

ALABAMA'S NEW STATE OFFICE BUILDING, located behind the State Capitol, Montgomery, is nearing completion and will be dedicated by Gov. James E. Folsom this fall. It has taken 20 months to build and will house 18 State agencies. Some 800 State employees will work in this seven-story building which has 165,000 square feet of office space, 25,000 square feet of storage space, an auditorium to seat 750, a cafeteria, and four electronic elevators. The structure has cost $2,960,000 exclusive of the elevators, and is being financed by a bond issue authorized by the 1955 Legislature, and administered by the Alabama State Building Authority composed of the Governor, State Finance Director and Attorney-General.

The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

The prolonged drought had ruined the corn crop (not here—not this year) and the farmers were in a bad way. One afternoon, three of them were seated in front of the country store bawling their lot. As they sat on the porch discussing their desperate situation, they passed a jug of pure corn from one to the other, drinking freely. Finally, one said: "My wife is a wonderful woman to stick to me through this drought. Right now I am having a hard time feeding my family but when my next crop comes in I'm going to buy her a piano and a phonograph." "That's a good idea," said the second farmer. "I'm going to buy my wife a cap of her own and all the new clothes she wants." The third man had listened to the remarks of his friends, then said: "Better pass me that jug again—I ain't even out of debt yet!"

After someone has won big money on a TV quiz program, the next question is: "How much of that loot will he be able to keep—that is, when Uncle Sam has taken his cut?" As a guide, we might advise that of the $220,500.00 won by Elfrida Von Nardoff, the affable Internal Revenue collector allowed her to keep $50,048.00—which is not so bad for a few weeks suffering in a hot isolation booth.

The small son of a British nobleman and his divorced American wife had just returned to England after spending a year with his mother in the United States. He had attended school in this country and was well up on things American. As part of his entertainment immediately following his arrival, his father took the youngster to the theatre. As is usual, before the rise of the curtain, the band struck up "God Save the Queen." As father sang away, he heard his son singing: "My Country 'tis of thee . . ." The father, much alarmed, exclaimed: "Oh, my sainted aunt. The poor boy's been brainwashed!"

The word "economy" having long since lost its original meaning in American households, is now used to describe a large-size package.

A friend, who has had more than his share of out-of-town visitors this summer, tells us that in his opinion there seems to be little difference between in-laws and outlaws.

You can be certain that you have reached middle age when all you exercise is caution.

Keep your nose to the grindstone, your ear to the ground and your hand on the throttle—and you'll soon be looking for relief from a strained back.

There's one thing you can say for a book—it does not interrupt you at the most interesting part to have a word from a sponsor.

The old timer points out that to err is human—but when you wear out the eraser before the pencil, you're overdoing it.

Temper is a funny thing. It spoils children, ruins men, strengthens steel.

A little boy was being told by his mother about the Golden Rule. "Just remember," she said, "that we are here to help others." The youngster thought it over and asked: "Well, what are the others here for?"

We just heard of young parents who throw away their alarm clock. They knew it is time to get up when the baby goes to sleep.

Jewish High Holydays Schedule Announced

Dr. Gallinger, Of Tri-Cities Temple, Offers Meditation For New Year

Services at the Temple B'nai Israel will be held on Sunday and Tuesday, Sept. 14 and 23, at 8 o'clock in the evening, and on Monday and Wednesday, Sept. 15 and 24, at 10 o'clock in the morning. The Atonement Day worship, an all-day meeting continuing until dusk on Sept. 24, will conclude the High Holydays period. Dr. Gallinger will be in the pulpit. On New Year's eve, Sept. 13, he will speak on "I Will Be I"; on New Year's day, the next morning, his topic will be "Man is Greater than You Think."

Sam Israel, president of the Tri-Cities Jewish Congregation, and Mrs. Harold A. Weinbaum, president of the Sisterhood, have extended a cordial welcome to all who wish to join in the celebration of the holiday. The Jewish High Holydays, celebrated in Temples and Synagogues each year around the beginning of the autumn season, are a time of introspection, according to Dr. Joseph S. Gallinger, rabbi of Temple B'nai Israel in the Tri-Cities. The prayers recited, the sermons preached, and the music heard, he said in announcing the local schedule of worship, are meant to be conducive to reflection on how man can strengthen his moral striving, how he can deepen his faith during the months to come.

