The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

Senator John Sparkman paid a brief visit to Florence Tuesday but was in the city long enough to express himself on the recent remarks of Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler in which he virtually read out of the party Democrats who disagree sharply with the party's civil rights program. The former vice-presidential candidate pointed out that Paul Butler would not be a member of the platform committee and would have nothing to do with, nor little influence on, the writing of the platform at the National Democratic convention. It would seem to us that Mr. Butler took a nosedive into the boiling pot being prepared by the Republicans who are now shouting into the wind that there is a split in the Democratic party.

It was at a swanky social gathering and everyone was in a partying mood; that is, all but a certain doctor who was fuming. Seeing a friend of his, an attorney, across the room he walked over to him to unload his complaint. "I'm tired of being cornered by women who have personal health problems and take such occasions as this to seek medical advice. What would you do about it? Would you send her a bill?" he asked the lawyer. "Why not?" was the lawyer's reply. "You rendered professional services by giving advice." "Thanks," said the doctor, "I'll do just that." The next morning when he got around to reading his mail, he found a letter from the lawyer. It read: "For legal services, $25."

A halo need drop but a few inches to become a noose. With this in mind we often wonder how long it will be, after someone is beheaded with praise before the same person will begin stringing him up with words of criticism and condemnation.

A neighbor noticed his friend next door was having trouble with his car and stepped over to find out the cause. "My car is just a gas hog," explained the neighbor, "so I bought a new carburetor that saved 30% on gas, a new timer that saved 50% on gas, and a new set of plugs that saved 40% on gas." "But what happened?" inquired the inquisitive one. "After I'd gone about ten miles, the darn tank overflowed," was the explanation.

The Texan was visiting in an Eastern city recently where he was guest in an exclusive businessman's club. Naturally, his hosts wanted to hear everything possible about Texas. "In my early years," he said, "I had a small sheep ranch. One day my wife was dyeing some bedspreads when a little lamb fell into the bucket of dye. Shortly afterwards, a passing motorist saw the lamb with the blue fleece and bought it for $50. So, seeing the possibility of making a killing, I began dyeing all my lambs, which brought big profits. I colored them blue, pink yellow, green and lavender—and today, gentlemen, believe it or not, I am the biggest lamb dyer in Texas."

The man and his wife, who just had to go out in the lobby for a smoke between acts, failed to return after the second act had started. The bright lights on the stage and the darkened theater had them a bit confused as to just where their seats happened to be. Finding a likely row, the man asked the fellow in the end seat if he had stepped on his toes as he left his seat a short time before. The man expecting an apology, grimly replied: "You certainly did." The "returnee" turned to his wife: "Come on Mary, this is our row."

Each automobile ad you read stresses the increased horsepower of each and every model. If it were possible to increase the auto driver's brainpower at the same rate, there would be fewer traffic fatalities on the highways.

Dixie Leaders Demand Butler Be Dismissed

Eisenhower In California In Attempt To Seal Party Rift; Criticizes Demos

The prediction was made Tuesday by several ranking Alabama Democrats that Paul Butler would be dismissed because of his week-end declaration that Southern Democrats should agree with national party platforms or get out.

Charles W. McKay Jr., of Sylacauga, Alabama Democratic National Committeeman, said "Butler long ago served out his usefulness, if he ever had any, to the Democratic Party."

In a statement made by Judge Roy Mayhall of Jasper, chairman of the present State Democratic Executive Committee he said, "Butler is not in position to dictate the policy of the Democratic Party in 1958 or 1960. It has long been well known among Democratic leaders in the North as well as in the South that Paul Butler is on his way out as party chairman."

Claude O. Vardaman state GOP chairman, said: "Over the past week-end, Harry Truman and Paul Butler told the Democrats of the South to bow down and worship the civil rights program enunciated by the radical wing of the Democratic Party, or get out of the party."

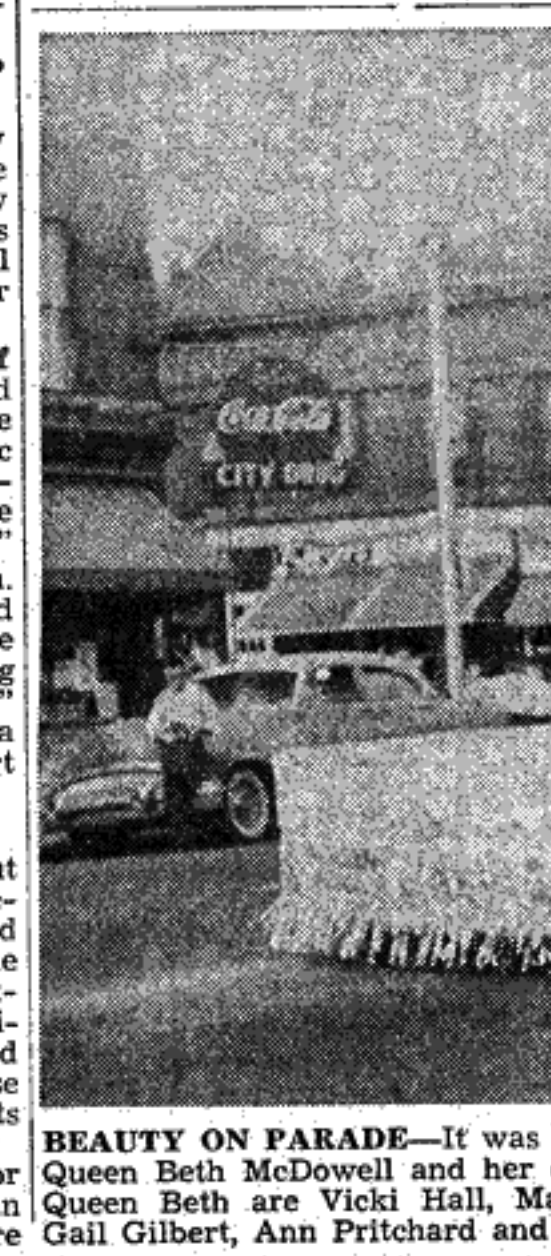

"We invite all Democrats of Alabama to take Mr. Truman and Mr. Butler at their words and leave the radical-dominated Democratic Party of today and join the Republican Party, where their voice and their votes will be welcome."

