The Passing Parade

1884 - 1959
By HAROLD S. MAY

Monday, Sept. 28 should be a red-letter day in the history of Florence. On that day the voters will decide whether the city government will go modern or remain "as is" with part-time commissioners directing its governmental affairs. Florence is too big to operate under its present form of government. A full-time mayor and two part-time commissioners will, in the long run, save in operating expenses and at the same time give the city a more efficient directing body. The bill recently passed by the Legislature should receive the approval of the voters.

● Sign on a Mississippi highway: "Drive Carefully—There Isn't a Hospital in 50 Miles."

● Several weeks ago, Bob Schmidt, the affable purchasing agent of Reynolds Missile plant, told us that he had it all figured out. He said that if the Russians really wanted to win the cold war in rapid fashion all, Khrushchev had to do was to declare a lasting peace with the United States. This, Bob said, would so completely demoralize the economic situation in this country that it would take decades to recover. We gave this the laugh but, judging from the reaction of the stock market, the threat of unemployment in the event of a cut back in defense spending and the jittery feelings among the tycoons who now profit so nicely from defense contracts, caused by the exchange of visits between Eisenhower and the Soviet Premier, Bob Schmidt seems to have been right. We don't like this country that it would take sleep by any Khrushchev promise but even a slight cut-back could send our economy into a tailspin.

● There's nothing like the buzz of the alarm clock to remind you that the best part of the day is over.

● We noted with interest the account of the death of Charles E. Stutz, the builder of the famous car of the early twenties known as the Stutz Bearcat. The Stutz Bearcat was the forerunner of today's fanciest and most expensive sports cars but there is a car that can capture the imagination of the daredevil contingent as did the Bearcat. We were fortunate to trade for a Stutz Bearcat (second handed) in our early days. This two - passenger, fire engine red, low-slung (for those days), big, four-cylinder, eight spark plug, open-cockpit job was designed to take the eye of everyone. It was fast and a gas-eater... with a 30-gallon gas tank. (But gasoline then was less than 20 cents a gallon—not over 35 cents.) Boy, what a car.

● One of the main troubles with trouble is that it generally starts out like fun.

● All of us can recall times when we should have "kept our big mouth shut." But a certain motorist in Beaumont, Tex., has learned that lesson the hard way. A few days ago he got behind a slower moving car than was his desire. He got peeved at the delay and yelled out to G. H. Mitchell, the driver of the car ahead: "Hey! Why don't you get yourself a driver's license?" Mitchell, a policeman off duty, had a driver's license. He stopped his car, then the car just behind, identified himself, asked to see the angry man's license. He had none. "Guilty," was his plea before Judge Lloyd Walker. "That will be $30 fine and $5.20 court costs," replied his honor. "Me and my big mouth," was all the young man could say as he paid off.

● If all the people in the United States would stay home Sunday... we'd get our car out and go for a ride.

Voters To Express Will As To Full-Time Mayor

Balloting To Be Held Week After The Regular Municipal Election

An ordinance was adopted by the Florence Board of Commissioners on August 25, calling for a special municipal election to be held on Monday, September 28, for the purpose of submitting the proposition to the voters of whether or not the city shall be organized under the commission form of government with a full-time mayor, who would also serve as president of its Board of Commissioners.

Statement Made

In addition to a legal notice of such election appearing elsewhere in this newspaper for a period of four consecutive weeks, the Florence Board of Commissioners approved and issued the following statement:

"The last Special Session of the 1959 Alabama Legislature adopted a bill which was approved by the Governor, providing that cities having a population of not less than 23,500 and not more than 100,000 inhabitants according to the last census, may adopt and become organized under the alternate commission form of government involving the services of a full-time President of the Board of Commissioners and two associate commissioners. The law allows the submission of the question to the voters of such cities whether they desire to change to that form of government, and it also provides that the present governing body shall specify the salaries to be paid to the President and each of the associate commissioners.

"Running the City of Florence is a multiple million dollar business operation and it is the feeling of this Board that Florence has reached the point where it should have a full-time President of its Board of Commissioners and two associate commissioners. This Board has suggested the salary

Reserve Deadline Set September 10

Necessary Information Should Be Included With Request For Rate

Farmers should bring along the necessary information when they file a request for a basic Conservation Reserve rate at the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, according to Joe J. Rasch, Chairman of the County ASC Committee. The deadline for requesting that a basic annual rate per acre be established for land offered under the 1960 program is September 10.

The County office has regular forms to be filled out when farmers apply for a basic rate. Information needed to complete the form includes a description of the acreage for which the basic rate is requested and the crop production history of the land. For each field, details will be needed as to the kind of crop and the yield per acre for the 5-year period 1955 through 1959.

After the basic rate for a farm is established, the farmer will have an opportunity to file an application for a Conservation Reserve contract.

Mr. Rasch also reminded farmers that land for which a basic rate is requested must be "eligible" land. To be eligible, land must have had a crop harvested from it or must have been in a regular rotation during 1959. In addition, tame hay land may be placed in the Conservation Reserve provided it has a stand of perennial grasses or legumes normally established by land preparation and seeding. Tame hay land must also have had hay or silage harvested from it in 3 of the 4 years 1956-1959.

Farmers who have questions about the Conservation Reserve can get the answer at the County ASC Office.

E. T. Stovall Enters Commission Race

Florence Businessman Asks Support; Pledges Representation To All

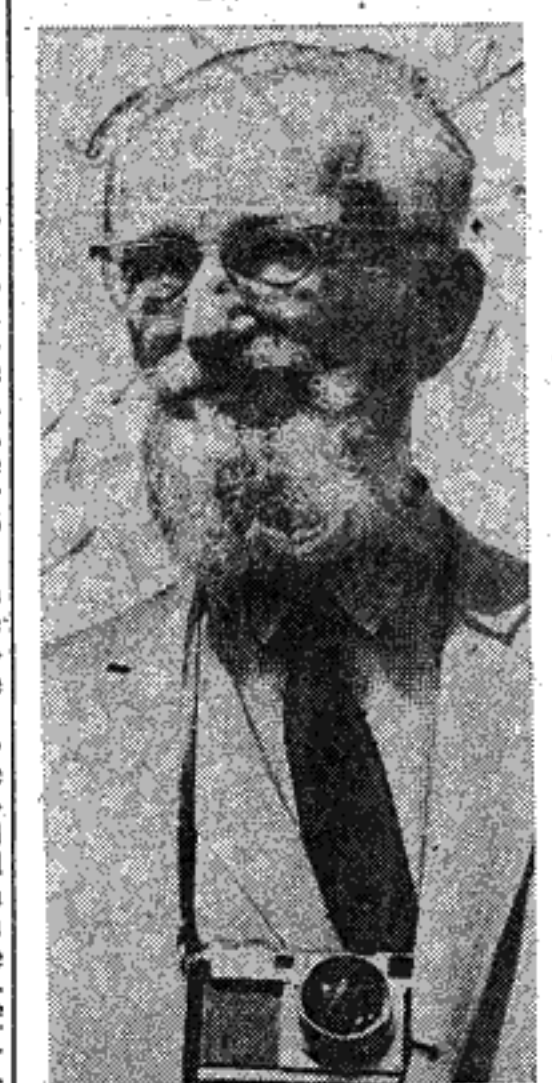

E. T. Stovall, well-known Florence businessman who owns and operates Stovall Poultry Co., distributors of Sweet Sue poultry, today announces his candidacy for election to the Florence city commission subject to the municipal election Monday, September 21st.

Mr. Stovall is a native of Limestone County but has made his home in Florence for the past 11 years and during that time has taken an active interest in the civic and religious life of the community. His special interest is working with youth organizations believing that efforts directed toward the guidance of young people is our best insurance for a better community, state and nation.

A 35 year member of the Woodmen of the World, in which he has held a number of offices, Mr. Stovall is also a member of the Chamber of Commerce, serving as the agriculture committee; a member of the Lions Club and the Mars Hill Bible School Endowment Association. He is a member of the Church of Christ. He was formerly a member of the Machinists Union.

Last year, Mr. Stovall offered for election to the city commission and lacked only 37 votes of being in the run-off for that office. He has maintained his interest in our city government and states that he is anxious to render whatever service possible for the betterment of the community.

In speaking of his entry in this race, Mr. Stovall said: "I am interested in each and every citizen being represented to the best interest of all. I will listen to advice of all the people and make my decisions from this advice. I will always vote my convictions for the best interests of all and not a select few. It is my desire to be of service to the entire community and will so inform myself so that each citizen will know that his best interests are always my prime objective. Under these pledges I solicit the vote of the people."

Requirements For School Attendance Listed By Board

New Policy Adopted To Meet Existing Conditions, Thornton Announces

The Lauderdale County Board of Education in session Saturday morning adopted new policies governing the admittance of students to all county schools in order to meet certain existing conditions. Allen Thornton, superintendent of education announced.

Children who meet the legal requirements for eligibility to attend a public school in Alabama will be accepted in the order of priority as set forth as follows:

1. Children and youth of the families residing within the area of rural Lauderdale County.
2. Children and youth of families residing within the area of a particular school community will have first priority for being accepted in that particular community school within the system.

3. Children and youth who have been enrolled continuously in a particular school and wish to remain in that school for the rest of a school year—even though the families may have moved outside the area of the particular school community or rural Lauderdale County—provided school authorities and parents deem it essential to the child's continuous and maximum growth.

4. School authorities of the Lauderdale County School System reserve the right to classify for grade placement—at any time—all children or youth accepted for admittance, or continuing in enrollment in any Lauderdale County School.

5. Every child between the ages of 7 and 16 years shall be required to attend school. (Title 52, Chapter 11, 1940 Code of Alabama).

