The Passing Parade

1884 - 1959

By HAROLD S. MAY

Apparently the several petitions that have been making their rounds seeking support of proposals for a change in our city's government, have reached that stage of "what to do next." We believe that the time for a definite plan to get an opinion from all the people is now at hand. Why not a "straw" vote? Yes, we know we had a straw vote a few years ago but at that time the question was merely: City Manager or No City Manager. The vote was small, close and indecisive. Although there are no funds for holding such an election, we believe that those interested in this matter would provide free election holders, thus making the cost small. And this time, let's give the people a real choice. Let the ballot ask for the voter's preference on: 1. Maintaining the present system of three part-time commissioners, who choose the mayor. 2. City manager form with a full-time mayor and full-time city commission. 3. Full-time mayor or with two part-time commissioners. 4. Full-time mayor and a part-time city council of sufficient number to represent each section of the city. And let the decision of the voters be a mandate to our representatives in the State Legislature to pass such legislation that will make a final decision at the polls possible.

"One said to the other, mum, that it was Friday and, after all, Friday was an unlucky day," the maid explained.

Bob Jones Disappointed Over TVA Amendment

Self-Financing Measure Reported Out By Committee; Pledges Fight

BULLETIN

Calling the amendment to the TVA self-financing bill co-authored by himself and Rep. Clifford Davis (D. - Tenn.), "a victory for the private power companies," Rep. Robert E. (Bob) Jones said Wednesday he and Davis would fight the amendment all along the line. The amendment would limit TVA power operations to the present 80,000 square mile area it now serves.

Representative Robert E. (Bob) Jones expressed disappointment Wednesday that an amendment attached to the Davis-Jones TVA self-financing bill would limit the Authority's service area, and stated that he would fight the adoption of this amendment by the House when the bill comes up for a vote. Jones also predicted that power rates would soar if TVA is not allowed to expand. Following is a telegram received by this newspaper dated March 17 from Congressman Jones' office in Washington:

Every consumer of electric power in the United States can expect to pay higher utility rates if congress adopts legislation passed by the House Public Works Committee today, Congressman Robert E. Jones, D. Ala., declared here. The Public Works Committee passed the Davis-Jones Bill which asks Congressional authority for the TVA to issue bonds to finance future power expansion, but with an amendment which would limit its service to the area its power lines reached on July 1, 1957. The territorial limitation of TVA's service came after hearings in which dozens of witnesses representing private utilities in Southern States demanded its passage.

FSC Graduate Wins Fellowship

James Wilson Hooper
Lauded By Dean Allen
For Outstanding Work

James Wilson Hooper of Russellville, a member of the May graduating class at Florence State College, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship for the academic year 1959-60.

"We are elated over this outstanding honor for Jimmy," commented Dean Turner W. Allen, FSC representative for the Foundation.

The award is fifteen thousand dollars; the Foundation also pays directly to the graduate school tuition and fees for the fellow.

After serious consideration Hooper, a mathematics major, has chosen Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. "Auburn offers a solid program in my field, leading to a Ph.D.," he explained. "I expect to live and teach in the South."

"It has been satisfying to watch Jimmy's progress during his almost four years on campus," remarked Dr. W. T. McElheny, director of Student Personnel. He has participated widely and well in student activities and besides being a real scholar, he has well-rounded outside interests."

Among these activities Jimmy is vice-president of the Student Government Association and has served as president of Alabama Student Educational Association and of Kappa Delta Pi, honor education fraternity. He is a member of Kappa Mu Epsilon, honor math group, and has been listed for the past two years in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Hawaii Bill Signed By Eisenhower

Hawaii become the 50th state Wednesday when President Eisenhower signed the Hawaii statehood bill.

Hawaii by taking prompt action can enter the union officially by next July and be in time to send members to Congress during the present session, it was pointed out. However it was felt that October would be the more likely date since it took Alaska some six months to officially enter the union and become the nation's 49th state.

Hawaii has 30 days after signing of the bill to issue an official proclamation announcing elections. A primary must be held no less than 60 nor more than 90 days after the proclamation. Eisenhower's proclamation making the Islands the 50th state will come after election results are officially certified although there is no fixed time limit for such a proclamation.

Final congressional action on the admission of Hawaii to the union came on March 12, the House passing the measure 323 to 89. The Senate voted 76 to 15 in favor of the bill earlier.

The bill went to the President on Saturday March 14. Mr. Eisenhower using only four of the ten days allotted for veto or signing. Sundays, it was pointed out, do not count.

Docks Director Earl McGowin Visits Florence

Hopes To Obtain
Economic Guidance
On Local Situation

The Chamber of Commerce office was the site Wednesday afternoon of a discussion on the Florence State Docks situation. It was attended by Earl McGowin, State Docks Director, John Patton, chief engineer for the state conservation department and State Sen. E. B. Hattom, Jr. Along with local business and civic leaders.

Ben Craig, Jr., C of C president, opened the meeting with a summary of the Florence situation and Mr. McGowin followed with the history of the State Docks. He gave a summary of the amount spent to date for state docks, in part as follows: Decatur, $1,767,916.45; Florence $277,000; Sheffield, $34,000; Listerhill, $14,000; Jasper, $122,000; plus others, for a total of $3,057,000. He stated that it would take another $500,000 to complete the project. This total does not include Mobile.