However in Wheeling, W. Va. Butler appeared to soften his biting speech of Monday night when he said, "We're certainly not going to read anybody out of the party." He added that he did not think a party platform split would hurt the party in the 1960 election.

Ike Criticizes Demos
President Eisenhower, without referring to the Butler-Dixie ruckus, said the Democrats are divided into widely separated wings—one in the South and "at the other extreme"—the stronger wing, dominated by political radicals. He said Democratic critics of his defense policies are "political merchants of fear and defeat."

control of Congress. The President, in California, sailed into the Democrats as a party "hopelessly split down the middle." He said his administration justified support for Republican candidates from "coast to coast."

Mr. Eisenhower's Los Angeles speech was called the hardest hitting speech of his political career. He came to California mainly to boost the candidacy of Sen. William F. Knowland; and in his race for the governorship and the bid of Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for Knowland's Senate seat. A party split occurred when Knowland moved into the race after Knight announced he intended to seek reelection, and Knowland's championing of a right-to-work proposal which would bar the union shop in California.

Federal Agents Refused Access To Vote Records

Registration Documents Held As 'Private' By Atty. General Patterson

BULLETIN

A. H. Rosenfield, a director in the Civil Rights Commission's office in Washington indicated Wednesday that a showdown may be brewing today although he said he did not know what the action would be. "The commission will have to consider some sort of action when it meets in Washington Thursday (today)," Rosenfield said.

Registration officials in Macon County Wednesday continued to withhold their voter records from federal agents after officials from the Government Civil Rights Commission requested them Monday.

Chairman of the Macon County board, E. P. Livingston, said he and his two colleagues acted on advice of the attorney general in withholding the records. He said the two agents left after hinting at court action in the matter though there was no official indication of the next move. They were identified as Burton J. Goodyear and O. J. Peterson but were unavailable for comment.

Atty. General John Patterson insisted that registration documents are private rather than public and urged county boards of registrars to keep them out of the hands of federal agents.

While Chairman, Mrs. C. B. Willis of Montgomery County promised to resist demands for access to the records in that county by federal agents, Chairman John A. Repoll of Mobile Board of Registrars, said federal investigators would be welcome to look at his records.

In Washington Gordon Tiffany, staff director of the new Civil Rights commission said he would not comment until a full report is received from the men in the field. "We've had men in Macon County before," he said, "and they received courteous treatment."

Macon County, where Tuskegee Institute is located has long been plagued by racial strife, Negroes outnumbering whites by 6 to 1. However whites have a 2 to 1 advantage at the polls.

Negroes have accused the board of discrimination but registration officials deny the charges.

Congressman Appointed Chairman Of Special House Roads Committee

Chairman Charles A. Buckley of the House Public Works Committee today notified Congressman Bob Jones that he has been appointed Chairman of a Special Committee to represent the United States at the International Roads Conference in Mexico City, October 24-28.

Congressman Jones will be the principal speaker for the U. S. congressional delegation at this International Conference. The Committee, composed of five House Members, will represent the U. S. Congress at this important international session in Mexico City on road construction and will also inspect sections of the Inter-American Highway linking North and South America.

As a ranking Democratic Member of the House Public Works Committee which handles all legislation on public roads, Congressman Jones has played a leading role in obtaining congressional approval of the Interstate Highway System Act of 1956 and the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1958. During the last session of Congress, Jones successfully blocked a move on the House Floor to divert funds from Federal highway appropriations to other projects, thereby assuring full implementation of the Interstate Highway Act.

Secretary Said Not In Formosa To Apply Heat

The Chinese Communist batteries located on the mainland and adjacent islands resumed shelling of Quemoy this week with a considerably stepped up tempo Tuesday afternoon during a conference on Formosa between U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

A State Department spokesman said Mr. Dulles was not in Formosa to "twist anybody's arm or apply any heat or pressure. In fact Mr. Dulles' visit had been scheduled well in advance of the surprise resumption of the Red shelling of Quemoy, however there is little doubt that this had a direct bearing on the talks between Mr. Dulles and the Nationalist leader.

Dulles' first conference with Chiang was called a "stock taking of the present situation" consisting of an assessing of the political and military situation along with Communist propaganda. Joseph Greene, special assistant to Dulles, indicated that the United States might bring pressure on Chiang to cut down the off-shore islands in the hope of obtaining a permanent cease-fire, however he said applying heat or pressure "Would not be in tune with the relationship of mutual trust and confidence of the two countries as allies."

Vice President Chen Cheng of Nationalist China said to cut garrisons or pull out of Quemoy would lead to large scale war. He told a group in Taipei that he was not surprised at the Red cease-fire being broken because "all Communist pledges are worthless." He said the U. S. fully understands this.

The Red action in resuming the shelling of the Quemoy islands stiffened Nationalist resistance to any withdrawal or reduction in forces garrisoning the islands. Dulles had indicated that Washington favored a reduction of military forces in the hope a permanent cease-fire could be worked out. The Red cease-fire had lasted 15 days and was resumed 24 hours before Dulles' meeting with Chiang.

Dulles was accompanied on the Formosan trip by Walter Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs. Robertson is credited with molding much of this country's China policy.

The Red shelling caught the Nationalists by surprise and a number of casualties were reported. The Nationalists said 11,520 shells fell in about 2 1/2 hours Monday and then a sporadic shelling followed during the night.