Special policies regarding first, second and third grades:

1. Only children 6 years old on or before October 1 may enter the first grade in a Lauderdale County school. (This is in keeping with the Alabama State law.)

2. Children who complete first grade in some other school, after entering at an age below the legal entrance age of the state where the child resided, will not be considered for admittance in the second grade. Such children may be considered for admittance in the first grade.

3. Children who complete first and second grades in some other school, after entering at an age below the legal entrance age of the state where the child resided, will not be considered for admittance in the third grade. Such children may be considered for admittance in the second grade.

4. The school reserves the right to reclassify any student at any time considered by the school to be most appropriate for the child's maximum total growth.

Members Legion Urged To Attend Meeting Tonight

The Florence-Lauderdale American Legion Post No. 11 will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting Thursday, August 27 at 8 o'clock. The highlight of the program, as arranged by George Gibbons, program chairman of the Post, will be a review of experiences on a recent trip to Canada and the Arctic Circle by Hayden Hargett, of C and H Engineers of Florence. Mr. Hargett will address the meeting and show a film of his trip.

Since the post is now in the middle of its annual membership drive, Frank Potts, newly-elected Post Commander, urges all members to be present and extends a cordial welcome to veterans desiring to visit the meeting.

Eisenhower Proclaims Hawaii Fiftieth State

Islands Join Union In History-Making Ceremony At White House

Hawaii officially became the fiftieth state of the Union Friday when President Eisenhower proclaimed statehood for the territory comprising a group of volcanic and coral islands some 2400 miles west of San Francisco.

In addition to signing the statehood proclamation, the President also issued an order designating a 50 star flag to become effective next July 4. The new banner will take the place of the 49 star flag which became official this past July 4 when the banner was changed to include an extra star for Alaska. In commemorating the event the government will also put on sale a special 7-cent air mail stamp.

Signing of the proclamation was also coincident with the taking of the oath of office by Hawaii's new governor, William F. Quinn. He was elected on July 28 and is a Republican. Quinn also notified Washington of his certification of an election last month of Hawaii's first congressional delegation in time for the two Senators and one representative to take their oaths of office in Washington on Monday.

President Flies To Europe To Confer With Western Allies

Educational TV To Be Explained This Afternoon At Meet

Educators and Others Invited To Hear Program Explained by Officials

A meeting in the interest of the proposed addition of an educational TV channel by the Muscle Shoals TV Cable Corp. has been called by the education committee of the Chamber of Commerce, C. H. Jackson, secretary-manager, announced today. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the municipal building this afternoon at 4 o'clock with Harold May, committee chairman, presiding, and it is expected that a large number of educators and other interested persons will be in attendance.

Raymond Hurlbert, general manager, Alabama Educational TV Commission, and Louis Peneguy, AETC co-ordination and information director, will be present to explain the full content of the ETV programs and will be in position to give a report on the fall schedule.

William Mays, manager of the local cable system, said an additional cable which is now providing TV Cable subscribers with uninterrupted music, could be switched to providing the telecasts of the Alabama Educational TV network if there seems to be sufficient demand.

The TV Cable system would construct a special tower to receive telecasts projected from the AET network's channel 10 in Birmingham. The network now services approximately 70% of the State on open circuit broadcasting channels 10, 7 and 2, however, due to terrain complications, the telecasts cannot be satisfactorily received in the Tri-Cities area.

Mr. Mays said his decision to consider the additional service is in response to educators primarily, as well as a number of inquiries from adults who are keen to utilize the state network's cultural broadcasts, college credit courses, and general informational presentations.

The network, the first in the U. S., will program 6 1/2 hours per week, from 8:30 a.m. until 10 p.m., effective Tuesday, Sept. 8. Last May at the end of the school year, 61,000 Alabama public school children utilized ETV courses, and this year, due to technical improvements made during the summer, the number will increase.

Programs presented on the Alabama network originate in studios on the campuses of Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the University, and in a Birmingham studio operated by the five school systems of Jefferson County.

Although the State has been allocated additional TV open circuit program transmitters, there have been no capital funds made available since 1956 to develop them. The Cable TV System would therefore provide the Tri-Cities with the network broadcasts.

Legislature's Action Draws Praise Of Governor; Special Session Ends

Late News

● Ross Barnett, 61, lawyer and militant segregationist, won a resounding victory over Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, in Mississippi's gubernatorial run-off election Tuesday. It was the veteran campaigner's third try at the governor's post. Barnett stated he would try and organize the southern governors to "create and crystallize public opinion throughout the nation with reference to our traditions and Southern way of life."

● The House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday voted down Speaker Sam Rayburn's compromise proposal to solve the highway financing crisis, reaffirming its previous action for a 22-month 1-cent gallon increase in the federal gasoline tax. Although it was one-half cent under President Eisenhower's request the President gave the measure his qualified approval.

● National Democratic chairman Paul Butler will request that the Democratic National Committee readopt a 1956 rule that could conceivably bar from the 1960 nominating convention any state omitting names of party nominees from its ballots or electing uninstructed electors. It was said the rule was drawn up to replace the so-called "loyalty oath" which had been in effect earlier.

● The nation's steel strike was 43 days old Wednesday making it the second longest since World War II. There was still no sign of further action by the White House after the release of a fact-finding report last week. Both sides claimed the facts backed their positions in the strike that has idled a half-million steelworkers and 150,000 others in allied industries.

First Lauderdale Cotton Is Ginned

The first bale of cotton in Lauderdale County was reported Wednesday, Aug. 19 at Oakland by John A. Hamm, farmer of the Smithsonia community, Rt. 2, Florence. The cotton was grown on the J. C. Rhode's farm in West Lauderdale, where Hamm is farming 53 acres this year.

The cotton which was ginned at the Oakland Gin Company, weighed in at 455 pounds and the farmer hopes to get a bale-per-acre average on the 53 acres.

Ginners and growers both agreed that the 1959 crop, which is apparently some 10 days ahead of 1958, appeared to be of better quality than the 1958 harvest.

Shortly before the ending of the historic special session of the Alabama Legislature Monday, Governor John Patterson signed into law the largest school appropriation in the state's history and a 100 million dollar bond issue to finance a school building program.

They were passed together with $32 million in additional taxes to make possible the greatest school budget increase ever known in the state.

In a letter addressed to the House and Senate, Patterson described the new school program as the "most progressive... ever enacted by a legislature of this state, and one which the people of Alabama will long appreciate."

He said that the schools had faced a crippling financial emergency before the session began on June 24. He praised the legislature for putting "education first."

The House and Senate actually finished their work on Friday but delayed final adjournment until Monday to give the governor a chance to study newly approved bills and offer what executive amendments he deemed necessary.

The recess resolution called the Legislature back into regular session on Tuesday at which time lawmakers prepared to recess for two weeks until after Labor Day.

The School Program will come from the following sources:

1. A revised state law increasing tax rate on cars and trucks, tax on heavy industrial machinery, and knocking out most present exemptions.

2. Increased state tax on tobacco products, including an extra 2 cents a pack on cigarettes.

The added revenue will make it possible to give teachers an extra 20 per cent pay increase over the next two years, it was stated.

Partly financed by the new taxes will be a record $304 million educational appropriation bill which carries funds to operate the state's schools for the next two years.

Segregation A bill was passed and signed by the Governor that would allow integration-threatened schools to withdraw from state, county and city school systems and for its own independent district. Its purpose is to get around recent Federal Court ruling which said in effect that if one school is closed to prevent integration, all other schools under jurisdiction of the same board or other agency must shut its doors.

Small loan legislation and reapportionment were put aside until the recess is over on Sept. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson and daughters, Mary and Dianne, are vacationing at Ponte Vedra, Fla.

Ease Tensions, Bolster Unity, Purpose Of Trip

For a long time President Eisenhower has asserted that he would go anywhere to meet anyone if by so doing he could ease the tensions of the cold war and bring some hope of peace to a troubled world. He acted in accord with that pledge when he flew to Europe Wednesday to meet the chiefs of government of this country's allies.

Mr. Eisenhower is seeing West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, France's Charles de Gaulle and other western leaders in a prelude to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to this country on September 15.

The date for Mr. Eisenhower's projected visit to Russia has not been announced but it is indicated the President will go in his avowed campaign to melt a little of the ice in the cold war.

Diplomatically, the President on his current visit to the western allies, is expected to take up outstanding problems that are plaguing both the West and the Communists, however it was not thought the brief talks would actually solve any of the long-standing issues. It was hoped that the contacts the President makes will serve to strengthen Western unity and make solution easier.

There was some indication that his toughest tasks would be in dealing with de Gaulle and discussing Franco-U. S. difficulties. There was also the problem of frictions with both Britain and Germany. It is said that de Gaulle is considered hard to deal with by Mr. Eisenhower, who had exporting World War II. He is scheduled to spend Sept. 2 and 3 in Paris and has allotted more than 10 hours for dinner meetings and talks with French leaders.

The President's first stop however will be Bonn, Germany where he will spend some five hours with Adenauer. The West German chancellor has ordered a full state welcome.

Mr. Eisenhower will next go to London and then to Aberdeen, Scotland, where he will go with Prince Phillip to Balmoral Castle for an overnight visit as a guest of the Queen.

Mr. Eisenhower will appear on British TV on August 28 with Prime Minister Macmillan.

Wheeler Home To Be Scene Of Joint Meeting For Associations

The North Alabama Historical Association and the Tennessee Valley Historical Society will hold a joint meeting at the General Joseph Wheeler Home at Huntsville on Sunday afternoon, September 6, at 3:00 p.m. The historic home will be open at 1:30 p.m. prior to the meeting so that members may see the mementos of General Wheeler.