The festive worship is marked, he stated, by melodies of the Ram's Horn (Shofar), reminiscent of God's call to man from Mount Sinai, and the music heard, followed by a period of silence challenging the worshipper to listen to, and answer, the "still small voice" of his soul. The message of the Jewish New Year's celebration is expressed in the following meditation by Rabbi Gallinger.

New Year's Message
As we approach the High Holyday season, it behooves us to reconsider the religious verities that shape our destinies, and follow the stirrings of greater religiosity to come in increased Temple and Church memberships, in more beautiful sanctuaries, and more useful school buildings springing up all over the land. We see it in the rising publication figures of religious books and periodicals. We see it in increased attendance at worship and at religious instruction. We see it in organizational, congregational, and charitable efforts. But where we do not see it yet, and where it would count the most, is in personal consecration, in individual dedication, in the direct communion between man and God. We do not see enough of it in the home, be it a Jewish home or that of any other faith.

There is the great void in our age: We lack the consecrated commitment of our souls. When men come to their ministers, they come for reassurance that God is still good. They do not come with their own selfless confirmation of the goodness of man. We rabbis, as well as our Christian colleagues in the ministry, are often asked by souls in distress: "Why did this have to happen to me?" "How can a good God tolerate such suffering?" We are not yet being asked, "Where have I missed the mark of goodness that evil should come to me." That would be the question of the truly God-searching, penitent, pious person. The late Paul Hutchinson put it bluntly: "For what today's cult of reassurance most lacks—and indeed disavows—is a sense of life's inevitable failures."

Twelve servicemen were killed Tuesday when an Air Force C-47 transport plane carrying 19 persons faltered after take-off and crashed at Elmendorf Air Force Base in Alaska. The twin-engine plane burned after it hit the ground from a fall of some 800 feet, it was announced. The 12 survivors were reported in satisfactory condition. Army authorities at the base said today.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Wednesday that it was not true that Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's aide recently under fire for accepting gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, had resigned. "There has been no resignation in any shape, form or manner submitted by Gov. Adams," Hagerty said. Adams was unavailable for comment.

Attorney General John Patterson sent two members of his staff to Columbus, Ga., to study the government's attempt to force the Terrell County, Ga., board of registrars to place certain Negro voters on the voters list of that county. Patterson commented that "this action amounts to a frontal attack by the Republican Administration against state and local governments . . . and I have assigned two of my men to go to Georgia and look into the case and observe the actions of the Federal government first hand."

Sen. Spessard Holland defeated former Sen. Claude Pepper in a comeback attempt in Florida Tuesday in that state's Democratic primary. In other primaries, Gov. Ernest McFarland in Arizona in returns to date had rolled up a two-to-one margin over Democratic National Committeeman Stephen Langmade. McFarland's November Republican opponent will be Sen. Barry Goldwater. There were no party changes in Vermont or in Massachusetts. Sen. John Kennedy and Gov. Foster Furcolo easily won Democratic renomination victories. In Colorado Democratic Governor Steve Nichols won the Democratic renomination without opposition.

Dulles Hints U. S. May Give Ground In Dealing With Far Eastern Problem

Secretary Says We Will Defend Nationalists

In an effort to forestall what could be a much more involved conflict, in the Far East, U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in conference with newsmen in Washington Tuesday, said any dependable "no-shooting pledge by the Peiping regime would certainly be a 'very constructive new element in the situation which might have further consequences.'"

Dulles statement raised the prospect of American concessions that could affect the future of embattled Quemoy. He called for an immediate start of talks in Warsaw between U. S. and Red Chinese ambassadors in an effort to ease the tension over Formosa. Dulles coupled his appeal for negotiations with the strongest official comments yet by an administration leader when he hinted this country would fight to help Nationalist China repel an invasion of Quemoy, an island of China's mainland.

Dulles did not commit the United States precisely however, but he did indicate that this country would seek agreements with the Reds along specific lines. When asked if the U. S. would recommend evacuation of Quemoy, Matsuo and other offshore islands if the Reds agreed to renounce force, Dulles replied this nation could not itself negotiate the future of the islands since they belong to Nationalist China. He did say if a Red Chinese renunciation of force were dependable and effective, it would "certainly be a new element." He declined also to say whether the U. S. would agree to Nationalist air raids on the China mainland.

Dulles refused to make other than general statements in order not to tip this country's hand in advance of the proposed Warsaw meeting.