Forty Millions Will Be Spent On Paper Mill

Site at Counce, Tenn., Near Lauderdale Line Selected For Plant

G. W. E. Nicholson, president of the Tennessee River Pulp and Paper Company announced that the company would construct a $40 million kraft paper pulp and container board mill on the Tennessee River near Savanna, Tenn. The company's principal office is in New York.

Location of the plant will be at Counce, near the Alabama-Mississippi state line and just north of Lauderdale County. Mr. Nicholson did not set a date for start of construction of the plant. Several months prior to the announcement the company purchased 100,000 acres of timber land in Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi and took options on property on the river above the Tennessee line. Sheffield is said to have been considered as a site at one time.

Mr. Nicholson said the company had exercised its option on 1500 acres near Savannah for future construction. He said the plant as planned would have a daily capacity of 500 tons of kraft paper and container board and would employ more than 1,000 persons in the plant and timber lands.

The Challenge Of The Day

The theories of some so-called experts on crime have been rudely shattered in recent years, especially those who have contended that poverty and slum conditions have been the greatest offenders.

For the past several years crime has been mounting in an ever-increasing crescendo and during a time when more slum clearance and more money has been spent on recreation and social reforms than at any previous time. In addition the country has enjoyed greater prosperity than at any previous time, measuring prosperity by higher wages, greater production and so on. Even during the current recession wages have continued high and no country in the world has as little downright poverty as this nation. In fact poverty as it is known abroad has all but disappeared here.

Over two-and-a-half million crimes are committed annually in the United States, with an appalling percentage committed by teen-age offenders. And there seems to be no one reason for this terrible waste of human assets but a complexity of causes the most significant of which is parental neglect. "Out of sight, out of mind," is too often the philosophy of parents who are too busy with their jobs or social activities to give their offspring the necessary discipline, love and security that makes for good citizenship. Too often the task of "raising" children is left up to the school teacher, parents little realizing that this individual is too often at her wits end in coping with children from homes that give them no sense of security or discipline.

Environment does most of the rest of crime breeding because such children seek companionship in gangs that give them the individuality and importance they miss at home. Soon they run afoul of the law and in many cases it is then too late to help them.

Hundreds of radio and television programs, magazines and motion pictures depict sex and crime as everyday occurrences. Violence and killing has become the heroic thing to do. Small wonder the juvenile without the background of a real homelife becomes possessed of a warped view of life. Actually some parents seem ashamed to use such words as "virtue and vice, good and evil."

To rescue the individual character from its present low estate, to check this rapid deterioration of America, is the searching challenge of the day to our homes, our schools and our communities.

Farewell States Rights

States' rights, to all effects and purposes, has been nullified and with this deterioration of states' rights democracy itself is in grave danger. One cannot exist without the other.

The Supreme Court's edict declaring racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional and its order banning segregation enforced with federal troops, was a definite step in the invasion and ultimate destruction of states' rights. The dignity of the individual who protested such action counted naught as the high tribunal trampled the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, into the dust.

There is little use and little time to go into the multitude of problems arising out of such a decision but suffice to say the Supreme Court's refusal to review cases involving racial issues at the request of the governors of the sovereign states of Arkansas and Virginia should awaken every American to the sad news that there is no longer a place where he may make a final appeal for justice.

Now the states are helpless to exercise any sort of control over subversive organizations that may operate within their respective boundaries since a precedent has been set in Virginia whose laws have been voided that would require organizations which engage in racial litigation or collect funds for such purposes, to register with the state.

This high-handed action by a special three-judge U. S. Circuit Court in Richmond transcends the mere right or wrong of segregation and should alarm the people of every state in the Union. It constitutes a simultaneous invasion of all of the states.

Some of us said a few short years ago, "It can't happen here." Sad to say, it has happened here.

Dr. Blake Speaker At Exchange Meet

Dr. W. H. Blake, Sheffield physician and surgeon, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Exchange Club at the Reeder Hotel Tuesday noon. Dr. William Bradley was in charge of program arrangements and presented the speaker.

Dr. Blake, who has recently returned from a month-long trip to Alaska accompanied by his brother, Dr. Tom Blake and his two teenage sons from Jackson, Miss., used this as his topic.

Dr. Blake stressed that his interest in Alaska stemmed from his youth and opened his remarks with Robert W. Service's poem, "Spell of the Yukon." Leaving Alabama by plane, Dr. Blake flew to the southern part of the Alcan Highway, where at that point the 1500 mile journey up the highway was made by bus. A long and tiring 33 hours was made with only a few stops at uninhabited bus stops.

The life history of gold, Dr. Blake found, starts at Fairbanks, where it is mined and purified, and then is sent to Ft. Knox where it is buried.

This is the general procedure with the exception of once a year when gold is up for sale. Two thousand buyers representing jewelers, dentists, and others buy the different types of golds to use in their work that is necessary for their trade. The government pays $35 an ounce for the gold but due to the cost of clerical help during this sale, gold is sold to these buyers for $45 an ounce.

The next point of interest, Dr. Blake said with his party, was Fort Barrow, the northernmost inhabited point of Alaska. It was here he learned contrary to early knowledge based on fallacies that Eskimos do not live in igloos. Their homes are built in the ground and due to this, one home visited was 8000 years old, being preserved for that length of time.

The final stop was made at Skagway where a pageant was being held celebrating the 60th anniversary of the killing of dangerous Dan McGrew, one of the most colorful stories to come out of our 49th State.

Dr. Blake concluded his entertaining program with the R. W. Service poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Thomas Ascraft was initiated to club membership by Harold May and Curtis Meeks, a transfer Exchangeite, was welcomed into membership. I. F. Parker was a guest of the club.

CANCER SOCIETY HAS SUCCESSFUL CRUSADE
 Editor: Thanks to the people of Alabama and such fine public service institutions as your own, the American Cancer Society, Alabama Division, Inc., has enjoyed this year the most successful crusade in its history.