Dr. Herbert L. Hughes of Athens College will read an account of General Wheeler, the Huntsville in 1868 and Mr. Ralph E. Graham of Mountain Home will present a paper on the historic Mountain Home School.

Mrs. Lucy B. Le Grand of Chapel Hill, North Carolina, will be the guest of honor of the two historical groups at their joint session. Mrs. Le Grand is a granddaughter of General Joseph Wheeler.

USE OF NETS IN LOCAL FISHING NOW ILLEGAL

On and after October 1, 1959, net fishing in Lauderdale and Colbert counties will be illegal, according to bills signed into law by Gov. John Patterson Monday.

Act 125 (Lauderdale) and Act 108 (Colbert) filed Tuesday ban the use of hoop, gill and trammel nets in local waters.

Good Work, Mr. Sparkman

Senator John Sparkman touched on a very vital subject recently when he pointed out that during the first nine months of fiscal year 1959, more than two-thirds of Defense Department contracts were let without benefit of competitive bidding.

This type of public spending, observes the Senator, is unnecessary. It violates the very spirit of competition on which this great nation was founded.

Mr. Sparkman points out, and wisely so, that if the Defense Department will not make these sensible purchasing economies, economical competitive buying should be forced upon it by the pressure of public opinion coupled with whatever legislation is required to preserve the integrity of the defense dollar.

Mr. Sparkman produced evidence of waste when he placed in The Congressional Record a list of 42 products bought by the Navy's Ship Parts Control Center at Mechanicsburg, Pa. These purchases were made last year on competitive bids for $39,000. The cost of the same items the previous year without benefit of competitive bidding was $131,000. This was throwing money away just as effectively as if the Defense Department had struck a match to it and started a bonfire.

Mr. Sparkman's Small Business Committee is doing the taxpayer a yeoman service in uncovering waste in government. Usually where there is waste there is also the question of who is benefitting from this waste because it is a foregone conclusion somebody is.

Surely we should go beyond the mere problem of waste and find out who some of the concerns are that are riding Uncle Sam's "grave train." The $92,000 difference between the $39,000 the Navy paid for goods under competitive bidding and the $131,000 paid the year previous was undoubtedly duplicated many times in the more than $5 billion worth of prime contracts that were negotiated in fiscal 1959 without benefit of competitive bidding.

Dig up some more figures, Mr. Sparkman and keep up the good work.

The Answer Is Up To Us

While the theme of Communism is the same as it always was, the world is made conscious of certain changes in the Communist attitude which might well be a foretaste of what the free world may expect in the future. This new attitude has to do more with selling the Communist ideology than in forcing it upon other peoples. Force will be applied when force is demanded, make no mistake . . . it is just that the new attitude promises results with less effort and with less resentment. It has already been applied in many places and it is getting results.

We, as leaders of the Western world, are in direct competition with Communism. We think of Communism in various terms . . . cold war, world trade, diplomatic maneuvering, and so on. We are in contact with it on every continent. The big fear is of course that some unhappy incident may trigger an all-out nuclear war which would mean destruction of both sides.

However, thoughtful people believe that the ultimate victory, short of war, will come to the side most successful in winning the minds of men, the side that wins the faith and loyalty of the masses.

About a year ago Peter Grothe, working on his doctorate at Stanford University wrote an article under the title "Words Can Hurt Us!" It deals with the life of a fictitious East German worker named Fritz Schultz.

There is hardly a moment of the day when Fritz is spared Communist propaganda, dished out in all manner of forms. On rising he brushes his teeth—and the tube carries the slogan "Fight for the Five-Year Plan." He moves on to breakfast—and the wrapper in which his margarine comes instructs him to "Make German-Soviet friendship a thing of the heart." While he eats, he reads a morning paper featuring long stories on alleged "Progress in the People's Democracies," along with denunciations of the "Western Imperialists."

At work, the tireless propaganda efforts continue. Anti-Western petitions are passed around, and Fritz signs. He is exhorted to get out more production, and during the afternoon coffee break a political commentary is broadcast. Banners and pictures extol communist leaders and extol Soviet goals and accomplishments.

The end of the work day does not bring an end to the haranguing. The Communist radio carries right on. A professional agitator pays Fritz an evening call to discuss such topics as "how West German militarism is hindering re-unification."

Even Sunday doesn't necessarily give Fritz a respite. He may be asked to go to a Communist demonstration instead of the picnic he'd planned on—and he will go, if he wants to keep out of trouble.

What it all amounts to, Mr. Grothe writes, is like standing in a room full of people, all of whom are saying over and over endlessly: "The moon is green. The moon is green." He adds: "And if you hear it said the moon is green enough times, enough years in a row, you may begin to believe that maybe the moon, indeed is green. Especially if no one in the room says that it is yellow."

Mr. Grothe ends on this note: "It can be well-argued that winning the minds of men is the most important business of the 20th century . . . Quite clearly, the Communist psychogues have not yet won the minds of the East German people. But controlling the sources of communication, as they do, there are few who would deny that time is on the Communists' side."

The hope is that this situation will somehow be changed. It is up to us as leaders of the free world.

Batista Heads For New "Home"

Former Cuban dictator, Fulgencio Batista, was headed Friday to a new home in exile in Portugal's Madeira Islands, located about 400 miles west of Morocco in the eastern Atlantic. Batista left for Portugal after Washington banished any hopes he had of gaining admittance to the United States. This departure is a continuation of Batista's flight from Cuba last New Year's Day to escape Fidel Castro's revolutionary forces. Before being granted political asylum by Portugal, the ex-dictator and members of his party had been in exile in the Dominican Republic.

America's second nuclear submarine, the Patrick Henry, capable of firing the Polaris ballistic missile, will be launched at Groton, Conn., on September 22. The 380 foot, 5,400 ton submarine, which is also armed with torpedoes, is due for completion in 1960.

Elephant Charges Crowd

A crazed elephant, becoming infuriated after stepping on burning coals which had dropped from a flaming torch at a Buddhist pageant Wednesday night in Kandy, Ceylon, charged a crowd of 200,000 sending them screaming in panic to nearby buildings, atop walls, and in trees. A reported 20 persons were killed in the crush and thousands injured. The maddened animal was finally killed in the street by police.

Nash Dies In Gas Chamber

Slayer Stephen Nash, the hated knif-killer who boasted of more killings than police could verify, died Friday in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber. The fiendish killer who relished describing the way his victims died, never had a visitor during his two years of isolation on death row and no one claimed his body.

Soviets Training More Agents

The Soviets are secretly training more and more Latin American Communists how to set up Communist dictatorships as evidenced by a report from a U.S. Intelligence spokesman that a Soviet Intelligence officer had been sent into Cuba by Moscow for the purpose of guiding the local Communies on how to penetrate the government of Fidel Castro. The American spokesman stated that the Soviet agent entered Cuba under an assumed name, ostensibly as a member of a trade union delegation, and has since returned to Moscow. While in Cuba, the agent's assignment was to give guidance to Cuban Communists whose primary targets are the agrarian reforms, trade unions and the Army.

Archbishop's Arrest Ordered

The government of Haiti has ordered the arrest of the archbishop of Port Au Prince, Msgr. Francois Poirier in a widening split with the church in the predominately Catholic Negro republic. The arrest was ordered after the archbishop ignored a summons to appear at the district attorney's office. A justice department spokesman said the arrest was ordered because the archbishop, a French national, had criticized the government for expelling two priests.

Veterans' Column

State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

Many Alabama residents get out of uniforms every month and have obligations to meet in returning to civilian life, states W. O. Crumby, Veterans' Service Officer, Lauderdale County. For those being separated from service in the near future, here are a few things that should be done: Inform your draft board you're out and give them your current address. This is required by law and must be done within a reasonable time—usually 5 days after separation. Under most circumstances, you have a legal right to your old job back, but you must inform your employer you want it within 90 days. You may have a Reserve obligation to meet. So, unless you are sure of your status, you should check with your nearest Reserve office. Have your separation papers recorded at your courthouse and get some extra photostatic copies. Store the originals in a safe place. They are your key to any future veterans benefits to which you may be entitled and you may be using them in other ways for the rest of your life. Check your military papers to be certain they contain no errors. If there are errors, your County Service Officer can help you get them corrected. If you feel you have a right to compensation, due to a service connected disability, check immediately with your County Service Officer. The longer you wait, the more difficult it's likely to be for you to establish your right to it. If you think you're going to have trouble finding a job, register with your State Employment Office. You might be entitled to unemployment compensation if you can't find a job within a couple of weeks after separation. The first step in getting compensation is to register for it. If you have rights to GI Bill schooling and intend to make use of them, you should immediately start getting a line on what qualifications you'll have to meet and how much actual aid you can expect from the government.

Some 12,000 boys from 62 countries attended the arena show and heard an address by President Garcia of the Philippines and Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

The Jamboree lasted until July 26 after which young Rosenbaum was among 96 others who toured the world by plane before returning home.

Among the points of interest visited on the tour were the principle cities of India, Egypt, Lebanon, Greece, Turkey, Italy, France and England.

DONATION OF BOOKS ASKED BY COFFEE

The senior class of Coffee High School is still in need of used books, according to Tom Braly, principal.

Last year's graduating seniors having books for sale are urged to bring them to the high school. This request is being made since a similar request recently brought a good response from other grades.

Higher-producing milk cows bring the same income with two-thirds less labor as lower producing cows.

Driver Freed On Bond After Charge Of Manslaughter

Manslaughter charges were filed Monday against sixteen-year-old Leonard Nolan Moser of Rt. 3, Lexington after a fatal two-car crash which took the life of 15-year-old Christine Collier of Vinemont, Ala.