Dulles said President Eisenhower would not hesitate ordering U. S. forces to "intervene" to help defend Quemoy as long as the Reds link its capture with their plan to "liberate" Formosa. He said the joint chiefs of staff were in agreement on this.

Shelling Continues
Chinese Reds poured over 4,000 shells into the Quemoy Islands Tuesday in the second day of renewed hostilities in the Forosa area. The barrage was directed against big and little Quemoy islands and the twin islands of Tatan and Eryhtan at the mouth of China's coastal Amor harbor.

An American correspondent said the shelling brought the war to Quemoy's capital city for the first time and turned it into a ghost city.

The Red barrage, the correspondent said was aimed primarily at the beaches and airfield in order to keep supplies from reaching Nationalist forces.

Light Vote Seen For City Election

Five Are Candidates For Only Commission Place At Stake

A voter turn-out of considerably less than 4,000 in next Monday's municipal election was foreseen today by political observers, although five candidates are contesting for the lone position at stake.

The five, who are running for the place on the Board of Commissioners now held by A. W. Darby by appointment, include Roy N. Braswell, George J. Green, W. Howard Hickman, Robert Richardson and E. T. Stovall. Mr. Darby, a former member of the commission, has held the position since July 1, when Rufus G. Hibbert resigned to become superintendent of Florence schools.

Only 4,130 votes were cast in the mayoralty race in September of 1957, observers point out in predicting a vote of possibly not much more than 3,000 Monday. And along with the election a year ago a referendum was held on the question of a bond issue to finance a new hotel, the political prophets say in support of their contention of light vote.

Should no candidate receive a majority in next Monday's election a run-off between the two highest men will be held a week later.

County's School Needs Estimated At $5 Million

Four New Buildings Called For In Survey By State Department

Construction of new buildings and additions to existing structures adequate to meet the needs of the Lauderdale County school system by 1960 would cost approximately $5 million, the county Board of Education was informed at its meeting Saturday.

The information was contained in a survey of county school needs made this spring by the State Department of Education, which indicates that four new buildings and expansion of 14 of the present buildings are necessary if school plant facilities are to reach the desired level.

Total estimated cost of meeting the recommendations of the state department survey would be $4,927,000, although this amount includes between $150,000 and $175,000 of improvements now in progress or completed for this term.

Of the nearly $5 million expenditure which the state considers adequate to care for physical needs of the county's school system, $4,325,200 would be used for schools for white children and $601,800 on schools for Negroes. The entirely new buildings which the State Department of Education recommends would be erected for Anderson elementary school, Killen Junior High, Waterloo High School and in the Underwood-Wilson School area. Cost of the wholly new construction, including school sites, site improvement and equipment, would be $1,267,000.

The additions called for in the survey include those for Central High, Cloverdale Junior High, Cross Roads, East Lauderdale High, Rogersville elementary, Lexington High, McGee elementary, Oakland Junior High, Rogers High, Underwood and Wilson among white schools and West End and East End High Schools for Negroes. The Lauderdale County board took no action on the survey made by the state other than to designate it as a desirable goal toward which to work in its school improvement program.

In its business session Saturday the board approved employment of the following teachers: James Robert Smith, Lexington; and James Cooper Johnson, Robert Terry and Miss Bess Crow, Rogersville. Miss Crow had been on leave of absence and was, in effect, re-employed.

Three new bus drivers—Martin Erwin, Rogers, Charlie B. Thompson, West End Negro School, and Buford Daniel, Waterloo—were elected as bus drivers. And, it was noted, the addition this term of eight new buses gives the county school a fleet of 81 buses in its transportation system.

Why Not A Valley C of C

Withdrawal of the Columbia-Mount Pleasant and the Gallatin (Tenn.) Chambers of Commerce from the United States Chamber of Commerce should give pause to similar groups in North Alabama to consider their relations with the U. S. Chamber.

These Tennessee civic organizations quit the U. S. Chamber in protest to the latter's proposal that private utilities and municipal distributors buy the power facilities of the Tennessee Valley Authority. They contend that the U. S. Chamber of Commerce "is determined to destroy the TVA without suggesting a workable plan for providing power to the Valley."

Not only has the U. S. Chamber, as a mouthpiece of the power trust, bent its every effort to kill off TVA, but we are a bit dubious that it has done much, if anything, to aid the South in acquiring industry. The U. S. Chamber, in our view, simply isn't the type organization that could, or would, take a sympathetic view of the rise of the South from economic serfdom.

