewing Industry. In 1957, for instance, this totaled some $8 million. Certainly the light, bright beverages of moderation—beer and ale—pay their way handsomely!

Church

"Watch Your Step" was the sermon theme of Rev. Arthur Finch Sunday morning at the Pleasant Hill Methodist Church.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Pleasant Hill had a special program Monday night at the church to promote the supply work. Mrs. Russell Chynoweth was in charge. A girls' chorus made up of Wanda Rhodes, Mary Elizabeth Crowder, Jean Seaton, Myra Pickens, Theresa McDonald, Jinnie Johnson, Sue Lovelace, Linda and Glenda Butler, Susan Darby, Lola Balentine and Francis Burns with Nancy Seaton pianist presented the musical portion of the program.

Rev. W. C. Hendricks, pastor of St. Johns Methodist, showed slides on the poor conditions of Korea. The meeting closed after a social period.

Personals

Mrs. Stanley Smith is on the sick list.

Mrs. James McDonald, with her husband, went to see her aunt, Mrs. Donie Trammell, who is a patient at the Baptist Hospital in Birmingham.

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Hunt and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Darby.

Mrs. Pearl Haddock, Mrs. Charles Hargett and son Eddie were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hill of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., spent the week-end with Rev. and Mrs. Arthur and family.

Social Security Benefits Changed

The 1958 Amendments made significant changes in the law relating to disability. The change in the work requirements will enable some disabled people who previously could not have their social security record "frozen," or who could not get disability payments at or after age 50, to qualify now. These are workers who were found to be too severely disabled for further substantial gainful activity but who had not worked at least 1½ years out of the three years right before they became disabled.

In particular, the case of a Mr. J. When he applied for disability protection last year, he was found to be too severely disabled for further work. He had worked under social security 5 out of the 10 years before his disability began—a requirement which still holds. Mr. J.'s type of disability, however, was one that developed gradually. It was diagnosed as rheumatoid arthritis combined with progressive rheumatoid. He had been able to work intermittently during the three years before he became totally disabled, but not enough to meet the "½ out of 30 years" requirement in the old law. Consequently, we had to reject his claim for disability benefits. If Mr. J., and other disabled workers whose claims for the "freeze" or benefit payments were denied for similar reasons, will get in touch with the social security office and file new applications, their claims will now be valid.

The change in the law relating to benefits for dependents or disabled family breadwinners will be of help to Mr. J. as well as to many disability beneficiaries now on the rolls. Mr. J., now over 50, has two children under 18 who are in the care of Mrs. J. Under the law, as amended, Mrs. J. and the children now are eligible for monthly payments as the dependents of a qualified disabled worker. Dependents of disabled worker-beneficiaries who can now qualify for benefits are: children under 18, a disabled child over 18 whose disability began before that age, a wife aged 62 or older, a dependent husband 65 or over, or a wife under age 62 if she is caring for a child entitled to benefits. While payments to dependents or disabled family breadwinners begin with September 1958, they cannot start until an application is filed through the social security office.

Pay For Disability Explained By VA

A veteran who receives disability severance pay from the Armed Forces will have the amount of such pay recovered by the Government if he is awarded Veterans Administration compensation for the same disability.

That's the warning sounded today by Harley A. Smith, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Montgomery.

In such cases, he said, the law required that the VA monthly compensation payments revert to the Government until the amount recovered is equal to the amount of disability severance pay the veteran received.

The Government begins recovery of disability severance pay only after VA compensation has been awarded, Smith emphasized. He said recovery cannot be avoided by allowing a time lapse between receipt of the severance pay and the date of application for VA compensation.

Authorized in 1949, disability severance pay may be paid in a lump sum upon discharge of an active duty member of the Armed Forces whose line-of-duty disability renders him unfit for duty, but which is less than 30 percent in degree and therefore does not entitle him to disability retired pay from the service.

Income Tax Fax You Should Know

Now is the time to think about the tax bill you are going to pay next year because now is the time you can do something about it. You can take action now that will reduce the bill, or, if tax is withheld from your paychecks, increase the refund you will get.

There are no simple questions in taxes.