You will be pleased to know that the public-spirited citizens of Alabama contributed a record amount of $287,635 during the annual crusade. As always, 25 cents of each dollar contributed will be used for scientific research to find the causes and cures for cancer, and the remainder will be used to carry on the cancer society's programs of education and service to medically indigent cancer patients.

In creased giving to support the work of the American Cancer Society throughout the nation indicates that the will of the people is that nothing should stand in the way of going forward with the fight to control cancer with all possible speed, and this is the course that is being pursued by the National Board of Directors, made up of medical and lay delegates from all the states, by each division and each unit of the society. In this tremendous undertaking, the help of our public information media and the local level is of vital importance.

Alabama's press and radio and television stations have always been most cooperative with the work of the American Cancer Society, and for this, I wish to express the deep appreciation of the officers and directors of the Alabama Division. Without your help, our past successes would not have been possible, and only with your enthusiastic assistance will we be able to make the greatest possible speed in the fight to conquer this terrible disease, save lives and alleviate human suffering.

Yours very truly,
 John Day Peake, M. D.

Virginia Ann Dison Weds Louis S. Hurn

Marked by an afternoon ceremony in Springfield Presbyterian Church, Virginia Ann Dison became the bride of Louis S. Hurn on Saturday, October fourth.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert Dison, Rogersville, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hurn of Cleveland, Ohio. Triple arches were held by with English ivy and flanked by great baskets filled with gladioli and chrysanthemums to fashion the candlelight altar. The Reverend E. C. Shepard officiated in the four o'clock service.

Mr. Dison gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of Chantilly lace over satin was designed with fitted bodice featuring a scalloped bateau neckline, and her finger-tip veil of illusion was held by a cap of lace and flanked by sequins and pearls. With her white prayer book she carried a white orchid showered with stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Margaret Burns served her sister as honor attendant and lighting the candles were Myra White and Kenneth Davis. Best man for the bridegroom was Vernon Hurn of Athens and ushers were Jimmy Phillips and Larry Davis of Lexington.

The bride's parents entertained immediately after the ceremony, honoring their daughter and son-in-law with a reception in the church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurn have returned from a Northern honeymoon and are at home at 518 North Cherry Street, Florence.

Miss Janie Ruth Miner Bride of James E. Hall

Wearing white nylon lace and tulle over bridal satin, Janie Ruth Miner exchanged marriage vows with James Eugene Hall on Sunday afternoon, October twelfth, in Jackson Heights Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miner of Florence and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Herbert Edwards and of James H. Hall of Jacksonville, Florida.

Gilbert Kretzer, minister of Weeden Heights Church of Christ, heard their pledges at four o'clock after vocal selections by Miss Ann Kretzer, Cyril Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Barry Anderson.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her floor-length, full-skirted gown was designed with close-fitting bodice finished at the neckline with small collar and the sleeves were long and tapered to points over the hands. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and her bouquet was of American Beauty roses.

The bride's sisters were her attendants. Mrs. Hazel Cagle, matron of honor, wore a frock of aqua nylon lace over taffeta and Miss Faye Miner was in pink. Head-dresses of pink rosebuds and tulle completed their attire.

Miss Helen Miner, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Grace Koebeke were candlelighters, wearing dresses of similar design and material, one of pastel green, the other blue. Their head-dresses matched the attendants'.

Miss Cagle of Athens was best man for the bridegroom and ushers were Larry and Garry Gooch. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miner were reception hosts at their home, 230 North Royal Avenue. A tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table and tall tapers in crystal holders illumined the setting.

Assisting were Mrs. Billy Cagle, Miss Grace Koebeke, Mrs. Hugh Brown and Mrs. Roland Behel.

On leaving for their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, Mrs. Hall changed to an aqua faille suit with which she wore matching accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

They are now at home in Melbourne, Florida, where Mr. Hall is serving with the United States Air Force at nearby Patrick AF Base.

Miss Donna Louise Irwin Betrothed to James Bull

Presaging a December nuptial event is the announcement which has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Irwin, Florence, of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Donna Louise, to James Bull of Winchester, Tennessee, and the late Mrs. Bull.

Miss Irwin attended Florence State College and is presently enrolled at Larimore Business College and her fiancé, who attended the University of Tennessee and Murfreesboro State College, is now affiliated with business in Florence.

They have chosen December twenty-eighth as their wedding day.

Miss Winters, Mr. Spencer To Wed in Early November

Mr. Spencer is a graduate of the University of Louisville. The date will be announced.

Paxton, Jr., 1102 Graham Avenue, Florence.

Cotton Crop Tops For This Area

Good Weather Prevailing Boosts Cotton Harvest During Past Two Weeks

Records returned from cotton classing offices to county extension agents reveal outstanding grades and staple for cotton being picked in Colbert and Lauderdale counties.

With some 50 to 60 per cent of the 1958 crop having been harvested, County Agent L. T. Wagon of Lauderdale said "the records from the classing office are as good as I have seen for this area this time of year."

He said there were some gins in the county which could improve, but as a whole farmers are picking cotton clean and the gins are sending off good samples. Wagon and Ben Richardson, Colbert Extension worker, both gave credit to the good weather of the past two weeks as boosting the cotton harvest.

THE SPILLWAY

AT SEVENTEEN WE knew it all ... Ah yes ... quite positively ... But we are saved by what we've learned Since getting our degree ...

AND WE'RE STILL learning ...

Something new each day ... and always from YOU ... dear readers ...

F'INSTANCE ... this very morning we learned of Fay McKinley's ...

Marion Adams of Charlotte, North Carolina ... newspaper woman par excellence ...

column is a feature of the Charlotte Observer ... (We think we were told 'tis syndicated) ...

an all-about-fashions daily chat ... and we felt real cabbage patchy as we listened ...

She's recently returned from New York where she was feted along with Lily Dache and other famous names ...