In view of its attitude toward the Authority, might not all the cities and towns of the nine-state TVA area now affiliated with the U. S. Chamber find it sensible to withdraw their support, especially their financial aid? You don't arm your enemy in time of war, and the USCC has been at war with TVA for 25 years.

Going a step further, would not the formation of a Tennessee Valley Chamber of Commerce, with the united support of TVA it could muster, be an effective weapon with which to defend TVA against its detractors?

What Price Labor?

Congress reneged on the Kennedy-Ives Labor Reform Bill. There were some anti-union members who professed dissatisfaction with the bill because it did not deal harshly enough while others felt the bill was too stiff. Like all middle-of-the-road programs it drew a hostile barrage from both extremes.

From the standpoint of public thinking however, it was felt that Congress showed a lack of courage in sidetracking a very vital issue at a time when it should have acted. Certainly a bill with Senator McClellan's blessing should have dispelled any fears that the measure lacked substance.

Certainly reforms were needed to protect the rank and file union members, management, and the unions themselves. Actually the bill would have had no deleterious effect on well-conducted labor unions. It would have served to protect rather than hinder their legitimate activities.

Along with other things the bill would have required full disclosure of union financial data, full reports by union officers on personal conflict-of-interest transactions, complete exposure of "middle men," and other anti-union activities, and a prohibition against loans exceeding $2500 to union officers by his union or employer, false financial reports, embezzlement of union funds, and destruction of union records.

It would have legislated on trusteeships, compelled secret balloting for national union officers or the convention delegates responsible for selecting them. It would have protected the right of members to name opposition candidates, a five-year limit on tenure of office, and would have provided for the election of local union officers every two years. Picketing for extortion or payoffs would have been barred and the right to vote would have been restored to economic strikers.

Congress knew something was needed to cope with the intolerable abuses which the McClellan Rackets Committee uncovered. Certainly the development of American trade unionism would never have been possible had such abuses been common at the outset. By the same token its survival depends on a return to the principles of fair play.

A Thousand Times "No"

"Never since the initial discussions of it, has socialized medicine had so little appeal in the United States." Thus writes Herbert R. Mayes, editor of Good Housekeeping, in the 75th anniversary issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association. He goes on: "This is due in part to the depressing reports emanating from European lands where such practice is common, but in much larger part to the eminently satisfactory experience Americans have and have had with medicine in their own country. This satisfaction, it should be noted, does not go quite so far as to embrace the cost of medical care, because, even with the advent of such organizations as Blue Cross and Blue Shield, American families find the cost of medicine, particularly in the realms of surgery and chronic illness, almost more than they can cope with. But they will cope, in preference to having the Federal government participate."

The economic problems connected with medical care are being given the closest kind of study by medical groups, insurance organizations and other interested parties. There is very real hope that the magnitude of the problem will be steadily reduced. As an example, policies covering catastrophic illnesses of long duration find an increasing acceptance.

As for socialized medicine, the pressures for it have been political. There is absolutely no evidence that any large segment of the public wants it. A medical profession, free of political control, has done wonders for the health of the American people. If we are to have the maximum of progress in the future it must be kept free.

In The Week's News

Montgomery's police commissioner Clyde Sellers last week paid the fine of Negro minister Martin Luther King rather than let King go to jail on charges of loitering. The police commissioner said King wanted to be jailed as a publicity stunt, however, King denied this. King was leader in the 1956 bus boycott in the Alabama capital.

Race rioting continued in London last weekend as rioters hurled a gasoline bomb into a Negro's home then beset two policemen who attempted to put out the blaze. The mob, mostly teen-agers, was finally dispersed by firemen and police reinforcements.

Nationalist China Friday rejected Red China's unilateral extension of its territorial waters to 12 miles. The Nationalists assert Chiang Kai-shek's regime alone can speak for China. Meanwhile Communist shelling of Quemoy Islands dwindled as U. S. 7th Fleet vessels prepared to escort supply ships bound for Nationalist China through the Red blockade.

America's first jetliner flew the Atlantic Monday to show Britain how quiet it can be. The big Boeing 707 flew from New York to London in 10 hours and 22 minutes including stops at Newfoundland and Ireland. When in service the big ship can cross in 6½ hours, it was stated.