Mr. McGowin stated that he was in Florence to obtain economic guidance on the local situation as nothing could be done until the November session of the legislature, at which time they would have to be presented a survey and action taken before funds could be released for completion of the project. The state docks fund has only $3,000 to $4,000 available at this time. He said that having been in his position for only six weeks or so he was by no means an authority on the subject and although he was appointed to a job of which he was hesitant to take he would do his utmost to see it was done right.

He has had a staff obtaining facts and figures for him, he added and hoped through the meeting Wednesday to get some idea of the situation in the Florence area so as to map out a plan.

He stated that upon taking office he was told there had been some poorly conceived moves made in Montgomery and saw for himself one example upon visiting the Sheffield site on his arrival.

He said he only hoped that the inland waterways could be developed.

HIGHLIGHTS OF ADDRESS

Highlights of President Eisenhower's radio address on broadcast Monday night:
We will not retreat one inch from our duty. We will not be the first to breach the peace.

As long as the Communist empire continues to threaten world domination we shall have to face threats to the peace of varying character and location.

To build toward peace and maintain freedom and security will require action in every field of human endeavor.

All history has taught us the grim lesson that no nation has ever been successful in avoiding the terror of war by refusing to defend its rights—by attempting to placate aggression.

Assuming developments that justify a summer meeting at the summit, the United States would be ready to participate in this effort.

The design of our defense is the product of the best composite judgment available for the fulfillment of our security needs.

The capacity of our combined striking forces represents an almost unimaginable destructive power. More and more this great retaliatory force will feature intermediate as well as long range missiles capable of reaching any target on earth.

We are engaged in an endless process of research, development and production to equip our forces with new weapons. We must never become frozen in obsolescence.

I believe the American people want, are entitled to, can indefinitely pay for, now have and will continue to have a modern, effective and adequate military establishment. Any misguided effort to reduce (defense funds) below what I have recommended weakens the sentries of freedom wherever they stand.

We have heard that our military posture has been subordinated to a balanced budget, to the jeopardy of our national defense. . . . that our defenses are . . . inadequate to meet recurrent Communist threats. . . . such assertions as these are simply not true. They are without foundation.

Bill Providing Acreage Transfer Reported Out

Final Action May Be Too Late Benefit Small Farmers This Year

Senator Lister Hill has strongly endorsed a modified acreage transfer and lease bill to permit an adjustment period for small cotton farmers who have been out of production during the Soil Bank Reserve Program.

The legislation reported favorably on March 13, by the Senate Agriculture Committee is a combination of several measures on which hearings were held recently. These earlier measures included S. 58 co-sponsored by Senators Hill and Sparkman. Prompt action is anticipated by the full Senate, according to Senator Hill.

The senior Alabama legislator declined, however, to hold out hope that the legislation could be enacted into law in time to benefit farmers this year.

He joined other Alabama officials in urging that those farmers who do not plan to use their full allotment this year release it immediately to the State ASC Committee for reallocation. Only in this way can Alabama plant its full quota this year and prevent future acreage losses, said Senator Hill.

The new bill is limited to upland cotton and provides authority for one year leases of allotments for use on other farms within the same county.

Since this legislation is designed to meet the problems of farmers who have uneconomic allotments, allotments may be leased only from farms with quotas of ten acres or less and may not be used on any farm on which the total allotment would then exceed fifty acres. Under the Committee bill any increases resulting from the election of Choice (B) would be disregarded in applying limitations of the new bill.

The election of Choice (A) by the farmer leasing an allotment would be applicable to all allotments owned or leased by him without regard to the Choice made by the farmer from whom the allotment was rented.

This provision is to prevent possible confusion if both Choice (A) and (B) cotton were grown on the same farm.

Also, for future State, county and farm allotments, acreage history would be credited to the farm from which the allotment was rented just as though it had been planted.

The bill in its present form would be limited to a three-year "test run," extending through crop-years 1959, 1960 and 1961.

BRIDGE SECTION IS FLOATED INTO PLACE

The second of the three steel sections of the highway bridge over Shoals Creek on Highway 72 near Florence was floated into place this week by crewmen of Nashville Bridge Co. sub-contractors for Blount Brothers Co. A third section, to be added in the near future, will complete the four-lane highway project.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Darby and son, John, have returned after visiting her mother, Mrs. M. B. Guin, in Vernon.

Cautious About Top Level Meet With Russians

Reiterating a former stand that the United States would fight rather than yield to Russia's demands that Allied troops leave West Berlin so it can become a "free city," President Eisenhower speaking to the nation over a nationwide radio and television hookup, said, "we cannot try to purchase peace by forsaking two million free people of Berlin."

Mr. Eisenhower charged the Soviet Union has "deliberately created" a war threat to enforce its Berlin demands, and indicated that appeasement would be worse than useless. He added that if we gave way we would encourage a wave of terrorism rather than law and order. War, he said, would be more likely than that event. On the other hand if we stand firm the danger of war would be minimized.

Members of Congress generally backed the President's firm stand on Berlin although some Democrats in particular, challenged his assessment of the nation's military strength, about which Mr. Eisenhower commented in his speech as being a "modern, effective, and adequate military establishment."

Cautious About Summit
Mr. Eisenhower spoke cautiously with respect to a possible summit meeting with the Soviets and referred to the West's reply to the recent Soviet note on the subject. He said:

"It is my hope that thereby all of us can reach an agreement with the Soviets in an early meeting at the level of foreign ministers. Assuming developments justify a summer meeting at the summit, the United States would be ready to participate in this further effort."

Macmillan Coming To U. S.
The President's reference to a possible top level meeting was made three days before the projected arrival of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's arrival in Washington for a conference.