THE WHOLE BUILDING buzzed (Florence Municipal) on Monday when the lovely and efficient secretary of the affable gas dept. manager ...

received a Special Delivery package through Uncle Sam's mail ... and moments later slipped a handsome sparkler on her third finger ...

stationed in New York State ... "It all started early last Summer when I visited my sister in Florida" ...

said secretary ... (it seems) he was enjoying the sun and sand of the same swanky resort town ...

Madam extends congrats to the charming gent from old Virginia ... and concedes with several very sad sents of old Florida town ...

A TRUE HOMECOMING was Coffee Hi's of last week-end ... with former grads arriving from schools and colleges in all directions ...

and festive entertaining on all sides ... There was the Neelon SPEND-THE-NIGHT on Friday at the home of Diana Rice in Oakland which climaxed our exciting victory over Athens and the "Sack Hop" which followed at the Rec Center ...

And there was the Neelon banquet and dance at the Muscle Shoals Hotel on Saturday soir which is always BIG NEWS ... particularly since the DECORATIONS vie with the FUN-FEST to defy description ...

"STAND BACK to make way for her majesty ... BETH McDOWELL ... and escort MIMS ROGERS, JR." ...

That was the advice given out by the Birmingham Post-Herald in their Around The Towns column of last Friday ... and we rejoice to have them give a hand in telling people up and down the length and breadth about the celebration we were having ...

TWAS REAL FUN seeing Gertrude Swann on her first visit "back home" after losing her to Birmingham last June ...

She was greeted by good friends Lucille and Tom ("Opp") Oppenheim at their lovely Palisade Drive home ...

and welcomed with open arms by all who'd known her during her years in Florence ... A social whirl accompanied the entire week ...

what with luncheons small ... medium and (to our way of thinkin') large ... There were Town Club meals and bridge four-somes ...

dinner engagements and movie invitations ... If she didn't already know how she stands with us ... there can no longer be any doubt ...

Our hearts were on our sleeves for all and sundry to see ...

THE YEAR'S MOST colorful season was caught at it's peak by Lois Morris and Isabel Williams who're entertaining their friends with a series of luncheons at the Morris' "Lookaway" ...

the Morris' Summer home out Lauderdale Beach Road ... Combining delicious cuisine with delightful chit-chat and that simply gorgeous view ... there's NOTHING left to wish for ...

TAKING ADVANTAGE of the beautiful Autumn days are golfers Hilda Shipper and Olga Beasley who are often seen making the rounds of the Country Club course ...

and playing a really excellent game ...

KAPPA DELTAS in SESSION today ... and WHAT a session ...

It's taking place out at Martha Gilbert's on River view Drive and 'twas inspired by the arrival this morning from Anniston of Hasseltine Caudle Grebnaur ...

Martha's roommate and sorority sister of Judson College days ... Also present will be two other Judson Kds of contemporary college years ...

Marcie Glenn of 718 Sherrod Avenue and Louise Ashe of Other Side of the River ... Hasseltine will remain through tomorrow ...

IT COULD HAPPEN HERE ... and that's just what it DID ...

Knowledgeable Pearl Sparks was unceremoniously asked for some historical dates and ... with characteristic modesty ... replied, "About the only one I'm sure of is 1492 ..."

Interestedly her honest questioner quickly asked, "What happened that year?" ...

WELCOME NEWCOMER ... William Ray Cadenhead, Jr., who arrived at ECM Hospital on October twelfth ... and whose dotting parents are Rascal (Pattillo) and Bill of 122 Norwood Court ...

AND NOW ... CHEERIO and goodby ... until more news comes through The Spillway ...

Leo Views

the College Campus

By Dottie McKae

The campus is blooming with Homecoming — float building, dormitory decorating, and general confusion.

Yesterday, the Queen and her court appeared on Channel 6 television and were interviewed by Tom York. Tomorrow night at the pep rally the football team will be introduced and cheered. Amid all the excitement and between meetings of various kinds, students are working frantically to have everything ready for Saturday.

Alpha-Frats, the group that organized last spring in an attempt to bring a fraternity to the FSC campus is fast becoming one of the more active groups on the campus. They're planning a float for the parade and a couple of dances during the year.

They have taken in some new pledges and have just ordered pins. Looks like they are one of the really "actives."

Pretty soon now the rehearsal Club will have its first production of the fall on stage. This year's first play is to be the Thornton Wilder farce, "The Matchmaker."

If this one is even half as well done as "Dude" of a Salesman" was it will be a success.

The less said about the ball game, the better. We lost by an awful score and that's about the size of it. We are bound to beat Troy, though, I hope.

Let's Talk It Over By SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,

What can a fellow do when women just seem drawn to him?

Now take me, for instance. I am a married man and I have a very understanding wife. There's not one bit of friction at home, though I often wonder why not.

What I mean is this—if men flocked around her like women do around me, I'd probably raise merry Ned. I think I'd get it into my head that she was flirting, or that she was encouraging them with some sort of come-on.

But the fact is she doesn't even seem to notice. Not even when I'm singled out of a group and asked to come for a "little ride" by the most sought-after woman at a party (as actually has happened on several occasions.)

Do you have any helpful suggestions? I certainly hope you'll comment on this situation.

Bewildered.

Delighted to comment. I suggest radical surgery. Have your ego removed and I think you'll be almost as normal as the average.

Your wife's indifference to this silly tommy-rot has probably been the straw that's kept your swelled head from bursting. I dislike to think of the embarrassment you must have caused her on many occasions.

Dear Mrs. Saze,

I am so depressed about something and I hope you can tell me what you think is wrong. It is about my friends. It looks like every time I make one I lose two.

And I just love them and this nearly kills me. But I try not to show how it hurts me when they get cool and indifferent.

Please give me your advice. Sometimes I feel desperate.

"Sixteen."

Dear "Sixteen,"

A great number of sixteen-year-olds feel desperate at times and also a great number of all other age groups. I'd say it's a mood and, in most cases, it quickly passes. Always be sure that you consider it as such and make an effort to shake away from it.