A whirlwind victory for Maine's Democrats toppled a Republican senator, a house member and continued in office the Democratic governorship. However GOP leaders refused to admit that this was setting a trend for the nation.

Louisiana State University's commuters college said Tuesday it would honor a court order admitting Negroes to that institution. Dean Homer Hitt said he had been advised by university attorneys to proceed with registration of qualified Negroes.

A jet bomber crash killed thirteen of sixteen crewmen aboard two B-52's that collided in landing at Spokane, Washington's Fairchild Air Force Base, Tuesday. The three who survived parachuted to safety before the planes crashed and burned.

The Navy announced this week that the way had been cleared for the building of seven more nuclear-powered submarines. Also included were nine guided missile frigates and five guided missile destroyers. Aside from the subs the ships will have conventional power, it was stated.

other religion of our time. For religion deals with that field of human being which is most marked by human failures: Man's spiritual life. The prophets and Psalmists in the Bible, the sages and scholars of the Talmud, the inspired saints of all ages were not concerned with the trappings of material success. They were aware that much of life is fear, frustration, loneliness, denial, defeat, despair and death. Failures are an inseparable part of human life and we cannot avoid them. Men can only meet their challenge and grow by conquering their harassments.

The Fall of Babel

The Bible tells us of another age, concerned, like ours, primarily with material things. It speaks of the great civilization of Babel which exhausted itself in its quest of earthly splendor. As a final flourish to demonstrate their material mastery of the universe, the people of Babel decided to build a "tower that would reach into heaven." Higher and higher it loomed, as marvelous master work of human ingenuity stretching into the clouds. When a mason on the high scaffolds dropped a brick which hit and killed a fellow worker, he was punished with death, not for killing another human being, but for wasting a precious brick. The tower was never completed. One day, it started to sway in the wind, the mortar joints gave way, and the whole edifice crashed to the ground. It crashed, not because of a lack of know-how in building. It crashed because of a lack of know-how in living. It crashed because the people of Babel cared more for the walls than for the workers. The brick were more important than the men. The idol of success could not save his most formidable monument. The God of Mercy destroyed the memorial to materialism.

What America needs, similarly, is not women and men on their knees before the golden calf of self-sufficiency, but men and women on their toes, reaching ever higher to bring the laws of God into the lives of man. What American Judaism needs is not bigger organizations, but better homes; not bigger sanctuaries, but better souls. What we need is not so much to draw Jewry into Temples and Synagogues, but to draw the precepts and purposes of temples and synagogues into the homes and hearts of Jewry. We need not so much to put life into religion, we need to bring religion into life; we need to bring every man back to religion, but we can bring man to religion only as we bring God back to every man, into his everyday life, into his home, into his heart.

Let us open our homes and our hearts to God, to His words, His way, His will, His peace.

Get a new street quickly and economically with durable, low-cost SOIL-CEMENT

A clean, attractive, smooth-riding street in front of your house increases the value of your property. A dusty, bumpy potholed street is unsightly and unsafe. It is a nuisance to drivers who use it and to property owners who live on it. The constant patching and repairing of such a street is a waste of time, temper and taxes.

If your street is worn-out and run down, it can be converted into an all-weather pavement quickly and economically. Just ask your city officials to pave it with soil-cement. Soil-cement is a combination of soil or granular material usually on the street and portland cement and water. Mixed and compacted, these elements form a rigid, durable base. A bituminous surface completes the pavement.

Soil-cement is economical. Low in first cost, it delivers years of dependable service with a minimum of maintenance.

Soil-cement paving is fast. An experienced crew can pave your entire street in a single day—with practically no inconvenience to you.

Now is the time to pave rough, worn-out streets with soil-cement. It's today's best low-cost-pavement value for residential streets.

Setting for the marriage of Jacqueline Graben, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Milford Graben, and Eugene Prosser Hibbett, son of Rufus Gleason Hibbett, and the late Ann Lester Hibbett, was the Jackson Heights Church of Christ. The officiating minister was Charles Holt and he read the ceremony at four o'clock in the afternoon, Saturday, September sixth.

A program of nuptial music was presented by the following vocal quartette: Oliver Brazelle, Louis Cottrell, Bob Howard and Linville Hanback.