Moser, driver of the car, which reportedly ran through a stop sign on Cloverdale Road onto the Sharp's Mill Road, 8.5 miles North of Florence, colliding with another car being driven by William Coy Richardson, 19, of St. Joseph, Tennessee, is free under $2,000 bond.

The deceased who had been staying with relatives in Lauderdale County died some three minutes after being rushed to ECM Hospital as a result of being pinned under the left wheel of the car and having her right leg completely severed from her body.

Preliminary hearing for Moser will be held on Friday morning, September 14, at the regular monthly non-jury term of Law and Equity Court before Judge Emmett Roden.

The other injured victim, William Coy Richardson, driver of the second car, who reportedly suffered a broken neck and Rhoda Moser, 15, of Rt. 3, Lexington, sister of Leonard Moser, who suffered a fractured pelvis and cuts in the right elbow and legs. Both were listed in fair condition Monday.

Alvin Rosenbaum Attends Jamboree, Takes World Tour

Alvin Rosenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rosenbaum, 117 Riverview Drive, had the unique distinction of being the only Alabama Scout to attend the World Jamboree in the Philippine Islands.

Alvin left Florence on July 8 for a brief training period in San Francisco prior to departure. He arrived at Manila on July 16 the day before the Jamboree was to begin, the Scouts taking buses to Makiling.

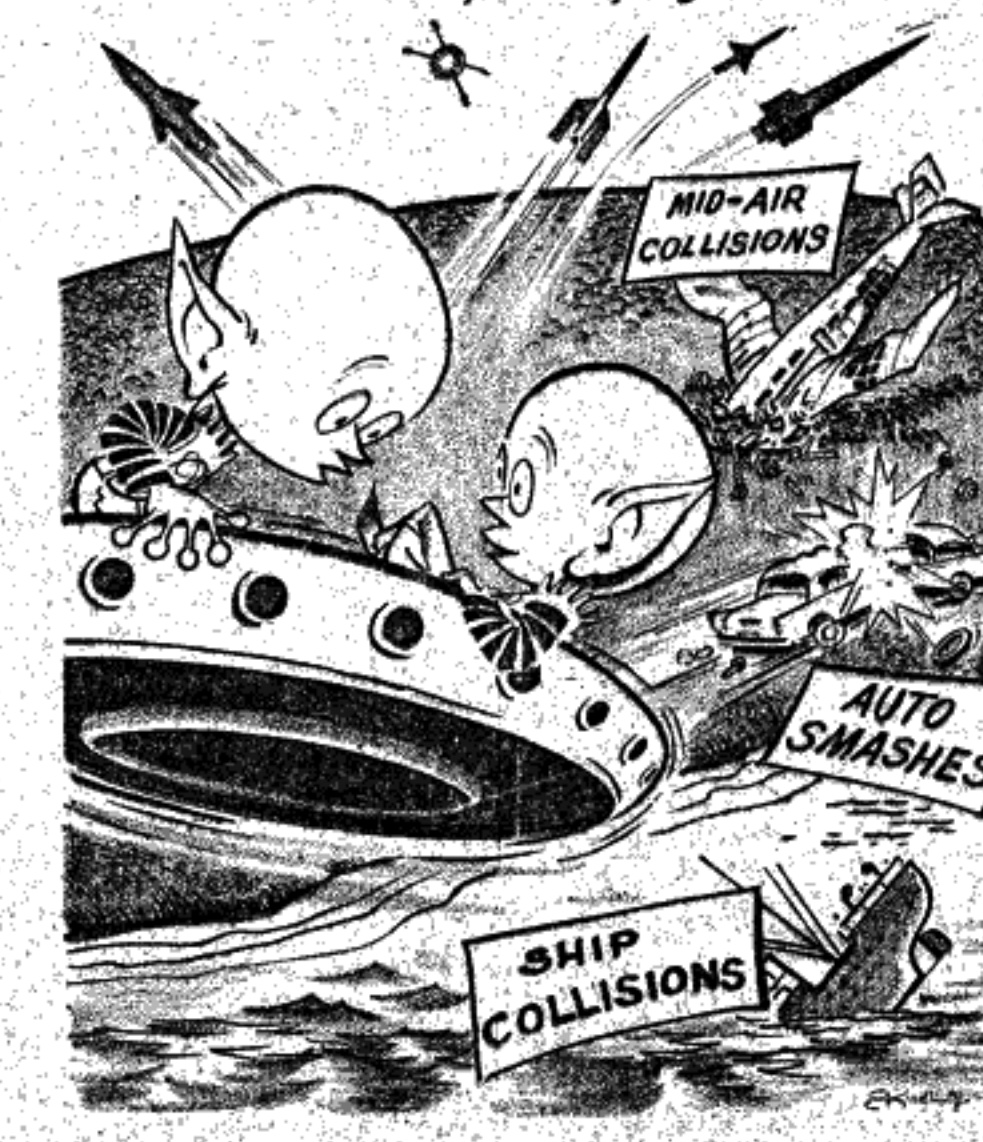

Some 12,000 boys from 62 countries attended the arena show and heard an address by President Garcia of the Philippines and Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

The Jamboree lasted until July 26 after which young Rosenbaum was among 96 others who toured the world by plane before returning home.

Among the points of interest visited on the tour were the principle cities of India, Egypt, Lebanon, Greece, Turkey, Italy, France and England.

The Congress of the United States has just extended the draft for an additional four years, which means that the average young man of this country must continue to expect to serve in the military forces prior to reaching age 26 years.

Waterloo Youth Realizes Dream In College Degree

Edwin Ray Holcombe Shows Determination Can Overcome Obstacles

By L. B. (Tex.) Williams

Some of the spirit of Yankee Admiral David Farragut must reside in Edwin Ray Holcombe of Waterloo. Although he has had no opportunity to sing out the admiral's famous words of Mobile Bay, young Holcombe told himself long ago that despite obstacles he was going full speed ahead for a college education.

His dream was realized Saturday when he received his bachelor of science in agricultural education at The Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

While still a high school student, young Holcombe—one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holcombe—knew that he would have to scramble for himself if he entered college. Planning ahead, he undertook several projects in the Future Farmers of America which brought in a little money.

Completing high school in 1955, he enrolled at Florence State College with just enough funds to pay for his books and tuition for one semester. There, the director of extension, Otis L. Peacock, assisted him in finding parttime employment. He had to have work if he remained in school.

Working at night and attending classes during the day or working between classes, he kept himself going. In the fall of 1956 he transferred to Auburn. The cycle of making contacts and getting jobs began all over again.

A producer for Auburn's educational television studio, Tom Eden, liked his determination. That opened some doors for him. Although Holcombe has neither borrowed money nor received monetary gifts, he readily acknowledges the aid and encouragement given him by such men as Peacock, Eden, William B. Hagood, vocational agriculture teacher at Waterloo High School, and Leonard Johnson of the State National Bank, Florence.

To pay his way, Holcombe worked at night in a wire factory, serviced automobiles with gasoline, labored in Kansas wheat fields and performed yard work. In school he worked in cafeterias and acted as mail orderly and custodian of buildings.

The experience of being on his own, of planning carefully for each school year and of overcoming setbacks and disappointments has added "grit to his craw." In a sense, he has been through the fire, and his foundations are laid on bedrock.

There has been little time for foolishness in his 22 years. Mostly, he spent them making his way and creating friends. Now the college diploma is his. But getting it is not the end! A good, solid future lies ahead for this lad who has shown that he can overcome failures.

Edwin Ray Holcombe is made of stern stuff. America can use more like him!

Livestock Space Being Reserved

Exhibitors Signing Up Rapidly; Prompt Action Urged By Management

Livestock exhibitors are rapidly reserving space at the North Alabama State Fair, according to a report issued today by fair officials. Producers in various parts of Alabama, as well as several other states, have signed up to show a variety of livestock including Poland-China, Duroc, and Berkshire hogs plus some Landrace hogs, a breed new to the local Fair exhibit halls.

Exhibitors of fine hogs having reserved space so far are: Grady Daniel, Cypress Inn, Tennessee; H. A. Bebel, Route 5, Florence; Hidden Valley Farms, Trenton, Tennessee; Cornelius Smith, Killen; E. J. Davis, New Albany, Mississippi; William R. Darden, Myrtle, Mississippi; Charles B. Rickles & Sons, Ashville, Alabama, and others.

On the beef cattle side of the picture, the Angus and Shorthorns will be very much in evidence, with exhibits by producers like Todway Acres, Pike Road, Alabama; Redland Farms, Trenton, Kentucky; Ernest Shaw, Hopkinsville, Kentucky; and Triple A Ranch, Warrenton, Missouri. This is the first time Missouri producers have been represented at the North Alabama State Fair, officials stated.

Cowley, Hereford & Smith, of Kelo, Tennessee, will show their fine Jersey dairy cattle. Fair officials pointed out that, in keeping with the long-standing Fair policy, there will be no entry fee for livestock exhibitors, therefore, there are no registration blanks. All that is necessary to reserve exhibit space is to contact the Fair officials. This may be done by writing to C. H. Jackson, Fair Manager, Box 165, Florence, or calling him at AT 2-4661. To be eligible for premiums, livestock must be in place at the fair grounds by 12 o'clock noon, Mon-

Postmaster Don Holt reports that the Post Office Department's drive to stamp out the activities of "merchants in filth" who solicit minor children for the mail-order sale of obscene materials is making substantial headway.

Postmaster General Summerfield has notified the local postmaster that during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1959, the Post Office Department conducted more than 14,000 separate investigations of traffic in mail order obscenity, of which approximately 10,000 were based on complaints from parents aroused to the menace presented by "the vicious arrogance of the smut racketeers."

Actual arrests during the year, according to Postmaster Holt, totaled 315, a significant increase over the previous year, and almost double the number of arrests during 1957, when the Post Office Department was still hampered by inadequate enforcement legislation.

