

FLORENCE SCENIC RAILROAD—Although many railroad systems are cutting operations and there's no thought of expansion, still a new railroad has been established in our community that already is a howling success. Operated by the city's recreation department, the train travels over a near mile-long track, over a trestle and through a 365-foot tunnel, and is carrying a capacity passenger list on each round trip. Station, waiting shed and other facilities add to the pleasure of a visit to this new addition to the recreation area.

The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

Although Mayor E. F. Martin defeated his two opponents in Monday's municipal election by a margin of four to one of their combined votes, still when you realize that only 1770 votes were cast, it makes you wonder why over 7,000 of the eligible voters in the city stayed away from the polls. Mr. Martin's election was conceded far in advance but it appears to us that more of our citizens would like to have given him the complimentary vote he deserved.

There's nothing wrong with the young generation that the older generation didn't outgrow.

We resent the latest hurricane being named Florence—but, like all folks and things named Florence, the hurricane was mild and considerate and just faded away. Now Donna—boy, she's different.

The biggest room in far too many homes is the room for improvement.

How many of you will join us on our trek to Decatur Friday, Oct. 21, when former President Harry Truman speaks there at an outdoor barbecue? We don't know how many piglets they plan to place on the spits but my guess is that if they expect to have a sandwich for each person attending they had better gather up all available porkers in North Alabama, as certainly the largest crowd ever to attend a political event will be on hand. We imagine, too, that those who prevented the placing of the name of the fiery Democratic leader on the 1948 ballot will be conspicuous by their absence. We took pleasure on that day of giving him our write-in vote—and with a red pencil, too.

Sign in a Tampa, Fla., doughnut shop: "Recommended by Dunkin' Hands."

Along with three ten-year-olds, we took a trip Sunday on the Florence Scenic Railroad... and a good time was had by all. The new recreation area adjoining the Community Center on Royal Avenue is becoming the mecca of Sunday afternoon outings and the number of oldsters (of course, accompanying their grandchildren) who ride the train continue on the increase. The new addition to the recreation facilities of the city is certainly something of which we can be proud.

Hangover—something to occupy the head that wasn't used the night before.

We understand that sometime back a local minister returned wearily home from a money-raising campaign to explain to his wife that he had done his best during his various appearances to persuade his audiences that it was the duty of the rich to help the poor. "And did you convince them?" asked his wife who detected that he was not completely happy. "I was half successful," said the minister. "I convinced the poor."

A situation-wanted ad signed by a veteran and appearing in a recent issue of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, stated: "Young man desires traveling job. Uncle Sam need not answer—once is enough."

Past Grand Exalted Ruler Judge John S. He said that Mr. and Mrs. Batson, known throughout the realm of Elksdom as conscientious workers for the principles on which the lodge was founded, were due the honor that now comes to Mr. Batson in his election to this high office.

Baker, exalted ruler of Florence Lodge No. 820, who served as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Bell and Mr. Van Buskirk were accompanied by their wives and they, along with Mrs. Batson were given special recognition.

Mr. Batson has served in practically every capacity in the local lodge, in which he now serves as a trustee, and also in the state organization. He has served as District Deputy of the Grand Lodge, which he has attended regularly. His election to the national office is in recognition of his work in the lodge and his many charitable and fraternal acts as a resident of Florence.

Seventh Burglary Reported In City

Attempted Assaults Laid To Negro Prowler; Reward Is Posted

The seventh in a series of night residence burglaries in Florence within the past two months occurred last Thursday at 505 South Cedar Street, when an intruder, apparently a Negro, attempted to assault a 19-year-old woman who rooms at the address.

Florence police received a call early Thursday to the home of Mrs. Maude Delano, where the young woman reported attack by an intruder who entered the house, by cutting the screen door and struck her in the eye with his fist as she lay in bed.

The woman was awakened by the man and fought with him until the struggle was heard by Mrs. Delano, who ran screaming to neighbors, at which time the burglar ran from the house.

During the past two months burglaries and in some instances attempted criminal assaults have been reported in Florence, in addition to parked couples having been attacked at two locations inside the city, with one youth being slashed as he wrestled a knife away from a Negro assailant.

With information to prove such in their files, Florence police have drawn the conclusion that the invader, whether he be Negro or a white man posing as a Negro, begins his prowling about midnight and that he selects his victims with care. Only one time in seven has there been a man in the house where the attempted assault took place.

A reward has been posted for the prowler, and since noon Friday, $45 has been donated. This action was taken with the full sanction of the police department and leading Florence citizens. Donations are to be made to The Prowler Fund, and deposited with either the First National or State National Bank, Florence.