These columns are intended to help you in a general way to know the questions about your income and deductions and to give information of a general nature so you will be aware of the savings that may be open to you. Each taxpayer has individual circumstances and individual problems. Perhaps the simplest question you can ask is, "Do I have to file a tax return?" You do have to file if:

You are under 65 years of age and your income is $600.00 or more or if you are over 65 years of age and your income is over $1,200.00.

The above applies to statutory income so before we can completely answer your question, "Do I have to file an income tax return?" we have to know the source of your income. Many kinds of income are not taxed, such as: Social Security payments; Unemployment Insurance payments; compensation for injuries; some pensions; and many other types of income are not statutory income subject to tax.

That is what some later columns will be about—what income is taxed and what is not taxed.

Assuming you have statutory income of over $600.00 or $1,200.00 you are required to file an income tax return regardless of whether you are a man, woman or child. You are required to file even though you may owe no tax.

Also, if your income was from self-employment and was more than $400.00 you are required to file an income tax return and report and pay your self-employment tax even though you do not owe income tax.

If you worked for wages and had income tax withheld from your paychecks you should file a tax return even though your earnings were less than $600.00 (or $1,200.00) and Uncle Sam will refund to you the tax withheld from your wages.

The simplest question in taxes is, "Do I have to file an income tax return?" and you can see from the above that there is no simple answer.

You should consult the accountant of your choice as early as possible so that he will have plenty of time to prepare your tax return properly.

(The foregoing is the first of 50 timely articles released by Alabama Association of Public Accountants, an affiliate of the National Society of Public Accountants.)

Tax Experts Hear Executive Speak

A top executive in the General Electric Company told Alabama tax experts that the citizens of this country need "a new education in economics, a new concept of the morals of freedom, and a new knowledge and sophistication about politics."

Lemuel R. Boulware, vice president of the large industry, made the statement at the 12th annual Federal Tax Clinic at the University on November 21.

"The sort of thing we need to learn about economics," he suggested, "is where good jobs come from, what makes them continue to be available, what makes them go away, and what are the facts about money and inflation."

The number one problem in the country today, Mr. Boulware said, is "the false expectation the individual citizen has about how much his government can 'give' him at little or no extra cost or effort."

Soil Preparation Must For Shrubs

Many people lose new plants because they don't prepare the soil properly before setting the plant out.

"Improper soil preparation is a key factor in plant losses," says API Extension Horticulturist Troy Keeble. "For most ornamental trees and shrubs, you need rich, well drained soil. To prepare the soil thoroughly, you should dig a hole twice as large as the ball of soil containing the roots, or twice as large as the root system of a bare root plant," he explained. "If the soil from the hole is poor, it should be discarded or used to stop erosion."

A soil mixture consisting of two parts organic matter, one part sand and one part topsoil, should be placed underneath and to the sides of the roots. Keeble advises filling the hole partially with the soil mixture and tramping it down lightly, so that once the plant has settled, it will be approximately the same depth that it grew in the nursery or container.

When you purchase your plant, the roots should be wrapped in paper or burlap to prevent excessive drying. "If you plan to buy your plants in the afternoon," warns Keeble, "be sure to prepare the soil before you get the plants. If you leave your plants out overnight, they will dry out and you may lose them."

If there is a soil fertilization problem in your area, see your county agent. He can tell you how to have a soil test made, which is the best way to determine what kind and how much fertilizer to use, Keeble concluded.

Powell Family Finds Remodeling Worthwhile Job

Even though the Vernon Newberns plan to live in their present home only a short time, they felt that it was worthwhile to make the place as livable as possible without spending much money.

They've managed to do a lot at a minimum cost, too, observes Mrs. Marilyn Moore, assistant home agent in Lauderdale County. Besides a new sink, a hot water heater, and a linoleum rug for the living room, they spent only $30 for paper, paint, paste, and other materials.

Agent Moore assisted the Farm and Home Development Society with plans for remodeling, which includes removing a partition between the hall and living room, papering the walls and painting the woodwork, and painting the kitchen floor. Also, a mixing center for the kitchen was made by removing the top section from an old kitchen cabinet.