Prior to the summer of 1958, antiquated laws and liberal court interpretations—Postmaster General Summerfield prefers to call them "misinterpretations"—required that even the most blatant profiteer, sending the vilest possible material through the mails to school-age children, could be prosecuted only at the point of origin of the mail, usually New York or Los Angeles.

According to Postmaster Holt, the "liberal" courts in these cities established a definition of "obscenity" far different from views held by the majority in most normal American communities.

In 1958 the Postmaster General recommended new legislation to the 85th Congress, which would permit prosecution of such racketeers at the point where the mail was received, and where the actual attempt to corrupt children's moral and social health took place. Congress promptly responded to the Postmaster General's plea, and translated the recommendations into law.

Postmaster Holt reports that this new legislation is now beginning to bear fruit. The first case prosecuted under the new law was of a man and his wife on the West Coast, who were mailing obscene literature to youngsters in Boise, Idaho.

Thanks to the new law, according to Postmaster Holt, these two were convicted in Boise, and sentenced to 10 years behind bars plus a heavy fine.

In another recent California case, a 10-year prison sentence was imposed on a criminal offender convicted of sending obscene material through the mail, in contrast to so many previous cases in that area when probation had been granted.

Quarterback Club Hears Coach Meek

Head Coach Bill Meek of the Southern Methodist University football team was the guest speaker at the August meeting of the Tri-Cities Quarterback Club at the Florence Country Club Tuesday night. Program Chairman Charles Finney had charge of program arrangements and presented the speaker.

Coach Meek, a former University of Tennessee star, pointed to the great increase in the number of boys playing football today from high school through college, and the pro ranks and stressed the fact that better coaching and better facilities contribute to the great success of the game.

Meek, who made his home here until he was two years old, said that this was a homecoming for him. The family later moved to Birmingham where he attended high school.

Holding one of the top coaching jobs in the entire country, Coach Meek delighted the members of the club with his interesting discussion of the game of football and its progress during recent years. Will McDonnell, Sheffield attorney and captain of the club, presided.

Reservations should be made early for livestock exhibit space still remaining, it was urged.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES WILLIAM MINTON, JR.

Missouri Nuptials Of Local Interest

Of cordial interest in Florence, girlhood home of the bridegroom's mother, and throughout a wide section of the State where his maternal forebears have long been prominent, is the wedding event of Sunday, August second, when Sharon Ann Ellis, daughter of Mrs. R. L. Wilkinson of Hannibal, Missouri, became the bride of James William Minton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Minton, also of Hannibal.

Mrs. Minton, Sr., is the former Elizabeth Weeden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Downing Weeden of "Sweetwater," ancestral family home.

The afternoon ceremony took place at half past two o'clock in Hannibal's Fifth Street Baptist Church, the Reverend F. L. Kelly, minister of the church, reading the double ring service following nuptial selections by Miss Ruth Tipton, organist, and Miss Linda Sherman, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, John Ellis, of Quincy, Illinois. For her wedding occasion she chose a floor-length gown of net and Chantilly lace over bridal satin, distinguished by a fitted bodice detailed with scalloped Sabrina neckline and long sleeves which tapered to points over the hands. Her only ornaments were a single strand of pearls and matching earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

Her veil of nylon illusion cascaded from a pearl encrusted head-dress and with her bride's Bible she carried a bouquet of orchids showered with lilies of the valley and white satin streamers tied in lover's knots.

Her attendants were Miss Karla Killian, maid of honor, Miss Priscilla Kelly and Leona Wilkinson, bridesmaids and junior maid. Miss Killian's frock of rose-pink starched cotton was designed with a squared front-neckline which scooped to a deep-U at the back, bell-shaped sleeves and full, pleated skirt. The bridesmaids wore pastel pink, identically fashioned. They all carried fan-shaped arrangements of gladioli florets, the honor maid's white, the others, pink, and their halo headpieces were of pink nylon tulle. Their iridescent pearl necklaces were a gift from the bride.

Earl Lucas, former college roommate, served Mr. Minton as best man and George Pappas and James

MISS JEAN DAVIS, whose forthcoming marriage to Madison Davis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Madison Davis of Fort Davis, Alabama, will be an event of September nineteenth in Highland Baptist Church of Florence. The bride-elect is a graduate of Florence State College and her fiancé was graduated from University of Alabama, where he was affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity. The announcement has been made by Miss Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Davis of Florence.

Wilkinson were groomsmen and junior groomsmen. Ushers and candlelighters were Rod Riddle and Jerry Patterson.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony.

For travel, the bride changed to a white linen sheath styled with cummerbund, with which she wore white accessories and an orchid from her bouquet.

In the interim between honeymoon and college, Mr. and Mrs. Minton have been guests of his parents at their home in Hannibal. After September first they will be at home at 510 Main Street, Rollo, Missouri, where he will continue his college courses at the School of Mines and Metallurgy and she will join the teaching faculty in the district.

A number of pre-nuptial courtesies preceded the wedding.

Miss Dorothy Martin Reveals Nuptial Plans

When Dorothy Louise Martin becomes the bride of Everett Brennon Searcy of Addison, Ala., at half past seven o'clock on Saturday, September fifth, she will be given in marriage by her father, Albert Lynn Martin.

Trinity Episcopal Church of Florence will be the setting and the Reverend Edward Gordon Mullen, rector of the church, will read the vows following nuptial selections by A. Robert Tomlinson, organist, and Miss Harriet Tomlinson, cousin of the bride-elect, vocalist.

Miss Patricia Oldham will be the bride's maid of honor and bridesmaids and bridesmaids will be her sister-in-law, Mrs. John D. Martin; her cousin, Mrs. Lyn Overholt of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Betty Darnall, also a cousin;

Mrs. William Reeves and Miss Louisa Jones. Mimi Mosier will be flower girl.

Mr. Searcy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dexter Searcy of Addison, will have his brother, James W. Searcy of Haleyville, as his best man and ushers will be Robert A. Searcy, of Addison, also a brother; William F. Reeves and Weldon Cole of Florence; James A. Harris of Tusculum and Allison Michael of Lexington.

Following the rehearsal of plans on the evening preceding the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Searcy will entertain in honor of their son and his fiancée at The Town Club, and immediately after the ceremony the bride's parents will be reception hosts at Florence Golf and Country Club.

Pre-Nuptials honoring Miss Martin will begin with a buffet dinner on August twenty-ninth, hostesses to be Mrs. Theodore Gerber and her daughter, Miss Betty Darnall.

Mrs. A. R. Tomlinson and Miss Harriet Tomlinson will entertain at their Lauderdale Beach home on August thirtieth, and Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Wyatt Simpson will be hostesses on Monday, the thirty-first, at the lakeside home of the former.

On Tuesday, September first, the Morris Klibanoff home on Pleasant Drive will be the setting when Mrs. Klibanoff and Mrs. Charles Green entertain with a cocktail party, and on the evening of the same day Mrs. William O. Crabb and Mrs. John Archer will entertain at bridge in the home of the latter.

Mrs. Louis Martin, and daughter, Mrs. Robert Mullen, will honor Miss Martin with a luncheon at the home of the former on the second. Mrs. Frank Mosier and Mrs. S. Paul Lewis will be tea hostesses that afternoon at the Mosier home.

Mrs. William Bradley and Mrs. Wilbur Darby will entertain with a Town Club luncheon on September third, preceding the evening gift tea which will be hosted in the Bobby Moody home by Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Jack Martin and Mrs. William Reeves.

On Friday, the fourth, Miss Louisa Jones and Mrs. Sewell Jones will be hostesses to the bridesmaids luncheon at The Town Club.

Double-Ring Ceremony Marks Trousdale-Riddle Nuptials

A morning ceremony in First Methodist Church of Florence united in marriage Edna Leoma Trousdale, daughter of Emmett A. Trousdale of Killen and the late Mrs. Trousdale, and John Samuel Riddle, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George O. Riddle of Rockwood, Tennessee, on Wednesday, August twelfth.

Dr. R. Lambuth Archibald, minister of the church, read the ten o'clock vows in the presence of a guest company composed of family members and close friends. Nuptial selections were presented by Miss Judy Lewis, pianist, and the Reverend Edwin Belue, vocalist.

The bride's dress of white silk shantung was designed with a fitted bodice distinguished by a rounded neckline and Dior sleeves, and a very full skirt. She wore a small white hat with tulle veil and, at her shoulder a cluster of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. Miss Nancy Coleman of Athens was the bride's only attendant. Her frock of powder blue sheer was complimented by matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Ernest Huffman was best man for the bridegroom.

Before leaving for a honeymoon in the Smokies, Mrs. Riddle changed to a frock of periwinkle blue linen with matching jacket, white accessories and her bridal corsage.

Now returned, they are at home at 921 North Pine Street.

Mrs. Charles Weed and daughters, Linda, Dianne and Patsy, 226 Roosevelt Ave., have returned from a Summer in Belgium where they were guests of Mrs. Weed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lallamand. They were joined there by Mr. Weed for a portion of their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chambers, Jr., and sons, Bill and David, spent the past week in Panama City, Fla.

RETIREE CIVIL EMPLOYEES TO MEET SATURDAY

A covered dish dinner is scheduled by Chapter No. 233, National Association of Retired Civil Employees at the American Legion home, Florence, Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock, Charles C. Ross, publicity chairman announces. The dinner will honor Chapter President and Mrs. R. H. Old.

Every member of the chapter is urged to attend and bring a covered dish. The program as arranged will be most entertaining and evening of good fellowship will be enjoyed.