Macmillan is said to favor a summit meeting regardless of whether any progress is made by a ministers meeting or not. The British are said to feel that a summit meeting is the only way to ease world tensions.

Mr. Eisenhower implied in his speech that he is in disagreement on this by his insistence on the lower level conference first.

Pinegar Family In Need Of Funds

Bill Mays, recently appointed manager of the Muscle Shoals TV Cable Corporation, has this past week initiated a fund in an effort to raise money for the mother of a drowning victim and the wife of a man who is also believed to have drowned in the Tennessee River last week.

Mrs. Elza Pinegar of Marianna, Ark., arrived in Florence last Tuesday with three children, ages 15, 11 and 5, after learning that her son, and almost certainly, her husband, had drowned in the Tennessee River, last week, near the Alabama-Tennessee line.

To date, approximately $115 has been raised in the burial fund, which is being administered by the First National Bank of Florence, according to Bill Mays, but this amount is still far short of the original goal. Funeral expenses, assuming the second body is found, will be about $800, Mays stated. Charges so far, are in excess of $350.

Contributions to the fund can be deposited at the First National Bank of Florence, or can be taken to either the Florence or the Sheffield office of the Muscle Shoals TV Cable Corporation.

The body of Ronald Pinegar, 26, was found last Wednesday; his father, Elza Pinegar, is still missing.

It Must Be Stopped

Holman Harvey writing in the current Readers Digest sounds a timely warning against the flood of pornography reaching our youth and the dire consequences we must face unless it is stopped.

The article calls attention to the fact that millions of unspeakably obscene sex photographs and movie films for "private showing" are reaching the youth of our country in a veritable flood of unbelievable filth and it speaks of the terrible effect it is having upon the minds of adolescents.

The operators of this vile traffic have only one thing in mind and that is profit. Just as the dope peddler profits on his illicit traffic that destroys the minds and bodies of its victims, so does the purveyor of obscene literature and pictures prey upon the impressionable minds and morals of youth.

What the article does not emphasize is the fact that the names and address of the questionable firms that mail these sex photos and films now flooding the country are contained in lurid advertisements in the scores of sex magazines currently flooding the nation's news stands.

A few years ago this insidious campaign of obscenity began under the guise of such enticing labels as "breezy" and "spicy" invading the credulous minds of young people through magazines claiming to print personal confessions of people in real life but which in reality were professionally written filth by staff members.

Today, finding the traffic extremely lucrative, the purveyors of filth boldly adorn the covers of their lush publications with women in various degrees of nudity and sensual poses. It is not the sort of provocative art seen on the average risqué calendar. It is extremely nauseating to the adult mind in its false portrayal of sex and plain poison to the naturally curious and investigative teen-age mind.

France fell twice because of decadent morals. This nation can also fall unless our coming generations are kept strong and free from the pitfalls that weaken them.

To clean our house of this insidious form of soul-destroying filth is not going to be easy. We spend a great deal of time and money in our crusades against dope and drink and crime but we seem to shy away from the sex angle that is certainly not confined to the street gangs of our cities but is easily available to the innocent children of every family in the land. There have been half-hearted efforts to bar the publication and sale of sex magazines and films and each time there has been a hue and cry that freedom of the press is being endangered. What an insult to the "fourth estate" that the publishers of such filth should dare call themselves the press.

It can be stopped but it will not be stopped unless there is united and concerted action against it. Once there is real widespread condemnation against this traffic it will fade away . . . not before.

City With A Future

Florence has progressed 47 million dollars building-wise during the past ten years. The city's area has been increased some 77 per cent and its population 65 per cent in the same period. This is truly an impressive and remarkable record and a great satisfaction to Florence's many progressive and public-spirited citizens who have contributed both time and effort toward the community's growth and wellbeing.

Florence has a great future but it must not be taken for granted. Now that this community is a budding young city we must all take part in planning for the future and it must be done thoughtfully and carefully. As any town grows its problems multiply and Florence has been no exception. Services must keep pace with expansion and proper financing must make these services possible without imposing burdensome taxes upon the people. Thus far Florence has done well in both respects.

Florence is fortunate in that its citizens are looking ahead and are planning for the future. A good planning board, good zoning and good building codes are some of the things that make for a liveable and attractive community but they are not all. There must be a willingness on the part of every citizen to put his shoulder to the wheel and help.

A good example of community spirit was demonstrated a number of years ago when Kingsport, Tenn., sent its representative outfit in search of industries. This enterprising young man visited the president of the great Eastman Kodak Company and suggested the company establish a branch factory in the mountains of East Tennessee.

The president of the Eastman Company was impressed by the young man's zeal and asked, "What have you to offer down there."

"Well, right now, just the best people in the world," was the reply.

Kingsport got the plant. Eastman brought others and Kingsport was made.

Florence is a wonderful community with a wonderful future. All that remains is telling the rest of the world about it.

April Month Of Cancer Crusade

Educational Campaign To Be 'Greatest Offensive Ever' Against Disease

Lauderdale County will be the target in a barrage of words next month when the local branch of the American Cancer Society launches its 1959 Crusade, announced as the "greatest offensive ever mounted against cancer."

Lauderdale County Chairman B. B. Wright and Adolph Abrams, who revealed plans for the campaign, said this week, "It's our intention to besiege the entire County with information that could save lives from cancer. It seems strange but it's certainly true that words can be a potent weapon in the fight against cancer."