For the wedding occasion, the marriage altar was decorated with Southern huckleberry interspersed with fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli. Branched candelabra held tall slender tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The dress she wore was of white embroidered tulle posed over white satin and styled with moulded bodice and full skirt that terminated into a chapel-length train. The bateau neck of the basque was outlined with medallions of the embroidered tulle and the long sleeves formed points over her hands. The skirt was distinguished by tiers of ruffles in the back panel. Her veil of illusion was caught to a head-dress of flowers and seed pearls and her bridal bouquet was a white orchid showered with flours d'amour and narrow white satin ribbons tied with love knots.

Betty Jeanine Graben and Rita Sue Graben were their sister's only attendants. Their dresses were of white taffeta and pale blue chiffon with which they wore bows in their hair of the chiffon. They carried French bouquets of pale blue asters.

The bridegroom had as his best man, his father. Ushers were James Wheeler Parrish and three of the bridegroom's brothers, George Hibbett, Ira Kneeland Hibbett and Barry Hibbett.

Mrs. Graben, mother of the bride, was dressed in Riviera blue lace over taffeta and her corsage was of white gladioli. Mrs. Rufus Hibbett wore an afternoon dress of black with corsage of white gladioli also.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbett left later in the afternoon for a wedding trip to Florida after which they will make their home in Henderson, Tennessee.

Warren, became the bride of Douglas Heupel, son of Edgar Heupel and the late Mrs. Heupel, on Friday, August twenty-second at seven o'clock in the evening. Setting for the double ring ceremony was the Mt. Zion Church of Christ and the officiating minister was Alden Hendrix of the Church of Christ.

Vows were exchanged before an arch decorated with ivy and there was a basket of white gladioli on each side. White candles in branched candelabra lighted the bridal scene.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. The dress she wore was of white lace over satin styled with fitted bodice and very full skirt. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and pointed shoulders; the skirt, tiers of lace and tulle. Her finger tip veil was of illusion and fell from a headpiece of orange blossoms. The white Bible she carried was surmounted with a white orchid and flours d'amour, showered with narrow white ribbon streamers. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls.

Barbara Anne Craig Is Bride Of Robert Charlton Ross

Of interest locally is the marriage of Barbara Ann Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Craig of Paducah, Kentucky, and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus P. Thompson of Florence, to Robert Charlton Ross, son of Mrs. Gladys Taylor, also of Paducah.

Scene of the nuptial event was the Fountain Heights Methodist Church in Paducah and the double ring ceremony was read by the Reverend Fred Moffatt, Jr., on Saturday, September sixth.

Miss Patricia Lechleider and Charles Douglas presented a program of wedding music.

Vows were exchanged before an altar lighted by ice blue candles in branched candelabra and decorated with stately palms and white gladioli.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Her dress of white Chantilly lace was posed over satin and was fashioned princess style. The V-neckline, hem and train, were edged with scallops of the Chantilly lace. The sleeves extended in petal points at the wrists. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of satin and seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and carnations, tied with sky blue ribbon.

Mrs. Morgan of Louisville, Kentucky, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Sara Ross, and Miss Elizabeth Dearing of Louisville. Flower girls were Carol Dawn Thompson of Florence, and Lyman Oiler of Dayton, Ohio, both cousins of the bride. Mrs. Morgan's dress was of peacock blue taffeta; the bridesmaids' of Olympe blue, and the flower girls' of lake blue. All of them carried baskets of blue and white carnations and pompon chrysanthemums.

Bobby Brucker was best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were James Hawkins, Gene Thompson, Raphael Thompson, cousin of the bride, and Charles Miller.

A dress of blue lace was worn by Mrs. Craig for the marriage of her daughter. Mrs. Taylor, mother of the bridegroom, was in a two-piece dress of blue lace. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of white orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Craig were hosts of a reception in the church parlors.

When Mr. and Mrs. Ross left for their wedding trip, the latter was wearing a yellow print ensemble of polished cotton. Her accessories were of black patent.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig are now at home in Warrendale Court, Georgetown, Kentucky.

Reception Given For Mr. and Mrs. Larry Presley

In the center of the party table, which was covered with pink satin overlaid with pink net caught with clusters of miniature wedding bells, was a silver footed bowl holding pink roses, white button chrysanthemums and maline. To light the setting, white candles burned in a silver candleabrum.

Those who assisted in entertaining were Mrs. Leon Daniel, Mrs. Harry Harper, Mrs. Alvin Goodman, Mrs. A. L. Lindsey, Mrs. Homer Gilbert and Mrs. Adine Maxwell.