SHARING THE SAME wedding day with Anna Maria and Steven (and probably chosen much earlier) are Mary Evans and Frank Malone, Jr., whose middle aisle-ing took place on Saturday in Nashville . . . and preceding them by one day was the nuptial event in New Orleans when Florence's Alfred Brann, Jr., said his I DO's with pretty Margaret Costley . . . attended by two of our most charming young men-about-town . . . Philip Southall and Cloyd Beasley, Jr., all of whom were proud as Punch to have represent us in the Crescent City . . . Let's Talk It Over
By SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,
How can I make my mother understand that I love her, but just WISH she'd let me and my family make a few plans and carry them out without including her in them? I've been married six years and have two children. My husband travels and is sometimes away from home a week at a time and, during his absences, I'd like to occasionally visit friends. Or have them to spend a few days with me.

But neither of those things can happen because mother always moves right in to "take his place while he's gone." And she simply has a picnic for the duration. So, of course, when she's having such a wonderful time I can't be a wet blanket and tell her that I want to make different plans.

Do you suppose I could keep it from her the next time my husband is on a trip? She lives nearly a hundred miles from us and it would be easy except that she calls up several times each week and always asks to talk to him. I'm a truthful person, but am tempted to pretend that he's gone to the corner grocery, or anything that will keep her from jumping in her car and driving up.

Please help me decide how this can be handled.

Peg.

Dear Peg,
There're two reasons why I object to your "pretending" idea. One is that it would certainly be setting a bad example for your young and impressionable children. And the other, you'd be practicing deceit, regardless of what you call it, and no truthful and honest person can be happy under that circumstance.

Next time your husband expects to be away, call your mother before she calls you. And tell her that you're going to take advantage of an opportunity to visit whom-ever it may be, but that you'll need her the NEXT time your mister's absent from home. I think you'll have to slip loose from those apron strings gradually.

But if you're diplomatic, and have a few ounces of patience, it shouldn't be too difficult.

Your mother's attitude stems from selfishness. She's doing what she WANTS to do and she'll never stop of her own volition.

Bill Would Help Curb Delinquency

Council To Evaluate Projects Proposed In Measure Before Congress

An action-research approach recommended by Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) to this nation's mounting juvenile delinquency problem has been cleared for action by the United States Senate.

The Senate Health and Welfare Committee headed by Senator Hill recently reported the bill favorably. The senior Alabama Senator expressed his gratitude at the Committee's action. He said his bill offers "a sensible approach to juvenile delinquency problems through a major coordinated research effort to find, prove, and publicize the best methods of fighting delinquency."

A National Advisory Council on Juvenile Delinquency composed of 12 recognized authorities in the field would, under the Hill bill, evaluate projects proposed by states or other public or private non-profit organizations. The Government would help finance projects to develop and demonstrate techniques found most effective in identifying, preventing and treating juvenile delinquency in the participating states.

"I am convinced that we must make a start toward some nationwide campaign against juvenile delinquency and I believe the bill now before the Senate will show the way to vital education, research, diagnosis, and treatment of this distressing social problem," concluded the Alabama Senator.

A similar bill is now the pending order of business before the Health and Education Committee of the House. The House bill was introduced by Representative Carl Elliott, like Hill, an Alabama Democrat.

FORD ENTERS AUTO FINANCING FIELD

Ford Motor Company today announced the incorporation of a wholly-owned credit and financing subsidiary.

T. O. Yntema, Ford vice president-finance, said the new organization, a Delaware corporation, will be known as Ford Motor Credit Company. Mr. Yntema is chairman of the board of directors of the new subsidiary.

Ford announced earlier this year that it planned to enter the automotive sales financing field.

The Salvation Army provides summer camping experiences for about 15,000 children in the United States each year.

Governor Names Four 'Colonels'

Honorary Commissions Presented Last Week By Adjutant General

Gov. John Patterson has added four more honorary "colonels" to his personal military staff. They are:

George Johnson of Athens, now in his 25th year as a county and circuit Solicitor and state president of the Circuit Solicitors Assn. He was chief prosecutor in the trials following the Phenix City clean-up in 1954.

C. E. Garrett of Bay Minette, president of the Alabama Aid Age Pension Assn. Now 79, he is a former sheriff of Baldwin County and the father of 10 children, one of whom was killed in Pacific action in World War II.

Rebe Gosdin of Montgomery, 35-year-old bandleader who accompanied the governor in his campaign last year. A guitar and mandolin player, Gosdin and his Sunny Valley Boys played in some 200 cities and towns all over Alabama.

Dallas Moon of Huntsville, a contract specialist at Redstone Ar-

Shirley's To Show Loper Originals

From as far back as one can remember, it has been traditional for American fashion to bow to the creations of the European masters. Dior, Fath, Balenciaga, Hartnell, and others were, and are, names to be truly respected. And rightly so, for the fashions of these designers are artistic creations. This was a field in which American designers found it hard, if not almost impossible to compete.

But the tables have turned, and recently we have been treated to the sight of an American fashion creator showing his designs in the leading European fashion capitals, London, Paris, and Rome. Now add to the names of the masters the name of Don Loper of California, the first American ever to show his creations in Europe, at the invitation of the leading European couturiers. The showings of the Loper creations in London, Paris, and Rome were well received.

While in London, Loper was asked to give a private showing for members of the Royal family, who praised the originality and beauty of the creations they saw. America can now be proud of top achievement in the fashion field, up to now a field closed to all but the great European masters of design.

A trunk showing of fashions by "Don Loper of California" will be given at Shirley's, N. Court St., August 31 and September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Taylor and daughters, Frances and Jane, are expected Saturday from their home in Alexandria, Va., for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Taylor, 318 Wildwood Ave.

Alfred Willard Brann, Jr., Weds In Louisiana Setting

At five o'clock in the afternoon on Friday, August twenty-first, Margaret Miller Costley of New Orleans became the bride of Alfred Willard Brann, Jr., of Florence, in the St. Charles Avenue Presbyterian Church in New Orleans.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Miller Costley and of Stanley Frederick Costley, both of New Orleans, and the bridegroom's parents are Alfred Willard Brann of Jacksonville, Florida, and the late Mrs. Brann. He is the nephew of Mrs. Bayless Shane Haraway and the late Mr. Haraway of Florence, with whom he has made his home since early childhood.

The Reverend William T. Kennedy, minister of the church, read the vows following nuptial selections by Clifford Tucker, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of bridal white bouquet taffeta and peau d'ange lace fashioned along princess lines. The molded bodice was detailed with a Sabrina neckline and elbow-length sleeves, and the voluminous skirt extended into a court train.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a half-cap of matching lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and white butterfly orchids.

Miss Cecile Frances Costley was her sister's honor attendant and Miss Frances Herick Merriman, a cousin, of Dallas, Texas, and Mrs. John Robert Lovegrove, cousin of the bridegroom, of Nashville, Tennessee, were bridesmaids and bridesmatron.

Distinguishing features of their pale blue organza frocks were the softly-draped bodices with scooped necklines and very full skirts.

Face veils were attached to matching organza bandeaux and they carried bouquets of white roses and English ivy.

Mr. Brann served his son as best man and ushers included Philip Fox Southall and Clyde Orris Beasley, both of Florence, Robert T. Russell of Birmingham and Henry Payne of Sylacauga.

Against a background of foliage flanked by urns of white blossoms, the bridal party greeted wedding guests immediately following the ceremony at a reception at New Orleans Country Club. Florentines present included Mrs. Bayless Shane Haraway, Mrs. J. Morton Southall and Miss Mary Eliza Southall.

Before leaving for a Florida honeymoon, the bride changed to a suit of navy linen with box pocket. She wore navy accessories and, at her shoulder, a cluster of orchids from her bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Brann will be at home after September first at 5502 Loyola Avenue, New Orleans.

Elbert M. Norton Claims Tarrant Bride

An evening ceremony in Boyles Baptist Church of Tarrant marked the exchange of vows on Saturday, August twenty-second, of Gayle Boatright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Boatright of Tarrant, and Elbert M. Norton of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Norton of Florence.

Against a background of greenery, baskets of white gladioli and branched candelabra of burning white tapers marked the altar against which the tableau formed. The Reverend Richard E. Francis read the vows of the eight o'clock service.

Nuptial selections were presented by Mrs. A. L. Salter, organist, and Haskell Johnson, vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding occasion a patio-length gown of white nylon lace over bridal satin. A bandeau of matching lace caught her float veil of white net and her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations.

Serving her sister as honor attendant, Miss Judy Boatright wore a full-skirted frock of pink crystal fashioned with scooped neckline, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Ty Hill, Birmingham, was best man for the bridegroom, and ushers were Hub Reynolds, William Oldham, Edward Mullen and Robert Hill, all of Florence.

Now honeymooning in Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Norton will be at home after August thirtieth at 1153 Bristol Street, Tarrant.

The Frank Malones, Jr., Honeymooning In Nassau

Marked by an evening ceremony in Second Presbyterian Church of Nashville, Tennessee, Miss Mary Evans, daughter of Mrs. Boyd McCutcheon Evans and the late Mr. Evans of Nashville, became the bride of Frank Mitchell Malone, Jr., of Atlanta, Georgia, on Saturday, August twenty-second.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell Malone, formerly of Florence and now of Atlanta.

Garden lights garlanded with greenery, outlined the approaches to the church entrance and chimes accompanied the assembling of wedding guests. A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Mary Elizabeth Hicks, organist, and Miss Phoebe Knox, vocalist, before the Reverend Ben Alexander, minister of Belle Meade Methodist Church, read the eight o'clock vows.