That old rule: "To have a friend BE one," usually works. To it I would add: Do NOT be overly possessive.

Also, guard diligently against a sensitive nature. Most of us seem to love best those friends whose shoulders are clear of chips.

Choir rehearsal Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the Methodist Church.

Bible study Wednesday evening at the Church of Christ.

At present, many of our pupils are out of school because of the harvesting of the cotton, but we, as teachers, are looking forward to the time when each one can be back and attend regularly. Too much stress cannot be put upon the importance of regular attendance.

On October 15, the 4-H Club leaders, Miss Anne Phillips and Albert Heaslet met in our school to organize the elementary and junior high club work for this year. Miss Phillips is new in our district and county this year, and we are happy to have her as the leader of the girls. We are also happy to have Mr. Heaslet.

Officers for the elementary girls this year are: president, Sue Wylie; vice, president, Ann Roberson; secretary, Cheryl Dewberry; song leaders, Merita, Bruce and Anne Vaughn; Reporter, Judy White.

Officers for the elementary boys are: president, Bobby Roberson; vice president, Bill Clingan; Secretary, Jackie Robinson; song leaders, Jimmy McIntyre and Mike Clingan.

Officers for the junior high school group are: president, Brenda Robinson; vice president, Vernon Allison; secretary, Mae Frances Haddock; Treasurer, Norman Hall; Reporter, Annette Smith; song leaders, Carolyn Wilbanks and Jerry Kelso.

After the election of officers and other preliminaries, the leaders discussed with the groups the nature and importance of club work. Also enrollment cards were filled out and projects for the year discussed and chosen in some instances.

We feel that 4-H Club work is important and we find that most groups are interested in participating in it.

At our last P.-T. A. meeting, it was decided that all rooms would choose room mothers for the year. Mrs. E. F. Cagle and Mrs. Owen Murphy have graciously consented to be the room mothers for the fifth grade this year.

Waterloo Adult Program Is Set

Committees Named To Undertake Number Of Projects During Year

The second meeting of the Waterloo High School Vocational Agriculture and Home Economics meeting was held at the school Monday night October 13 at 7:30. Mr. C. T. Wilson, vice-chairman called the meeting to order. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the chairman then explained to the group how the program for the year was made up.

These meetings are set to run for ten meetings with a meal being the last meeting in May. The members attending are divided into two teams to increase interest and help the attendance. The losing team will be responsible for the meal at the May meeting.

Community beautification was discussed with the group at this last meeting. Such projects as signs for the churches in the community, highway signs, and bill boards advertising the community, mail box post, painting of farm buildings, and the landscaping of the churches and homes of the community were suggested as ways to help beautify the community.

After a very interesting discussion the group divided into committees to work on the various projects during the year. The following committees, and chairman were set up: sign committee, chairman, Mr. Berl Harrison; landscaping committee, chairman, Mrs. Roby; painting committee, chairman, Mrs. Robie Murphy; mailbox post committee, chairman, Mrs. Helen Lard.

These committees are going to start their work. Each will report to the group at the November meeting on their progress. The committee showing the most progress will be entertained by the other three committees at a later time.

This activity is a part of the Waterloo High School program and is under the supervision of Miss Elaine Blackwell and William B. Hagood, Vocational Home Economics and Agriculture teachers.

The next meeting will be November 10th. The public is invited.

Athens Falls To Yellow Jackets

Coffee's Homecoming Nets Sixth Straight Win As Fans See Thriller

Coffee Yellow Jackets celebrated their homecoming Saturday with a 20-0 victory over the Athens Golden Eagles. The victory was Coffee's sixth straight of the 1958 season.

Tailback Jimmy Olive ran and passed the club to victory with regular Quarterback Donnie Cook out of the encounter early in the game. Due credit also must go to the Coffee forward wall for its lethal blocks and deadly tackling.

The Jackets walked off the field with a 7-0 edge at half-time due to a first quarter touchdown and a stellar defense.

The Eagles, with Quarterback Johnny Walden advanced from their own 36 to Coffee's 29 early in the first quarter, but at that point the Jacket defense rose to the occasion and took over at the 27 four plays later. After making a first down, the Jackets were forced to punt from the 45 and it rolled dead at the Athens' 31.

The Eagles hit for a quick first down but an alert Tank Mitchell stopped the drive and put Coffee in position for the touchdown as he recovered a Welliden fumble at the Eagles' 42.

With Cook on the sidelines injured, Olive took over on offense and after a five yard penalty against Athens, shot right guard for 10 yards to the 27 and a Coffee third down. Charley Young added three yards and then it was all over. Coffee scored from the 14 for six points. The PAT was good. The tally was made with 1:56 showing on the clock.

The second and third quarters showed nothing on the scoreboard for either team until the last period when Coffee broke loose for 13 points with Olive throwing 15 to Stags for one score and Pitts' 32 yard runback of an intercepted pass. Cook attempted both PAT with one being blocked for the 20-0 score.

The Yellow Jackets, as a result of their impressive victory over Athens, have moved into the No. 1 spot in the Tennessee Valley Conference.

From The Simple Side

By THE FARMER'S WIFE

In so simple a thing we see a pattern some times, don't we? The thought came to my mind recently while watching a child stacking his blocks. There is always that desire to put just one more block on his already tall tower, and with the addition of this last block the tower comes falling down. How like life, thought I, and how much he represents the older human being who has long since given up the stacking of blocks but who has taken in their place the acquisition of dreams, desires, and plans for the future. How hard we strive to acquire just one more goal and then after that like the child stacking the blocks we reach out on another conquest. Some times, like the child too, we reach for too much in our desire with him to heighten our "stack" of achievements and sometime because of our greediness they come falling down around us.