About a hundred family members and friends called during the receiving hours.

Pre-Nuptial Parties Honor Sue Standridge Locally

Here from Hayden to attend two parties tendered in her honor recently was Sue Standridge, whose marriage to Royce Mitchell will be an event of Saturday in the First Methodist church in Hayden. Mr. Mitchell, a student at Auburn, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Mitchell of Central Heights.

Mrs. Granville May was hostess of a Co. Cola party at her home in Central Heights, and Mrs. Billy Mitchell, Mrs. Garland Mitchell, Mrs. Marvin Mitchell, Mrs. Harold Koonce and Mrs. Henry Thornburgh were cohostesses of a tea, both courtships being given at Central Heights.

A color note of yellow was emphasized by Mrs. May in the setting for her informal party. Summer flowers in the prevailing shade were used in the living room and the table, where refreshments were served, was spread with an embroidered cloth of yellow linen and centered with a bowl of marigolds. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. J. H. Haddock, Jr., and Miss Betty Louis Haddock.

The home of Mrs. Billy Mitchell, scene of the tea, was decorated in yellow and white, seasonal flowers being used in the reception and dining rooms. The party table was covered with a lace cloth and held as a centerpiece an arrangement of yellow fugil chrysanthemums and small white mums, lighted by white candles in crystal holders.

Receiving with the honoree was Mrs. Claud Mitchell. Assisting in the amenities were Mrs. May, Mrs. Earl Haddock and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell. The guest list included sixty friends who called between the hours of six and nine o'clock in the evening.

Local Garden Clubs Hold Interesting Meetings

Bulb culture was the subject of Mrs. White's informative talk. A business session was held during which time reports from committee chairmen were heard. The cultivation of chrysanthemums was discussed by Mrs. John Highsmith, after which a social hour was featured.

Members of the Florence club were entertained at the Reeder hotel by the following co-hostesses: Mrs. W. F. Parks, Mrs. Ralph Carter, Mrs. R. C. Barnes and Mrs. Lee Marks. After the usual business discussion, a film, "This Is Your Hostess" was featured. A social hour closed the meeting.

The Maple Heights club met with Mrs. George Ezell at her home on Lewis avenue. Mrs. Raymond Westmoreland and Mrs. Leon A. Daniel were enrolled as new members. Mrs. Eugene Nix, Mrs. J. T. Darby and Mrs. Bill Peeler presented the program which was on flowering trees and shrubs.

After a short business session, refreshments were served during the social hour.

Tennessee River Transportation Saves Millions of Dollars For North Alabamians

On the 1956 Tennessee river traffic of 4,267,000 tons in North Alabama, it is estimated there was a saving of $6,800,000 on transportation costs.

Low-cost transportation, along with ample supply of water for process use and electric power, have not only attracted many new industries with thousands of additional jobs, but have saved money for consumers as well as producers. For instance, river transporting of raw materials and finished products means lower costs for such things as farm implements, steel sheets, billets and machine tools.

Like the Tennessee river, State National Bank's 14 offices spanning North Alabama have played an important part in developing the area and assisting its people to take advantage of their new opportunities. *Figures by courtesy of Tennessee Valley Authority.

Orientation Ends At State Tonight

All day Sunday—from early morning until "lights out" at night—entering freshmen poured into Florence State College.

Orientation, directed by Dr. W. T. McElheny, chairman of Student Personnel, began with an assembly in the college Amphitheater Monday at 8 a. m.

Students were welcomed by President E. B. Norton, Dean Turner W. Allen, and Douglas Crawford, president of Student Government Association. The full day of meeting with academic and professional groups, of testing and touring the campus was highlighted with a "fun for freshmen" party planned by the Physical Education Club and held on the lower tennis courts.

Testing, advisement, programming and registering followed Tuesday and Wednesday, again highlighted by evening social events, an informal reception in the home of President and Mrs. Norton, and gatherings planned by each of several local churches.

The testing program continues today with compulsory assemblies for men and women students held in Wesleyan and Kilby auditoriums at 10 o'clock this morning. Orientation will be climaxed with a pep rally in the amphitheater at 7 o'clock this evening.

Meanwhile, upper classmen were scheduled to register Wednesday and today. Classes for all students begin at 8 a. m. Friday.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY.