The result of the remodeling, says Mrs. Moore, is a light, cheerful home, reports Mrs. Moore.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his child's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Play to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	1	1-4
Monday	Luke	8	11-15
Tuesday	John	5	11-13
Wednesday	Proverbs	6	21-23
Thursday	Psalm	10	1-11
Friday	Deuteronomy	28	11-13
Saturday	Revelation	22	1-7

Through every generation and in every nation—people have looked for peace and security. Hundreds of volumes have been written on the subject and thinkers and writers have devoted their lives to the search.

But of all these books, the Bible is most concerned with peace and security. "Fear not, for I am with you; be not dismayed for I am your God."

No man-made philosophy can banish the worries and troubles of life. But in the gospel we find assurance of His care.

God loves us. When we go to Him in humility, He cleanses us of sin. Our minds are put at ease. Peace fills our souls.

Go then to the Book that Lives. Through study, prayer and worship we will find that peace which has been granted to millions in every corner of the globe. Discover anew your life through the Book that Lives.

Farmers To Vote On Cotton Issue

Referendum To Be Held Between 8 A. M. and 6 P. M., December 15th

How farmers vote in the cotton marketing quota referendum to be held throughout the Nation's cotton-growing area on December 15, will determine whether quota penalties will apply, the kind of allotment program in effect, and also the level of price support for 1959 crop cotton. The referendum therefore is of vital concern to every cotton grower, says Joe J. Rasch, Chairman of the Lauderdale County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The marketing quota program will be in operation for next year's crop, the chairman explains, if at least two-thirds of the votes cast in the referendum are in favor of the program. In that case, farm operators will have an opportunity to elect a choice between (A) complying with their "Regular" farm allotments—with price support available at not less than 80 percent of parity for the 1958 crop of upland cotton, or (B) complying with an increased farm allotment to percent larger than the "regular" farm allotment—with support at a level 15 percent of parity lower than under the first choice; quota at a level 15 percent of parity lower than under the first choice; quota penalties will apply to any cotton produced in excess of the chosen allotment.

If more than one-third of the votes are against quotas, there would be no quota penalties, only the "regular" allotments would be available, and the price support level to eligible growers would drop to 50 percent of parity.

All farmers who were engaged in the production of upland cotton in 1958 will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

The referendum will be held between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Monday, December 15, at the following polling places: Atlas, Corbett Smith's Store; Killen, J. A. Lice And Cattle Grubs Major Pests

Lice and grubs are major pests to be controlled by Alabama farmers during winter months.

Speaking in Auburn last week, A. P. Extension Entomologist, W. A. Ruffin, said that at this time of the year cattle grubs have worked their way through the animal's body to just below the surface of the skin along the back. These pests then cut air holes through the skin and thus reduce the selling price as much as $10 per animal.

Lice, another major winter pest, prevent beef cattle from gaining weight rapidly and cut down on milk production in dairy animals, Ruffin explained.

Both cattle grubs and lice can be controlled by spraying or dusting with rotenone. A spray of 7 1/2

Corner on Cotton

Like to have some more cotton acreage free? ... maybe you can get it, even if you select Choice "A" in the new farm bill, and there are no strings attached.

It depends upon what's happening in your county to the acreage reserve of the soil bank ... unless there are some changes next year, there won't be a reserve and some cotton acreage that was in the reserve may be abandoned ... the acreage should be released to the county Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation (ASC) committee for reallocation but chances are this isn't being done ... check now with your ASC committee and try to track down acreage that is being abandoned—it could mean lots more cotton acreage for your county, acreage that will be lost to cotton otherwise.

Production Meet

A belt-wide cotton production meeting is slated for December 17-18 at Houston, Texas ... sponsored by the National Cotton Council, the meeting will concern itself with "growing cotton for profit and markets" ... could prove profitable to anybody who attends.

Cotton Untasty?

Research is underway to find out what the boll weevil likes in a cotton plant ... hopes are that a plant can be developed that the pest will find untasty ... think what it would mean if suddenly there were no boll weevil problem!!! You could save up to 10 cents a pound by not having to fight them.