But—the part of the adult human which is ever the same as that of the child will never be any different and a child could never be taught not to try to make his stack of blocks reach too high, for the desire to build higher is strong, and he continues his efforts. Yet, in all of this the pattern seen there is good—for just as building his stack of blocks higher and of rebuilding it after it's topple down keeps the child occupied and happy so do our own efforts at living keep us happy and hopeful as we continue to build on our dreams and hopes for tomorrow.

How wonderful if all of mankind could be more like the child too in his efforts to re-build at times—times when it becomes necessary to rebuild because of circumstance or tragedy. How wonderful if the rebuilding of a life could be attacked with the same zest and zeal that a child finds to rebuild his toppled stack of blocks.

385 Registrants In November Call

State Director James W. Jones said today that 385 Alabamians will be called for induction during the month of November to fill a Selective Service quota of 157 men.

Of the 385 to be called, 254 are volunteer registrants, not examined. These registrants will have a complete mental and physical examination at the time of delivery for induction.

Jones said that approximately 60 per cent would probably be disqualified for service. Only 157 will be inducted he said.

The national call for November will be 11,000 men, the same as October. Lauderdale County will supply nine men.

Alabama's quota includes volunteers, delinquents, and registrants in Class I-A, or I-A-O, who are 22 years of age and older, without children.

Soil Test Proves To Be Profitable

A soil test worked so well for corn that John Joe Eckl of St. Florian decided a soil test was a must before he embarked on alfalfa.

As the soil lab advised, the Lauderdale County farmer used four tons of lime plus 1,000 pounds of 0-10-20 with 25 to 30 pounds of boron per acre.

Eckl broke the land, harrowed it, and then followed it just before planting a recommended variety of alfalfa. He waited to plant until after a good rain in late summer and is now looking forward to a good hay and forage crop next year.

The Eckl farm of 228 acres is located on Florence Rt. 5.

A Woman's Purse Is Her Office, But State National Bank Can Help Her

A woman's purse is her office. It usually controls the spending of most of the family income. Between 80 and 90 per cent of all buying is done by women, and most women spend each dollar wisely and carefully.

Many housewives make State National their first stop on payday. First they budget the necessary amount for living expenses and deposit it in a checking account. Some go into a savings account, too, for future needs. Women like banking at State National.

News Of POWELL
By Mrs. J. N. Phillips

Church

One hundred thirteen attended Sunday school at the Bethel Baptist Church on Sunday morning, with others arriving for the eleven o'clock worship service. There was one addition to the church at the morning service, that of Mrs. Oneta Ross. In the evening sixty eight attended Training Union and evening worship. We were happy to have visitors worship with us at both the morning and evening services.

Saturday night is the regular monthly meeting of the WMU organizations and the Brotherhood. The board of Deacons met in the home of the Pastor, the Rev. Mr. McDougal, last Saturday night, for a business meeting.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Bailey and children, the Rev. Mr. McDougal family and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Burgess visited the W. R. Dosses in their new home at Tusculum Sunday. The occasion was a celebration of Mr. Ross's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlus Cole, neither of whom can hear nor speak, visited in the H. W. Phillips home this week.

On Thursday Mrs. Oma Camp attended a "get together" of some teacher friends at the home of Mrs. Lucille (Hightower) Black at East Limestone. Mrs. Black once taught at Union Hill.

Miss Elsie Rice from Oakland spent Saturday night and Sunday in the home of Mrs. Oma Camp.

A shower was given in the home of Mrs. Frank Nunley on Saturday evening, honoring Miss Shirley Nunley, soon to become the bride of Hulan Burbanks.

The former Pauline Phillips, formerly of our community and now living in Florida has been visiting relatives here.

The Andrew McConnell's and Mrs. Johnny B. Thorne visited family members in Florida last week.

Food for thought is the only kind that has not been affected in cost by the current inflation.

This TOO Is Texas Eastern

Ready for Winter with 105 billion cubic feet of gas in underground storage

When the icy blasts of winter sweep across the country, demands for fuel to heat homes and offices call for deliveries of extremely large volumes of natural gas.

Texas Eastern is ready and able to satisfy these demands through use of one of the world's largest underground storage reservoirs for natural gas—Oakford Storage Pool in southwestern Pennsylvania. This pool was developed jointly with another gas company and one-half of its capacity is available for use by each company.

Oakford is able to hold in storage 105 billion cubic feet of gas. To do this, two depleted gas sand formations are utilized. Oakford was selected for this purpose because its sands are ideally adapted to hold the gas and prevent leakage, and assure high deliverability when it comes time to remove the gas for Winter use.

All Summer, when demand is least, Texas Eastern pumps large volumes of gas into Oakford replacing what was used during the previous cold weather season. When Winter arrives, the pool is full and the gas is removed as needed to fill the increased demands.

Texas Eastern combines long-distance pipelines and underground storage to assure a continuing, ample supply—the year 'round—of this clean, economical and adaptable fuel—NATURAL GAS.

Come to Church for Services

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER—STAYS TOGETHER"

THE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Luke	2	21-33
Monday	Luke	2	41-53
Tuesday	Matthew	2	15-33
Wednesday	Genesis	18	10
Thursday	Proverbs	1	5
Friday	Proverbs	23	22-35
Saturday	II Timothy	1	6

One of the great days in Joe's life . . . and not just because it's a birthday.

It's THE birthday. The third birthday, which, in the custom of Joe's church, brings a child to the threshold of formal religious education.

Already Dad and Mother have taught him his prayers. Simple Bible stories have brightened bedtime. And Joe has enjoyed many a happy hour in the church nursery while his parents worshipped.

But during this important third year of his life he will become a full-fledged Sunday School pupil. He'll be a "regular" in the Beginners' Department.

And Joe's parents are going to join an adult class. For, while starting-age may vary slightly in one church or another, all Christendom knows that sound religious education depends on The Big Three—Father, Mother, and Child!