A FINAL WORD TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF FLORENCE

As the campaign for the Florence City Commission draws to a close, I want to publicly express my appreciation for the kind reception my candidacy has received. I realize that in presenting my claims to the voters I have, of necessity, taken up your time, but your unfailing courtesy has been an inspiration to me.

In the past few weeks it has been a pleasure and a privilege to make many new friends in the City of Florence and to renew acquaintance with those of long standing. Regardless of the outcome of the election next Monday, I will always value and cherish the experience this campaign has given me.

I also want to commend the other candidates in the race for the clean, fair manner in which they have conducted their campaigns, and to state that I have attempted to keep my own on a high plane.

I imagine it is the desire of every man with a sense of civic responsibility to serve his community in public office, for it is there that his services can be utilized to their fullest. During this campaign, as I have become more fully aware of the wishes of the citizens and the needs of the city, that ambition has increased. I believe that I can fill the office of City Commissioner to your satisfaction, and I assure you that, if elected, I will go about my duties with the deep realization of my obligation to you.

The acceptance of my candidacy and the encouragement given me by people in all walks of life lead me to believe that I will be successful next Monday. By going to the polls and casting your vote for me for City Commissioner, victory will be achieved.

Sincerely,

E. T. STOVALL

Customer Dialing Proves Popular

Customer dialing of long distance calls in Alabama's first city to get the service—Decatur—is proving most popular with the Southern Bell Telephone Company's customers.

F. A. Reynolds, local manager for Southern Bell, said that since the August 17 cutover to Customer Long Distance Dialing in Decatur, almost 50 per cent of all long distance calls made are being dialed by the customer. Mr. Reynolds said this is quite a usage of the new system since only station-to-station calls can be dialed and only by customers having one or two-party service.

The local manager named no specific time that customer dialing will be installed in Florence, but said his company is making every effort to complete all such installations in a relatively few years. At that time, he said, a customer can dial almost any number nationwide just as simply as dialing a local number.

Freshmen At FSC Sport 'Rat' Caps

Purple and gold rat caps distinguished incoming freshmen at Florence State College Monday morning. These will be their trademarks during the Orientation period, at the first football game of the season, September 27, and for the homecoming week-end late in October. Giant posters about the campus predicted dire consequences to non-conformists.

Gathering in the college amphitheater at 8 o'clock these new students were welcomed by President E. B. Norton, Dean Turner W. Allen and Douglas Crawford, president of the Student Government Association.

Dr. W. T. McElheny, director of Student Personnel, outlined the events of the four-day orientation period.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'59 Soil Bank Plan Greatly Changed

Conservation Reserve Phase Of New Program Only Part In Effect

The Soil Bank program for 1959 will be different from this year's program in many ways.

"In the first place," stated Foy Helms, API Extension agricultural economist, "the Conservation Reserve will be the only part of the Soil Bank in operation during 1959. All Acreage Reserve contracts expire at the end of the 1958 agreement year, and no new ones will be made. However, changes in the Conservation Reserve program will make this part of the Soil Bank more attractive to many farmers."

"The Acreage Reserve is a year-to-year contract arrangement under which farmers are paid for not planting their allotted shares of crops under acreage controls. Conservation Reserve contracts cover periods of several years, not a single year, and are not restricted to land growing allotment crops."

"Next year," explained the specialist, "rental payments will be higher. This year's average annual rental per acre was $10, while in 1959 it will be $13.50. Some states will receive as much as $20 per acre, and others as little as $9. In Alabama, the average payment per acre will be $12.

"There will be greater incentives for putting whole farms in reserve," continued Helms. "Those placing all eligible cropland under contract for five years will receive the agreed payments plus an additional 10 per cent of this amount."

Finally, the government will pay a smaller share of the cost of establishing some of the required conservation practices. "Because of these changes," said Helms, "a farmer must figure very closely how much he can gain by placing land in the Soil Bank, and whether or not, under the changed program, it will be a profitable thing for him to do."

STRENGTHEN AMERICA'S PEACE POWER

Photograph by Harold Halma

Our youngsters are learning the A B C's of peace for the future: How to get along with each other. How to give and take. How to respect each other's rights as individuals.

But right now it's our job to keep the peace in a troubled world. And peace costs money. Money for strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. Money saved by individuals.

Your Savings Bonds, as a direct investment in your country make you a Partner in strengthening America's Peace Power.

The Bonds you buy will earn money for you. But the most important thing they earn is peace.

Think it over. Are you buying as many Bonds as you might?