"Thousands of leaflets will be given away in our house-to-house canvass here, the chairman said. They will also be available at American Cancer Society information booths. The leaflets are designed to save lives that might otherwise be lost to America's number two disease killer by alerting those who receive them to the dangers of neglect and delay."

They explained that while more lives are being saved every year due to improved methods of treatment, needless deaths still occur because the disease is not diagnosed in time. Regular health checkups are the best safeguard, it was pointed out, to protect the family and the home.

The American Cancer Society Crusade will be a combined educational and fund-raising Crusade.

Billy Graham Breaks Record

Evangelist Billy Graham drew the biggest crowd of his career for the final meeting Sunday in Melbourne. Officials of his crusade estimated the crowd at 140,000 and termed it the largest he has ever drawn, even surpassing packed meetings held in London and New York.

East Germans Hit U. S. Policy

East German Communists charged Sunday that the United States, Britain and France were "mis-using" their lifelines to isolated West Berlin. The Communists accused the Western Allies of breaking four-power traffic agreements by shipping Berlin-made armaments through East Germany to the West by rail and air. The charge, made by the influential monthly magazine, "German Foreign Policy," raised the possibility that the Communists might interfere with traffic to the Western outpost.

Head of Canada's Police Quits

Canada's top policeman has quit in a government dispute arising from Newfoundland's bloody loggers strike. Commissioner Leonard Hansen Necholson, chief of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, resigned Monday after Justice Minister Davie Fulton turned down a request from the Newfoundland government for 50 police reinforcements. The Mountie chief backed the request, but Fulton said the reinforcements "would have been a party to union-busting."

London Has Big Fire

London's biggest peacetime fire in half a century was brought under control at midnight after burning out the heart of the suburb of Ilford. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars, but nobody was reported hurt. Flames, shooting 100 feet into the air at times, raced down the main street and destroyed two department stores and six other shops. Nine homes just off the business district were gutted and 24 others damaged.

Death Takes Duncan Hines

Duncan Hines, an internationally-known gourmet and author, who built a profitable business by recommending restaurants and hotels to travelers, died at his home in Bowling Green, Ky., Sunday. Hines, who would have been 79 March 26, had been ill for a year and under treatment for cancer of the lung.

French Commies Lose

France's powerful Communist Party suffered severe losses in Sunday's second round of balloting for town and village councils. The pro-Gaullist and anti-Communist coalition apparently pushed the Communists out of council seats all over the country. Defeat followed defeat for the Reds despite the fact that their share of the popular vote appeared to be running over 20 per cent.

British Have Trouble In Africa

British security forces opened fire on African demonstrators in Northern Nyasaland Sunday, killing one and wounding two others. The flare-up occurred during a jungle dragnet operation designed to smash the anti-white nationalist uprisings which began several weeks ago. Some 800 police and troops were taking part in the campaign in Southern Nyasaland. Other forces were fanning out through the north.

U. S. of Africa Advocated

Premier Sekou Toure of the newly-formed Republic of Guinea said this week the only way to solve the Dark Continent's complex problems was complete independence for every African state and the formation of a "United States of Africa." Toure, a 37-year-old former trade union leader who rose in 10 years to become the head of the world's newest nation, said Africans must run their own affairs.

Confederate Vet Dies At 112

John Salling, age 112, died yesterday in Kingsport, Tenn. His passing left another Confederate, Walter Williams, 116, of Houston, Tex., the only surviving Civil War veteran. At word of Salling's death, Williams asked, "Am I the last one?" Told he was, he said, "Well, I always wanted to stay here until they were all gone to see what happened." Salling who never rose above the rank of private went to his grave in the full dress uniform of a Confederate general and with full military honors from the Army of the United States.

Exchange Told Of Navy's Operation

Officers From Memphis Naval Air Station Are Guests Of Club Tuesday

Tuesday was Navy Day at the Florence Exchange Club when Captain J. J. Craig and Lt. Cdr. J. H. Brandenburg of the Memphis Naval Air Training Station addressed the membership on the current status of the Navy and its part in maintaining the peace of the world.

Captain Craig, Chief of Staff to Admiral Fitzhugh Lee, commanding officer at Memphis, was a student pilot under the instruction of Captain Thomas Ashcraft, a member of the club, who presented the program at the request of George Porter, who was in charge of arrangements.

Captain Craig paid his compliments to Captain Ashcraft and told of interesting incidents that occurred while he received his pilot instruction, a number of years ago, from the retired Captain. He touched lightly on the place of the Navy in present global affairs and introduced Commander Brandenburg for the principal address.

Commander Brandenburg, with the assistance of Chief Petty Officer L. O. Nale of the local Navy recruiting station, presented a most informative illustrated address on the purposes of the U. S. Navy. He showed the sea lanes that must be guarded at all times and pictured the position of the Soviet in their land-locked naval bases.

Showing maps of the world's trouble areas, the speaker discussed the larger and improved U. S. Navy charged with policing this area. He showed pictures of the latest ships and ship weapons and enlightened his listeners to the debt the entire world owes Uncle Sam's sailors and marines.

Harold H. Cater, vice-president, presided in the absence of President Frank Mosier. John Harvey was a guest of the club.

Cooner-Morgan Nuptials Said In Church Setting

Marked by an afternoon ceremony on Saturday, March fourteenth, Lena Fowler Cooner became the bride of Lofton C. Morgan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lofton C. Morgan of Meridian, Mississippi, in the presence of a small guest company composed of family members and close friends.

The bride is the daughter of Floyd Fowler of Florence and the late Mrs. Fowler.