Farm Review and Forecast

Produces Good Quality Seed

Good high-quality seed are highly important to production of any crop planted. D. S. Belew of the Elgin community in Lauderdale County realizes the importance of producing good high-quality seed. Belew has observed on his farm that planting seed of poor quality may result in poor stands and reduction in yield even though all other practices like time of planting and proper fertilization may be carried out according to recommendations. In order that he can supply his seed needs with good high-quality seed, Belew has planted good seed over the years. In 1958, Mr. Belew planted four acres of Foundation De Sota oats, four acres of Foundation Arlington oats, and six acres of Breeder Victor grain 48-93 oats. Fifteen acres of Breeder Coker 47-27 wheat and fifteen acres of Breeder Anderson wheat was also planted in 1958.

Mr. Belew is quick to say that without good high quality seed his yields would be reduced considerably.

In addition to producing small grain for grain, Belew also has some 70 head of beef cattle on his Elgin farm.

Army Pvt. Tonice E. Johnson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ace Johnson, Route 1, Lexington, is receiving eight weeks of automotive maintenance training at Fort Chaffee, Ark. The training is scheduled to be concluded Oct. 17.

The nation used to have to import leather to supply its demand. Now cattle hides are surplus. Soles of 7 out of 10 pairs of shoes are part or all synthetic.

SOYBEAN EXPERT—W. B. England of Florence, Rt. 4, is quite an expert at producing soybeans. This year he's growing 100 acres of the beans for oil purposes. And he expects to harvest an average of 40 bushels per acre—twice the state average. Here, the Lauderdale County farmer (left), his son Glennie (center), and County Agent L. T. Wagon examine samples of the fine crop.

Production Of Soybeans Is Growing Enterprise

Production of soybeans for oil is a growing enterprise in Lauderdale County, according to County Agent, L. T. Wagon.

"Although most of the soybeans grown for oil purposes in Alabama have been produced in the southern part of the state, the crop definitely can be grown here profitably," Mr. Wagon said.

"W. B. England of the Burcham community is presenting a good example of what the crop will do in this county," continued Wagon. England got his recommendations for growing soybeans from the Handbook of Alabama Agriculture, prepared by the API Extension Service. He's estimating a 40-bushel-per-acre average yield from 100 acres at harvest.

"That's twice the state's average yield of 20 bushels per acre," declared the farm agent.

England isn't guessing as much as one might think, either. Last year he harvested 60 bushels per acre on some of his land—averaging 40 bushels per acre over-all. What prompted this former TVA worker to get into the soybean business? Well, when England first gave up his TVA job and returned to the farm, he started raising cotton as his main source of income. Then he added wheat. But the next thing he knew wheat allotments went into effect and the farmer saw 85 of 100 acres of his wheat crop yanked away. And all along he had been watching cotton acreage dwindle some each year.

So a diversified operation seemed to be the best hedging program, and that's why England added soybeans and is now laying the groundwork for a 10-sow hog operation.

Of course there were other factors, such as available labor, the cost of producing cotton, and the risks involved where only one cash crop is being grown. But England has his son, Glennie—who finished high school, married, and moved back to the farm—to help him with his farm program. That's one reason he is able to expand to include other income producers.

Getting back to the soybean crop, though, England split the acreage, planting 50 in the Ogdin variety and 50 in Lee. Planting dates covered a period of about 15 days—from May 15 to June 1. However, he planted some of both varieties each time. The difference in maturity dates of the two varieties results in staggered harvesting dates. This gives the farmer a chance to take care of other enterprises on the farm and harvest the beans in between.

One advantage of the Lee variety, said England, is its shatter resistance. When mature, this variety will stand without shattering until he can get around to harvesting it. On the other hand, the Ogdin beans, although England believes they produce the highest yield, will pop out of the pod within a short period after maturity. This is another reason he plants the two varieties; he can find time to harvest the Ogdin when they are ready and still maintain other farming chores.

The Englands own a 42-acre farm and rent 443 other acres, giving them a total of 485 acres. Their planned expansion for next year includes another 100 acres of soybeans, a hog unit, sufficient corn to feed the livestock, hay, some cattle, and 50 acres of cotton that they left off this year. And planting the 15 acres of wheat allowed per farm will give them about 60 acres all told, since they have the contract on four farms.

'Winterizing' Of Livestock Urged

Ten-Point Program Is Outlined To Assure Healthier Animals

A 10-point program for "winterizing" livestock was recommended to farmers today by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

Highlights of the plan, designed to provide better winter health and production are:

1. Check sanitation and ventilation facilities of hog and poultry houses to guard against pneumonia and other respiratory diseases.
2. Exercise caution in allowing cattle into drought-stricken fields of corn, Sudan grass or cane, since poisonings may result.
3. Have ewes treated for internal parasites before the fall breeding season.
4. Examine cattle on pasture for lice, ring worm, warts and lumpy jaw, and have affected animals treated before winter confinement.
5. Set up a workable mastitis program for dairy herds before winter confinement season.
6. Isolate newly-arrived feeder cattle and feeder lambs for a reasonable period before allowing them to run with the home herds and flocks.

Land Owners To Meet To Discuss Forest Resources

Alabama's private forest land owners who will meet in a statewide conference at Montgomery Nov. 12 own 95 percent of the state's volume of live sawtimber and have produced the bulk of all classes of forest materials in the state during recent years.

In a statement here today, Alabama State Forester J. M. Stauffer said that in addition to the figures above, the national Timber Resources review shows that Alabama's forest lands are owned 15.1 percent by wood using industries, 39.1 percent by farmers, 41.1 percent by other private owners and 4.7 percent in public lands.

"The state of Alabama owes the majority of her forest economy to small woodlands owners. They have produced the bulk of our forest raw materials in the past and will continue to do so in the future."

"We hope that these woodland owners will join together for a day of discussion at Montgomery's Whitley Hotel on Nov. 12 to tell state and federal agencies and forest industries what can be done to aid in increasing production on the small woodlands," Stauffer said.