More About Farm Bill

The U. S. Department of Agriculture gives you until March 15, 1959, to make up your mind as to which way you'll go on Choice "A" or "B" cotton ... of course, many of you will have to make up your mind very soon because of tenant-owner agreements ... the legislation continues to be misunderstood in the cotton belt ... be certain to talk it over with some well-informed folks before leaning either way ... especially talk about price possibilities ... of course, nobody knows for sure, but there are several hidden angles that could change your whole picture.

Mills Stretchout

Some textile mills are giving longer holidays and stretching out their cotton operations as much as possible ... reason is they feel that the '59 crop is going to be available at prices more competitive with man-made fibers ... seems reasonable for them to take steps to enter the '59 season with as low an inventory as possible ... this combination of a more competitive price and low inventories should lead to a healthier and freer market.

Cotton Report As Of Dec. 1

The 1958 cotton crop for Alabama is estimated at 445,000 equivalent 500-pound gross weight bales based on information from growers' estimates as of December 1. This is 5,000 bales below the November forecast and compares with 530,000 bales produced in 1957 and the 1957-58 average production of 584,000 bales.

Acreage of cotton harvested in Alabama this year is estimated at 530,000 acres compared with 735,000 acres harvested in 1957. Acreage harvested in 1958 is the smallest of record for Alabama, due largely to participation in the Soil Bank program. The 10-year average acreage harvested for the State is 1,421,000. The average yield this year is estimated at 403 pounds of lint cotton per acre. This is second only to the record high 1955 yield of 478 pounds per acre. Harvest weather for the 1958 crop has been ideal. Picking was finished in most areas on December 1, but a significant volume of cotton remained to be harvested in north Alabama, particularly in the Tennessee Valley counties.

Ginnings in Alabama prior to December 1 amounted to 427,718 running bales according to the United States Bureau of the Census.

pounds of five percent rotenone to 100 gallons of water will be effective if applied at 200 to 400 pounds of pressure along the backs of the cattle.

A two percent rotenone dust can be used on dairy animals and 4-H calves that are gentle enough to be dusted. Two or three treatments of rotenone are necessary, the specialist pointed out.

Lice alone on beef animals and non-lactating dairy cattle can best be controlled with lindane, methoxychlor, or toxaphene spray. One treatment with any of these materials diluted as recommended will give good lice control all winter.

A dust containing pyrethrin or rotenone is the only material that can be used on lactating dairy animals for control of lice, Ruffin said. Two treatments in two-week period with either of these materials is required for lice control.

Produce New Plants From Old

If you want more of your favorite plants, try producing new plants from old ones.

Increase the number of your plants by layering, advises Troy Keeble, APT Extension ornamental horticulturist. Simple layering is particularly easy with plants that have flexible stems.

Stems are prepared for layering by making a notch on the under side, just below a node; this should be done in early spring.

Dig a trench about six inches deep near the stem. Mix peat, or some other organic material, with the loose soil. Silt the stem and bend it so that the slit part will be two or three inches deep in the trench. Then leave the tip, with leaves intact, to protrude above the ground. Firm the soil around the stem, and hold it in place with a bent wire, forked stick, or stone. The plant will usually root in one to six months depending on the individual plant.

Another method, says Keeble, is air layering. This method may be used on plants having flexible stems, but is more valuable for obtaining new plants from those with upright, stiff stems that can't be bent over into the soil.

Select a well-branched, upright stem, and prepare it as in simple layering. Pack three or four handfuls of sphagnum moss around the slit, then tie it in place with a string. A transparent freezer bag, with the closed end cut off, can be slipped over the wet moss and tied tightly at each end. Remove the rooted plants after white roots are visible through the plastic.

Layered stems are nourished by the parent plant until they have formed their own roots and are able to perform complete plant functions alone.

Once known as the candy that grows on trees, dates are one of the oldest cultivated fruits—as far back as 3500 B. C. Dates will be plentiful this year. The crop in California is expected to reach 35 million pounds. Coupled with more than a million pounds carried over from last year, this crop will mean plenty of dates for cooking and eating.