For the occasion, the altar in the parlors of First Methodist Church, Florence, was centered with a great arrangement of white gladioli and snapdragons and flanked by tall stands of wedding tapers against a background of greenery.

The Reverend Carl Harrison, pastor of First Methodist Church of Hackleburg, read the vows at half past four o'clock. Nuptial selections were by Mrs. Graham Edwards, accompanist, and Misses Mary Richardson and Inah Mae Young, vocalist.

The bride, wearing a suit of soft blue wool with navy accessories, carried an orchid-centered bouquet and had, as her only attendant, Miss Christine Broadfoot.

Chadwick Morgan, the bridegroom's brother, served as best man and ushers were his cousins, Robert Morris and Robert Morris, Jr., of Sheffield and Bobby Sharp of Florence.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. The bride's table was veiled in white net with clusters of lilies of the valley and white satin ribbons marking the four corners and, at the center, the bride's bouquet lighted by white tapers which burned in silver candelabra.

Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Maude Gibson, aunt of the bride, of Birmingham, Mrs. Charles Hargett and Miss Elizabeth Ann Gibson, the bride's cousins. Receiving with the bride and groom and their parents was Mrs. Emmett Young, aunt of the bride.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lofton C. Morgan of Meridian, Mississippi, and Mrs. W. L. Fenn and Paul Johnson of Chattanooga, Tennessee, were among the out-of-town relatives attending the ceremony.

Returning from a coastal honeymoon, they will be at home at 1911 Cloverdale Road, Florence.

Leslie Holliman, Jr., came from Auburn on Friday to visit briefly with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holliman, 201 North Oak, Florence.

The candlelight tea - table was veiled in antique lace over white satin embroidered with silver and assisting during the half-past-seven-'til-nine party hours were Mrs. Christine Sanderson, Mrs. William Mardis, Mrs. Clifford Farmer and Mrs. Jack Lard.

The occasion was a miscellaneous tea and more than fifty guests called during the evening.

Robert Fulmer, Jr., Takes Arkansas Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulmer, Jr., are at home in Florence after their wedding in West Memphis, Arkansas, Church of Christ on Thursday evening, March twelfth.

The bride, the former Mary Arlene Hogan, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Hogan of West Memphis, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulmer of 323 Atlantis Avenue, Florence.

Norman Hogan, minister of the church and brother of the bride, officiated in the seven o'clock service following nuptial selections by the Freed-Hardeman College quartet.

The tableau formed before an arch entwined with Southern smilax and lighted by burning tapers. Also candlelighted were great arrangements of white gladioli which flanked the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding occasion a gown of Chantilly lace over satin designed with molded bodice and very full skirt worn over period hoops. Distinguishing features were the scalloped, illusion yoke which extended to wing collar and button-trimmed sleeves which came to points over the hands.

A contour crown of lace and seed pearls held her veil of double illusion and her bride's Bible was marked by a white orchid showered with gypsophylla and satin streamers.

Wearing a frock of emerald green with lime green back-panel, Mrs. Carol Sellers of Texarkana, Texas, was the bride's only attendant. A lime green veil was attached to a headband of matching material and she carried a bouquet of white Fugli mums.

Don Smith of Florence served his cousin as best man and ushers included Jerry McKinney of Memphis and George Ruff of West Memphis. Candlelighters were Bill and Joe Fulmer, brothers of the bridegroom, of Florence.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Ruff honored her sister and brother-in-law with a wedding supper at their West Memphis home, including family members and out-of-town guests in their invitations. Arrangements of garden blossoms adorned the party rooms and centered the lace covered bride's table where a tiered wedding cake, decorated with miniature bride and groom, and silver candelabra of burning white tapers, completed the setting.

Attending from Florence, with other family members, was the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Robert Fulmer.

Before leaving for their honeymoon, the bride changed to a suit of blue silk faille fashioned with pleated skirt and box jacket. A small white feathered hat, black accessories and white orchid corsage completed her attire.

Dear Sara Saze,
Circumstances sure alter things.
I once had plenty and was not be... holden to anybody. Now, when I'm...
along in years, I am depend... ent on my brothers and their... families and it sure comes hard. I... take a lot of hard words every... day.

And then, just a few days ago...
I read in a magazine about how...
many young couples need help... which they can't get. Somebody... who could give the young wife a... helping hand with all the million... s of things she has to do to keep...
the house and children going. And... then, it went on to say that there... are so many (like myself), who... would be good help, and that... something could and ought to be... worked out which would benefit...
both sides.

It would be more than baby-sit... ting, is what I understood. It... would mean doing anything that... needed doing. Lightening the work... around the house for these young...
mothers who're doing too much.

It said the occupation could be... given a nice title, which it should...
have.

Well, I am all for the idea. And...
I hope you'll print my letter and... that it will help to get an orga... nization started, somehow.

I can give good references and... would like to be a member, if and... when.

Dear Mrs. J.W.M.,

I'm all for this plan, too, and... so are great numbers of others. I... have heard it discussed many... times since the Michener article...

Leo Views the College Campus

By Dottie McRae

What a week—three days of... school and four glorious days of... freedom. Which means, of course... that there wasn't a whole lot of...
activity on campus last week.

Tuesday, the Eastman Spring...
Quartet presented a very good... program here. They appeared in...
the morning for convocation with... a workshop and gave a program of...
classical music in their evening...
performance.