A background of Woodwardia fern accented the bronze cross at the center of the altar, with arrangements of seven-branched candelabra of burning white tapers and clipped lemon trees at either side. Greenery marked the chancel and decorated the chancel rail, and single cathedral candles marked pew ends to delineate the church aisle.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Bob Dudley Smith. Her gown of ivory peau de soie was fashioned along princess lines and distinguished by a portrait neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The full-length skirt was detailed with a flared side-panel of Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls, and a cathedral-length train.

Her veil of silk mist illusion was caught to a cap of crushed silk and her cascade bouquet was fashioned of lilies of the valley and white sweet-heart roses.

Mrs. Bob Dudley Smith was her sister's honor attendant and bridesmaids included Miss Jane Turk, Miss Carrie Lee Dismukes of Galatin and Miss Jacqueline Phillips. Their full-length dresses of Pompein green peau de soie were designed with oval necklines, bracelet-length sleeves and cummerbunds of crushed silk. Their bouquets were fashioned of cream gladioli and tiny clusters of green and purple grapes.

Mr. Malone attended his son as best man and ushers were Boyd McCutcheon Evans, Jr., brother of the bride, Robert Balles Malone, brother of the bridegroom, Hugh Marion Goodman, Jr., of Chattanooga, and George Harvey Johnson, Joseph Harvey Delaney, Jr., and Robert Morris Johnson, all of Atlanta. Bob Dudley Smith, Jr., served as ringbearer.

Mrs. Boyd, mother of the bride was attired in a Bahama blue chantilly lace sheath with accents of chiffon and a corsage of white Phalaenopsis orchids, and the bridegroom's mother wore embroidered lace in a cognac shade with a cluster of beige and green Cymbidiums at her shoulder. Mrs. Jesse Benjamin Bailes of Florence, grandmother of the bridegroom, was gowned in Dresden blue lace, matching accessories, and her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at Hillwood County Club where guests were received on the terrace against a natural background of greenery. Tiny twinkling lights starred the encircling trees and white tapers burned in hurricane lanterns to light the surrounding grounds.

For traveling, the bride changed to a costume suit of beige Italian silk with matching, velvet-trimmed cloche.

Following their Nassau honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Malone will be at home in Atlanta.

Miss Helen Okelean Moore To Wed Garlon Glenn Hill

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. James Moore of Lexington of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen Okelean, to Garlon Glenn Hill, son of Mrs. G. W. Hill and the late Mr. Hill of Florence.

The wedding is being planned to take place on September nineteenth.

Prenuptials Continue For Miss Judy Watson

The Robert McKinney home at 1701 Virginia Street, Edgemont, was the setting for a gift tea on Tuesday evening, August eighteenth, when Mrs. Kinney entertained as a courtesy to Judy Watson, bride-elect of James Martin of Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

The honoree, wearing a full-skirted yellow Cupioni cotton frock and black patent accessories, received informally with her hostess and her mother, Mrs. W. H. Watson.

A miniature wedding party, posed against a tiny white altar complete with greenery and doll-sized candles, was the central decoration for the lace-covered tea table. Silver candelabra of burning pink tapers flanked the centerpiece and great arrangements of pink gladioli and white carnations were on nearby stands.

Assisting with the courtesies at the half past seven o'clock affair were Mrs. Howard Ingle and Mrs. J. B. Gilmer.

Guests numbered twenty.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Gray have returned from Nashville where he was a surgical patient at Vanderbilt Hospital.

Mr. Mrs. Sharp

Return From Honeymoon

Following their late afternoon wedding in Pine Street Church of Christ, Florence, on Friday, August twenty-first, and a brief honeymoon in Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sharp are now at home at 321 Simpson Street, Florence.

The bride is the former Betty Jane Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert C. Nichols of Florence, and Mr. Sharp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Sharp of Tusculum.

A sheath of white lace over taffeta, with aqua sash extending into a big back-bow, was the bride's attire. A tiny eye-veil was attached to her headdress of matching lace and she wore a corsage of aqua carnations.

Mrs. Joe Sharp was the bride's only attendant and Mr. Sharp, brother of the bridegroom, served him as best man.

Only the wedding party was present for the six o'clock ceremony, with Lamar Plunkett, minister of the church, reading the vows.

Morning Coffee Fetes

Bride-Elect Anne Phillips

Prior to her marriage on last Saturday to Leonard Patterson of Mobile, the former Miss Anne Phillips was honored with a coffee on the morning of the fifteenth when Miss Winnie Bowman entertained at her apartment on West Tusculum Street, where a profusion of roses lent added charm.

Pink roses and pink sweetpeas filled an antique crystal container on the coffee table, spread with an Italian cutwork cloth. Assisting in serving the fifteen guests was the honoree's sister, Mrs. John Gann.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Acton at their home in Lake Cove have been their grandchildren, Miss Leona Garth and Jimmy Garth, of Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. J. T. Liles of Greer, S. C., is the guest of her son, Junius Liles, and Mrs. Liles, on Dixie Ave.

Mrs. T. M. Rogers returned Friday to her home on North Wood Ave., after a Summer tour of Scandinavian countries.

Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Tomlinson and daughters, Linda Diane and Beth, were among the out-of-town guests at the McCulloch-Coulter nuptials in Decatur recently.

Miss Nell Pearson returned to Florence Saturday after conducting workshops during the past three weeks at the University of Denver and the University of California. She will return this week-end to her post as Director of the Literacy Center in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scarbrough,

514 North Walnut, are at home after a week at the Methodist Church's Camp Sumatanga where they served as counselors.

One hundred fifteen attended Sunday School at the Bethel Baptist Church on Sunday morning, with others arriving for the evening o'clock worship hour. In the evening sixty-one was present for training union. A part of the adult groups of the training union drove to the Springfield mission to present a program there. The Rev. McDougal filled his pulpit at both the morning and the evening worship services.

On Saturday evening the brotherhood and WMU organizations met at the church for their regular monthly meeting. Following the meetings of the various groups the Jr. G.A.'s and their leader, Mrs. Buddy McCrary surprised the groups and especially Tommy Camp with a fellowship party in Tommy's behalf, at the social hour. The girls had decorated the dining table with blue and white party arrangements, from which they served the groups refreshments consisting of punch, cake and nuts. Tommy will enter college at Howard this fall.

718th Battle Flag Presented At Meet

The 718th Railway Operating Battalion, attached to General Patton's 3rd Army in Europe during World War II, and assigned the task of moving supplies and injured to and from the famous Battle of the Bulge, recently held its annual reunion of which John H. McWilliams, Rt. 2, Tusculumbia was chairman.

Lt. V. V. Crouch, Indianapolis, Ind., presented the association with war trophies in the form of two flags, one being a German flag which flew from the flagstaff of the German National Railroad headquarters in Mainz, Germany. Located on the Rhine river, this building was the former headquarters of the 718th. The other flag presented by Lieutenant Crouch was the original battalion flag of the unit when stationed at Camp Claiborne, La., and followed the unit throughout Europe.

Members of this wartime unit accepted the trophies at this year's reunion with the reservation to initiate a museum at a suitable spot in New York state to display wartime relics to be donated by

Bible Comment:

Bible Should Not Be Treated as Just One Book

There is great value in recognizing that the Bible has great passages, outstanding in interest and in moral and spiritual value, and in the effect that they have had on human life and conduct.

One of the most serious errors in reading the Bible is to treat it as if it were all one book. The conception of the Bible as the source of religious authority, as the voice of God speaking to man, verbally inspired, and uniform in every part, has led to citing of texts with little reference to their context or original reference.

But the worst aspect of this error was that it obscured the plain statement of the Bible itself. For the Christians, the life and words of Jesus have an authority beyond all else.

There are highlights of truth and authority in the Bible, a book of many books, coming out of various circumstances and conditions over a period of hundreds of years of time, that are not found in some other portions of the many books.

This does not mean that other portions of the Bible are lacking in authority and truth. But it does mean that many portions of the Bible are to be read and understood in relation to their own time.

The Bible in its many books is never so great, so interesting, and so rewarding as when we read it in the light of what it is.

When it comes to sheer intrigue, I say dandelions are the world's cleverest weeds.

First they hide beneath their yellow blooms, figuring I'll mistake them for flowers.

Then when I have spent most of the summer rooting them out, the last cunning survivors always enlist the help of my own youngsters to plant a bumper crop for next year.

But there are weeds more serious than dandelions — weeds which like the tares in Christ's parable are planted by an Enemy. These are my real concern when I think about my youngsters. I want no evil to choke or twist the character of my sons and daughters. Nor do I want them to spread the spores of evil that will undermine the character of others.

I believe that God meant me to seek truth and moral courage through the teaching, preaching and fellowship His Church provides. Every Sunday I share these blessings with my family.

Better Crops From Winter Legumes

By HERMAN H. MARKS
Assistant County Agent

In observing over Lauderdale County you find many good fields of cotton, corn and many other crops. But in a number of instances we also find low yields of these crops. There are a number of reasons why some fields produce well while others have low yields. There seems to be one thing in common on soils which produce high yields and that is they have had winter legumes planted on them for several years.

An example of what I mean is revealed on the Albert Mabe farm in the Lexington Community. The Mabe family has been growing winter legumes for soil improvement for some 35 years. Last year Mr. Mabe averaged better than 80 bushels of corn on a field with only 100 pounds of commercial fertilizer being used. There was no side-dressing with commercial nitrogen. There are many other examples which could be used. If you find a farm which is producing high yields chances are you will find that winter legumes have played an important part.

There are several reasons why winter legumes pay. They do not interfere with the production of cotton, corn, grain sorghum, or other crops. They slow down or prevent erosion and reduce leaching of plant nutrients from the soil. They add nitrogen to the soil. They can be grazed late February or early March, then allowed to make big top growth in plenty of time to turn for corn or other crops. They can be planted with either mule-drawn or tractor equipment in row crop middles or after crops are harvested. They do not require cultivation.