Modern Facility Result Of One Man's Planning And Belief In Future

The grand opening on Sunday of Florence's splendid new motor lodge, the Holiday Inn, is the culmination of one man's dream to bring to this city and area, the very finest facility of its kind possible to build. That man is E. L. Culver, Florence industrialist and chairman of the board of National Pool Equipment Company.

While the Holiday Inn has been in operation for some months, the open house celebration has been in the planning stage for some time and the public, for the first time, will be able to see just what this ultra-modern motel offers, not only the traveler but the community as well.

Following more than one abortive attempt to establish a community hotel in Florence, Mr. Culver, realizing the great need for such a facility in the immediate area, decided to do something about it. In July of 1959, a little more than a year ago, he announced.

MISS JO MILLS TO BE CROWNED TONIGHT

The 1960-61 Central Homecoming Queen, Miss Jo Mills, will be crowned at halftime ceremonies tonight when Central High School will host the Colbert County Indians. Miss Mills will be escorted by Gerald Jackson.

In the queen's court, the girls and their escorts are as follows: Seventh, Sandra Staggs and Johnny Hodges; eighth, Mary Alice Schifano and Larry Murphy; ninth, Martha Donaldson and Dwight Austin; tenth, Rose Ann McCorkle and Johnny Palmer; eleventh, Jimmie Ray Johnson and Lewis Wallace.

The long-delayed grand opening of the Holiday Inn will be held on next Sunday afternoon, it was announced this week by Ronnie H. Ruden, Innkeeper. A page advertisement appears elsewhere in this issue inviting the public of Florence and surrounding area to attend "open house" on Sunday from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

In extending an invitation to the public to visit the Holiday Inn, Mr. Ruden said: "We are proud to be a part of the community and invite each and every one to come out and inspect the ultra-modern facilities available to the traveling and local public... bring the family, there will be fun and favors. Many Holiday Inn officials will be here to greet you and you may enjoy soothing music as you make your inspection."

Mr. Ruden was born in New York and served four years in the United States Navy, much of this time in the South Pacific area. Following the termination of his service he continued as a carpet installation contractor. In 1952, he began his career with Holiday Inns of America which took him all over the country installing carpeting for Holiday Inns.

In 1957 a subsidiary company known as Inn Keepers Supply was formed and headed by Clyde Dixon of Memphis as president. Mr. Ruden took charge of the carpeting division as installation supervisor in which position he handled the complete installation of furniture, drapes, linens, and supplies in the newly bought Holiday Inn franchises covering some ten states.

Prior to his appointment as Inn Keeper for Holiday Inn here, Mr. Ruden received special training at the Holiday Inn school for Inn Keepers in Memphis under the personal supervision of Bill Potteet.

SOUTHERN TO RESUME FULL SCHEDULES SEPT. 29

Southern Airways will resume full service for the Muscle Shoals area effective Sept. 29, with the reinstatement of the last of two round trip flights between Nashville and New Orleans, according to Leonard Layfield, station manager for Southern at the local airport.

"As of Sept. 30, Southern Airways complete system which includes 41 cities will be back in operation again," stated Layfield. Southern now offers four round trips daily to Atlanta, three to Memphis and the flights from Nashville to New Orleans via the local airport.

Shortly after his arrival in the United States Monday, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said "the evil forces who want to poison the atmosphere between our countries will invariably sustain a defeat."

The Soviet leader voiced what he called his "profound respect" toward the "American people." He claimed his mission to the current UN session was in the interest of disarmament. His arrival was greeted by boos and cries of "murder," from anti-communist demonstrators as he landed in the rain from the Soviet liner Baltika. He was not greeted by American officials but there were some 100 or more officials from Communist nations at the East River pier where the liner docked.

He said he would welcome serious negotiations with President Eisenhower at the United Nations on the East-West disarmament deadlock. He referred to Mr. Eisenhower's intention to speak at the UN General Assembly today, but said he hoped it would not mean a "fancy speech" but really constructive participation in the work of the assembly.

Mr. Eisenhower had previously served notice that he would not meet with the Soviet leader unless he frees the two imprisoned Americans RE-47 fliers. The President stated that he has no intention of leading the American delegation at the UN.

Khrushchev's remarks—read from a 3 1/2 page typewritten document was spoken into a public address mike and required some 35 minutes for interpretation.

While Khrushchev made no reference to his restricted movements in this country, Fidel Castro, also attending the UN assembly meeting, though his government has no official status, was likewise placed under tight security restrictions and not allowed to move without being guarded. While his loud anti-U.S. speeches have marked recent months in Cuba Castro promised to keep silent until he addresses the UN General Assembly.