The Rehearsal Club has chosen...
"The Cherry Orchard" this spring...
This is one of Chekhov's human... stories. Not his best, perhaps, but... it does have that marvelous qual... ity of tragedy softened by laughter.

Speaking of the Rehearsal Club... reminds me that the affiliated...
dramatics fraternity, Alpha Psi...
Omega, has initiated four new... members. Jimmy Moore, Joe Doug... lass, Mayme Parker, and Barbara...
Brown were all taken in a few... weeks ago. Mrs. Hilda Mitchell of...
FSC's art department, was made...
an honorary member in apprecia... tion of her work and help over the... years.

Birmingham was crawling...
that's not a very nice word, may... be I should start over again. There... were an awful lot of teachers in...
Birmingham last week (that's al... most worse, but you can't win... every time), which was quite...
natural since that's where the AEA... meets. Birmingham falls all over... itsself being nice to teachers. The...
Valley Theater gave a special...
matinee of the Grahame Greene... drama "The Potting Shed." The... performance I saw was very good...
all things considered, and I enjo... ied it very much. I do wish, thou... gh, that someone would do some... thing about the acoustics in that... building.

This is ridiculous, one line on... the second page and now I'm ready... to stop. What a waste; obviously...
I'm not a very good planner.

Easter takes its name from an...
Anglo-Saxon goddess, Eostre, who... represented light or spring. Anglo...

American Legion Observes Birthday

Harley Smith Addresses Banquet Meeting Sat. Night at Home of Post 11

A gala occasion marked the observance of the 40th anniversary of the founding of the American Legion at the home of Florence-Lauderdale Post No. 11 Saturday night at 7 o'clock when more than 100 Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary enjoyed a barbecue chicken dinner and heard an address by Harley Smith of Montgomery, recently retired regional manager of the Veterans Administration.

Mr. Smith, who is now serving as public relations director of the Department of Alabama, was presented by James S. Saliba, Commander Clifton O. Greer presided and conducted the business of the meeting.

Reviewing the 40-year history of the Legion since its founding in Paris, France on March 15-17, 1919, Mr. Smith traced the development of the largest veterans organization in the world through its years of service to its members, veterans in general and the American public. Stressing its fight for the just due of the veteran who suffered from his service on the battlefields of the world, the speaker told of the Legion's fight against the inroads of Communism and various forms of unrest that have reared their heads to challenge our form of government.

Mr. Smith discussed the various phases of Legion activities and concluded his remarks with a graphic explanation of the American Legion emblem.

NEW AEA PRESIDENT — Allen Thornton was recently elected president of the 8th District, AEA, composed of Colbert, Lauderdale, Franklin, Marion, Lawrence, Winston, Cullman, Morgan, Limestone, Madison and Jackson counties. Mr. Thornton is now serving his sixth year as superintendent of Lauderdale County schools.

Col. J. E. Shotts, a past commander of the post now living in Jasper, spoke briefly and Mrs. Bettie Frink, president of the Auxiliary, introduced the officers of the unit and Commander Greer presented his fellow officers.

May Named USO Council Member

National Conference Is Scheduled To Be Held In Washington, April 8-9

Harold S. May, of 639 N. Wood Ave., Florence, has accepted membership in the (United Service Organization, Inc. (USO) National Council, it was announced by Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Chairman of the USO Corporation.

Regarded as the most important meeting in its history, the USO National Council will convene in Washington, D. C., April 8 and 9 at the Sheraton Park Hotel, to hear from top military and government leaders concerning the present world crisis and to determine the most effective role of the individual citizen as well as USO in the critical year ahead.

At the same time, the USO Board of Governors and the USO Corporation will conduct their annual meetings concurrent with the Council Sessions. While the schedule is crowded, ample time has been set aside to permit the delegates to enjoy the beauties of the nation's capital and to visit its national shrines, including the White House, Congress, and the Pentagon.

Mr. May, Co-Publisher and Managing Editor of The Florence Herald, has recently been appointed USO Chairman of Lauderdale County 1959 Appeal. Besides his interest in USO, he takes an active part in other civic affairs. He is Chairman of Lauderdale County Board of Education; Second Vice President, Alabama Press Association; Member of Board of Governors, Eliza Coffee Memorial Hospital, Florence; Member, Board of Directors Muscle Shoals Regional Library and Florence-Lauderdale Public Library; Member, Executive Committee of Florence-Lauderdale Post No. 11 American Legion; Member, Board of Directors, United Fund. Bob Jones

(Continued from Page 1) and their captives, the coal operators and the Southern Industrial Council to kill the TVA Bill," Jones said, "Congressman Davis and I were able to report out a bill with only one crippling amendment. The proposals designed to destroy TVA by turning it over to the tender mercies of the Budget Bureau and the Treasury Department were defeated.

"I am painfully disappointed that the committee approved of this attempt to confine the TVA," Jones said. "The territorial restriction means that the TVA in the future would not be our yardstick for generating and costs of electrical power and a restraining influence on private utilities. We can expect power rates to soar in areas contiguous to the TVA service area immediately if this amendment becomes law. Every power consumer in the United States may feel the bad effects of containing TVA within a limited area and scope."

"Congressman Davis and I used every opportunity offered to defeat this territorial restriction amendment and we will continue our efforts to prevent its adoption in the House. I am most hopeful that after the Easter recess Congress will consider our bill. The legislation is long overdue and it is imperative that TVA be given the chance to expand its power capacity, and program already delayed five years.

"We can expect the continued hostility of the Administration," Jones continued, "and unrelenting efforts of the utility companies to defeat this bill. Their unceasing war against TVA has never ended and there is no indication that it will ever cease.