The USDA in some tests found that in a straight corn rotation, 21,000 gallons of water was required to mature a bushel of corn. In a corn-legume rotation, where organic matter is turned under each year, only 5,600 gallons of water was required to mature a bushel of corn. This points up the fact that good soil management is most important in the proper utilization of water by crops.

Shorter Season For Duck Hunters

Alabama duck hunters will have 30 days less shooting this season according to an announcement made today by the Alabama Department of Conservation. In addition to the reduction in hunting days for ducks, the coot limit was Getting discouraged with cotton?? ... maybe a few words from a report of the National Cotton Council will cheer you ... the report was given the early part of the year, and it is a long range outlook based on sound economic research ... we like to keep it around just to read when we get a little discouraged about the cotton business ... the title of the report is "The Economic Outlook for U. S. Cotton's Markets" ... here are some of the things it points out ... Dr. M. K. Horn, Jr., chief economist for the NCC is speaking:

Lots of Hope
"Looking at the whole thing, I would like to say that there are plenty of grounds for hope that we can start the long-run trend of our market rolling upward. On the domestic market we have the big, encouraging fact that our losses among the industrial uses are declining and that the total trend of our clothing and household mar-

Nation's Farmers Need Leadership Of Farm Bureau

Rather than being a "dying business," agriculture becomes more important with the addition of every individual to our rapidly increasing population, says Dr. E. T. York, head director of the API agricultural extension service.

And the extension chief told some 250 farm leaders attending the ninth annual Alabama Farm Bureau Training School, "I doubt that there has ever been a time reduced from 10 last season to a total of four this year.

Conservation Director William C. Younger stated that the framework allowed by federal waterfowl regulations made it mandatory to cut the length of the duck season and the bag limit on coots. "The Alabama Advisory Board of Conservation had a choice of allowing a 50 day season with a daily limit of three ducks or a 40 day season with a limit of four ducks," Younger said, "and the board decided to accept the shorter season with the larger bag limit since most duck hunters prefer a reduction in days rather than a reduction in the bag limit."

Season dates and bag limit are: Ducks and Coots, four a day or eight in possession, Nov. 25 through Jan. 3. Wood duck, Canvasback, Redhead, and Ruddy Ducks, one a day or in possession, Nov. 25 through Jan. 3. Geese and brant, five a day or five in possession, not to include more than two Canada geese or two white-fronted geese or one of each, Oct. 31 through Jan. 8. Rails and Gallinules, 15 a day or in possession, Nov. 25 through Jan. 2. Wilson snipe or jacksnipe, eight a day or in possession, Dec. 10 through Jan. 8. Woodcock, four a day or eight in possession, Dec. 7 through Jan. 15.

Winter Grazing Subject Circular

"Winter grazing is an important part of the pasture program on most successful livestock farms in Alabama. Cool season grazing crops are highly digestible, very palatable, high in protein, and low in fiber."

So says API Extension Agronomist O. N. Andrews in the new Circular Number 480, "Winter Grazing in Alabama." The circular, issued by the API Extension Service, is now available at county agents' offices throughout the state.

In the section on small grains, the specialist states that one or more small grains should be included in the grazing program on most Alabama farms. He discusses planting, varieties, fertilization, and other recommendations for oats, wheat, and rye.

The section entitled "Grass-Legume Mixtures" is concerned with rye, ryegrass, and crimson clover; crimson clover and ryegrass; rye and ryegrass; crimson clover and oats or wheat; vetch and oats or wheat; and crimson clover and ryegrass.

In a discussion on legumes, Andrews points out the recommendations for winter legumes seeded on sod. In addition, he discusses winter legumes for soil improvement and seed production.

kets is strongly upward. The wash-and-wear finishes are helping us. A lower support price next season apparently will give us a new margin of competitive strength in many cases ...

New Defense
"... thinking about a competitive strategy for cotton, we have been recognizing the great danger of rayon-cotton blends, based on the fact that in net cost to the mills rayon has a price advantage of six to ten cents a pound over cotton. But last year the cotton industry threw up one big defense against this when it obtained passage of the fiber labeling law ... prices of cotton will be substantially lower ... rayon raises its price. Nothing like this ever happened before ... cotton is showing new competitive strength ..."

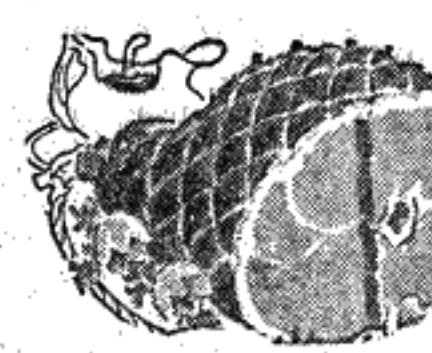

16, 18, 20 Million Bales
"... our competitors are not unbeatable and American cotton has a lot of competitive strength and a great potential for the future ... the declining production is the thing that has been felt by our farmers and ginners and merchants, but the future holds more promise than you would judge by this experience. We can see the trend of our market ... toward 16, 18, 20 million bales and more if we go forward with a wise long-range campaign of competition for the market, not with price alone, but with price, research, and promotion combined"

Now don't you feel better???

when the nation's agriculture has needed the strong and capable leadership that Farm Bureau is giving, more than it does now."

Pointing out that non-farm people are becoming strongly organized, Dr. York declared that "it is important that farm people be organized under the leadership that Farm Bureau has been giving and can give in the future."

He called for better public re-

RURALITE EMERGENCY PROTECTION
PERSONAL ACCIDENT POLICY

Designed Especially For Our
Subscribers and Their Family Household Members

This outstanding policy will help to pay those unexpected expenses for bodily injury—whether simple or serious—when accidents strike without warning at work, on the farm, at home, at school, at play, or while traveling. Here is a modern, practical, essential and economical personal accident policy prepared to give the best possible protection at the lowest possible cost that will fit the pocketbook of every family.

Each member of the family—man, woman and child—regardless of age, residence, occupation or activity—is constantly exposed to accident hazards "around the clock" and should have this valuable and helpful protection which is now available through this newspaper because of the serious accident situation which exists everywhere today. Subject to the policy provisions, it includes indemnity for Loss of Life, Loss of Limb, Loss of Sight, Total Disability, First Aid, Ambulance, Hospital and X-Ray.

The policy is issued without medical examination. There are no age limits (specific loss and total disability indemnities are reduced fifty per cent (50%) when the insured is or becomes age 70 and over.) It costs only $5.00 per person per year, plus a first-year only registration fee of $1.00. This averages but slightly more than a penny a day for protection everyone needs and can afford to pay. It is issued by Old Republic Life Insurance Company, Chicago, Illinois.

Mrs. Martha (Howell) King was honored with a bridal shower at the school lunch room Tuesday night. Misses Edith Ann Trousdale and Paulette Long were the hostesses for this affair. Mrs. W. L. Howell kept the bride's book.

Mrs. Valeria Ridgeway and Mrs. Wynette Butler were joint hostesses for a shower in honor of Mrs. Annette Hollandsworth. The shower was given in the home of Mrs. Wynette Butler Thursday afternoon. A large crowd attended and the honoree received many useful and attractive gifts.

The Rev. and Mrs. T. A. Duke are the proud parents of a baby girl who was born on August 20 and whom they have named Martha Joanna.

Visiting in the E. H. Byram home this week are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Byram of Old Hickory, Tenn. and Mr. and Mrs. Willard May and children and Mrs. Mae Sinyard all of Winter Haven, Fla.

The Herbert Patterson family of Cleveland, Ohio are spending a few days in their home here.

In a six o'clock ceremony Thursday afternoon Miss Martha Howell of Anderson became the bride of Irvine King of Lexington. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Howell and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lumsford King.

The Rev. E. C. Shepard, pastor of the Springfield Presbyterian Church read the vows. The setting for the wedding was the lawn of the bride's parents. An altar covered in greenery and white flowers formed the background. At either side of the altar was urns filled with white and blue mums and burning white tapers were placed in branched candelabra.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Edith Ann Trousdale, cousin of the bride, pianist and Mrs. W. L. Howell, Jr., soloist, a sister-in-law of the bride. Mr. Howell escorted and gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white lace featured a fitted bodice and a very full skirt ballerina length. Her veil of silk illusion was caught to a crown of pearls and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid. Miss Darryl Howell sister of the bride was her only attendant. She wore a frock of pink and carried a bouquet of white and blue mums. Little misses Faye and Joan King, nieces of the groom, served as candle lighters. Douglas King was the groom's best man.

For the occasion, Mrs. Howell mother of the bride was dressed in pink lace and Mrs. King, mother of the groom, was dressed in navy. Both wore a white carnation at the shoulder.

Little Roger Dale Howell, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. The ceremony was the double wedding ring ceremony.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the bride's home. The bride's table, overlaid with white lace, held the tiered wedding cake and the punch bowl, around which were tiny white and blue mums. Miss Aveda Howell and Miss Edith Ann Trousdale served as hostesses.

The bride and groom left immediately after the ceremony for a short honeymoon trip to the Smoky Mountains. The groom is employed at Reynolds. They will make their home with the groom's parents, while the bride finishes her high school education.

The pastor, Rev. William McDonald filled his regular fourth Sunday appointment at the Anderson Methodist Church Sunday. He chose for his subject, "What Must I Do To Be Saved." There were two additions to the church, that of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hamlin.

This was the last sermon of the conference year for the Anderson Church as the annual North Alabama Conference will convene in Birmingham Sept. 7-13. This church is looking forward to the return of Rev. McDonald as their pastor for the next year.

The fourth Sunday night singing was well attended by singers and listeners. The Jolly Five and the Gladney quartets were present for this singing. Visitors are always welcome in this church.