The bill approved Tuesday by the Works committee would authorize TVA to issue up to 750 million dollars in revenue bonds. Power revenues would retire the bonds. Proceeds from the bonds would be used by TVA in building new generating facilities which it says will be needed to meet demands for power by 1962.

The hard pressed American consumer will be the real loser in today's event if the amendment to territorial restriction becomes a public law.

Absence Of House Numbers Risky Warns Fire Chief

There are many residences in Florence that have no house numbers displayed. This is especially true of many new homes and while there is no law requiring houses to be numbered it is of advantage to property owners in the matter of fire protection.

Fire Chief Bob Lovelace pointed out recently that the fire departments have answered numerous calls but were delayed in finding the specific house because it was not numbered or because the owner or occupant was uncertain of the street or block number. This could result in a very costly delay in putting out a fire, Chief Lovelace stated, since in many cases whole blocks of homes are unnumbered in some of the new subdivisions making it even harder to find the location or source of the alarm.

Docks Director

Before the discussion session started, John Patton gave a resume of the Florence docks. He said 200 linear feet of dock with two mooring cells, a 50 ft. by 200 ft. steel transit shed with office space had been completed. Planned, but not constructed, is a handling area to be paved and a railroad spur planned for the dock. This site consists of 4.57 acres along the right bank of the old canal on the outskirts of Florence.

Costs, as of January 19, 1959, total $3,277,260.71. This includes $46,222.33 paid to Merriweather Construction Company for dredging in the channel and mooring area. Dredging was not completed. The balance was paid to Ballew and Roberts, general contractors.

Estimated costs to complete the project are $35,915.71. An accurate estimate is not possible until a thorough bottom investigation is made. Total cost of the completed plant will be $313,175.71.

McGowan planned, after the meeting in Florence, a meeting in Decatur today and a third at Huntsville. He said he would seek there also the advice of business and civic leaders as to what they think should be done.

The meetings were arranged by Chambers of Commerce at the three North Alabama Cities.

THIS, TOO, IS TEXAS EASTERN

A Growing Gas Transmission System Is a Busy Place For Engineers

Did you ever wonder what an engineer with a pipeline company does — exactly?

He's got a mighty important job at Texas Eastern. We've got all kinds — mechanical, chemical, electrical, civil, petroleum. They're found in all types of work — administrative, research and planning, compressor station and pipeline design and construction, drafting, communications, materials, budgets and plant records, just to name a few.

The engineer at Texas Eastern is a member of a vast technical team. For instance — if a customer needs more gas, say, 100 million cubic feet a day, it's not just a simple matter of someone saying "give it to them."

Gas reserve engineers have to determine that enough gas is available to fill the request — not just for a short time but for many years. Then the planning and research engineers go to work to determine how best to get the gas delivered (they may have to add a new compressor station, new pipeline or the system may carry the load just as it is).

The gas is available, a method to deliver it has been determined. The next step is to construct the needed facilities. Drafting engineers draw many plans, construction engineers plan sites for compressor stations and routes for new pipelines, material men begin purchasing needed equipment and supplies, contracts are planned and executed.

During this time engineers have been planning construction budgets and operating costs. Communications engineers have been planning the best equipment to install at the compressor station (if one is needed). And, anticipating the time when the work will be completed and the new facilities will be placed in operation, engineers handling plant records begin setting up records to keep accurate information on the plant property, its initial cost, operating costs, how it can be improved and things to keep in mind when new facilities are constructed.

Texas Eastern's large investment in a wide variety of engineering talent has proved to be a sound one. Returns on this investment are found in dependability and efficiency of system operation so customers know that with Texas Eastern handling the transportation job, natural gas will always be available to meet their needs.

The fact that only recently a group of engineers from Pakistan visited in this area to study the hydro-electric plant at TVA has also caused more people to be interested in the countries of the Middle or Near East.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Mark	9	20-30
Monday	Psalm	1	1-6
Tuesday	Psalm	119	9-16
Wednesday	Isaiah	7	11-16
Thursday	Acts	3	28-40
Friday	Deuteronomy	30	15-20
Saturday	1st John	1	1-4

Of course I don't scare you. I'm only a little boy making believe I'm a big bad man.

Some day, though, I will be big. Some day this game might be real, 'cause even the biggest bad man was once a little boy. And who knows what made him go wrong? That's why early training is so important.

In church and Bible school we learn about God's kindness and love, and how we can trust Him for the things we need. We learn to want to help others, instead of hurting them.

Encourage the children you know to learn all the good they can. Make church and Bible school your family custom—please.

Agricultural Reminders

By SAM EICH
Asst. County Agent

The highest - producing milk cows are usually the most profitable cows in the herd.

Dairy Herd Improvement Association figures show that as the volume of milk goes up, the return per dollar spent for feed also climbs. Of course, this is true only up to a certain point, but few dairymen have to worry about reaching that point of diminishing return.

For example, a cow producing from 2,500 to 3,499 pounds of milk returns the dairyman only $1.85 for every $1 spent for feed. Compare this with the 5,500 to 6,499 pound producer, returning $2.20 over feed cost; the 8,500 to 9,499 producer, returning $2.36; the 10,500 to 11,499, returning $2.49; and on up to the 13,500 to 14,499-pound producer, returning $2.67 for every dollar spent for feed.

How can you be absolutely sure which of your cows are the high producers? The only way you can know for sure is by keeping dairy records. Equally sleek, handsome cows may be totally different in their milk-producing ability. You can choose from two record keeping plans: Standard DHIA and Weigh - A - Day - A - Month.

Control Weeds In Pastures

By HERMAN H. MARKS
Assistant County Agent

You can control weeds in your pastures with chemicals and do it economically too.

Each year weeds steal many of the good plant nutrients applied on pastures. This need no longer happen. Chemicals can be used to control such plants as dock, platane, bitterweed, thistle, wild onion, dog fennel (including summer cedar), ragweed, and most other annual broadleaf plants.

Control can be had by applying one pound of 2,4-D amine per acre in 20 gallons of water. Spray when weeds are growing rapidly; repeat as often as necessary. If weeds become mature or growth is retarded, mow and then spray when new growth is tender and developing rapidly.

White clover may be injured slightly and its growth retarded by 2,4-D. The heavier the rate, the greater the injury.

Do not spray common lespedeza in the seedling stage.

For wild onion control, use two pounds of 2,4-D amine per acre. Add ¼ pound of household detergent to 50 gallons of spray mixture. Cover plants thoroughly. In pastures where onions are numerous, you may have to sacrifice clover in order to kill onions.

A demonstration on controlling weeds in pastures will be conducted by Lauderdale Extension workers at a later date. Announcement will be made later.

Weeds can also be controlled on lawns.

Hill, Sparkman Bill Would Aid Small Farmers

March 20 Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman are introducing legislation in the Senate today which would allow farmers, from 1960 on, to count acreage allotments not fully planted as fully planted for the purpose of computing future farm, county and state allotments.

"Present law provides that acreage allotments not fully planted in the years 1956 through 1959 are to be regarded as fully planted for the purpose of computing future acreage allotments," Hill and Sparkman said. "The bill we are introducing would make these provisions applicable to all future years so that acreage allotments not fully planted in future years would nevertheless be counted as planted for purposes of future farm, county and state acreage allotments."

The Hill-Sparkman bill would apply to cotton, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

Higher Profits In Larger Litters

Almost one out of every three baby pigs dies before it's weaned.

Some of the main reasons for this discouraging statistic include chilling during the first few hours after birth, crushing and mashing by the mother, and other abnormal conditions. "If anybody in any kind of business, including farming, started out with a one-third loss of his inventory, it would be hard for him to make a go of the business," declared API Extension Hog Production Specialist G. B. Phillips.

"So saving the lives of baby pigs is exceedingly important. It is conservative for pork producers to make their goal raising and selling at least eight pigs from each gilt or sow."

"The average in Alabama is a little under seven pigs per litter," continued Phillips. "However, many growers are saving an average of well over eight per litter."

Just how much money does a pork producer lose when a pig is lost? Of course, a number of things help decide that question. For instance, the litter size enters the question in a big way.

But there are certain fixed charges, regardless of the number of pigs born. Research has shown that on the average, sow feed, housing, labor, and boar charges add up to about $35 per litter.

By the time pigs are weaned, their owners have invested an average of $75 per litter. Since it costs so much to raise a litter of pigs, it would really pay off to give them personal attention, good farrowing facilities, and good management, in order to save as many pigs as possible.

A soil test is the best and most practical way to determine the right kind and amount of fertilizer to use.

Corner on Cotton

By BOB COLLINS

Let's talk straight about releasing an unplanted cotton allotment . . . you don't have to do it, but you should . . . every acre allotted for the purpose should be planted to cotton . . . you can release your unplanted allotment to the ASC committee without hurting your "history" and some other farmer will benefit . . . or you can just forget about it, and cotton as an industry will be struck another blow . . . one thing though: If you have released your allotment for the past two years, or if you don't plan to plant your allotment next year, it might be wise to retain a small part, say an acre . . . then there will be no possibility of missing out on your share of acres a couple of years from now . . . the date by which you can release your allotment varies with each section, but you can check with your ASC committee

Cows Balk At Sudden Changes

Not many of us like a sudden change in the weather or in the routine we have established over a long period of years. In fact, we often get pretty grumpy and grouchy when we are suddenly forced into an entirely different situation.

"Dairy cows are like that," said API Extension Dairyman John R. Parrish, "but they express their feelings more in production than in disposition."

"To insure consistent high production," continued Parrish, "the dairyman must be on guard to avoid sudden changes in feeding and management." Routine changes in the dairy operation are necessary but should be made with care. Any change in the milking routine should be done as gradually as practical and with a minimum amount of commotion. Sudden cold snaps are a real possibility, so adequate housing or protective sheds should be ready at all times.

"Weather changes can't be avoided," said Parrish, "but some of the adverse influences can be." Sudden changes in the feeding program can be most costly. If the silage is about gone from one silo, it is a good idea to open up the new one and get the cows accustomed to the new feed before they have to depend upon it for their total supply. Drastic changes in the concentrate mixture should also be avoided.

"The cow is a great creature of habit," pointed out the specialist, "and she is probably more sensitive than we usually give her credit for being." When we make a decision about our dairy operation, let's consider the cow. It will result in higher production.

A new world record in cotton production . . . estimates put 1958-59 cotton at 44 million bales . . . up a half million from the record crop of 1955-56 . . . this puts world average yield at over half a bale per acre.

Less Competition
Looks like the low support price of U.S. cotton and the export subsidy that make U.S. cotton competitive are going to cut production in foreign countries . . . Mexico for certain . . . maybe Egypt also . . . some foreign farmers are in financial trouble from last crop's low-priced cotton.