Never before in the history of the UN had so many heads of state been present, many of these on their first visit to the United States. Many felt that Russia and her satellites were on hand for a big push of some kind though none were willing to guess what was in store for the West, since there was no indication of backing down on the part of the free nations. Present in addition to Russia's Nikita Khrushchev and Cuba's Fidel Castro, were: President Nasser of Egypt, Tito of Yugoslavia and President Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia.

It Could Have Been Prevented

The severest criticism of the Eisenhower Administration to date has come from retired ballistics chief Major General John B. Medaris.

The United States, says General Medaris, could have launched an earth satellite 13 months before the Russians launched their Sputnik. The failure to do so resulted from "indecision" Medaris explained.

This is a serious thing to talk about . . . allowing the Russians, or any power for that matter, to outstrip the United States WHEN IT COULD HAVE BEEN PREVENTED.

Quoting Medaris, one of the world's foremost authorities on rocketry, he said:

Here is something most people do not realize. Thirteen months before the first Sputnik shocked and startled the free world, the men of my command knew they had the ability to launch a satellite . . . we had built the hardware; we had seen it perform . . . its upper stages loaded with sand, by directive, instead of the few extra pounds of propellant that would have put its payload in orbit.

"For months," he added, "we begged and pleaded for the chance to put up the first earth satellite, flying the American flag."

"Could we obtain that permission? Could we get a decision? Only 13 months and two Sputniks later! And so in May 1960, the U-2 was still flying and the Russians shot it down."

As Medaris said Eisenhower's military knowledge has been outdated by the rapid development of weapons since World War Two and he (Eisenhower) is less inclined to listen to the advice of today's military professionals. Medaris urged the unification of the entire space effort.

Certainly Mr. Eisenhower's repeated statements that all is well in America cannot be justified in the light of this statement by General Medaris, and it is all the more alarming since there could well be other instances where we have flubbed because of administrative dilly-dallying and wishful thinking.

What Does Khrushchev Want?

The world stands tongue in cheek as the United Nations faces what may be its most acid test to date, a test that may well decide its fate. The United Nations like the old League of Nations is only as strong as its member-nation strength and like the old League of Nations could well fall apart once there is no common meeting ground.

Today one might ask that question . . . is there a common meeting ground? Recent meetings of the UN and the Security Council have been meetings where recriminations and insults have been hurled back and forth and the current session holds even less hope of amity.

This time the heads of the Communist nations, that is, Russia and her satellites, are on hand for what may be the big push against the West. It is the first time these nations have sent their top men, Soviet's Khrushchev, Cuba's Fidel Castro, Czechoslovakia's President Antonin Novotny, Tito, of Yugoslavia and President Nasser of Egypt. In addition to these are the regulars in the UN ready to bolster the efforts of the Reds most of whom are under the Russian sphere of influence if not outright dominated by the USSR.

On the West's side are the NATO and the OAS nations backed by the strength of the United States and Britain. They are determined that there will be no backing down and no compromising with the belligerent attitude of the Reds despite the fact that Khrushchev, on his arrival Monday on the Soviet liner Baltika, said that he would "welcome serious negotiations" with President Eisenhower on the East-West disarmament deadlock.

President Eisenhower had previously announced his intention of appearing before the UN General Assembly today but said that he has no intention of meeting with the Soviet leader unless he will free the two imprisoned American RB47 flyers.

Mr. Eisenhower did state, however, that his was a one-time performance and that he has no intention of leading the American delegation.

Possibly the main inspiration for the Soviet leader's visit is not disarmament but to be on hand to see just what happens to the fourteen African nations clamoring for recognition by the UN. Since the ousting of the Communists from the Congo by the combined efforts of the UN and the West the Soviets are looking for some way to drive a wedge into this potentially rich and unexploited area.

By the same token if they can be kept from getting a foothold in Africa as they have in Asia, Europe and now Latin America, the free world will at least have achieved a victory and perhaps use the dark continent as a counter-measure against Communism. Certainly there could be no ripper field than Africa to show the difference between a godless ideology and a free democracy.

There is little doubt that much of the unrest in Africa was Communist inspired but not all. The dark continent has been in the process of awakening for the past century and during the past two decades has made rapid strides in the direction of self-government. Their weakness has made them a prey to the predatory instincts of the Reds who are committed to communize the world.

The next few months will be crucial ones with respect to the fate of Africa, and who knows . . . perhaps the fate of the free world.

It is a cinch Mr. Khrushchev is not attending the UN to look at the scenery.

Residents of Pascagoula, Miss., an industrial town of 40,000, Friday were experiencing a water shortage in the wake of Hurricane Ethel. Public Works Commissioner H. C. Admission African Nations Urged

The United States Saturday night proposed that the emergency U.N. General Assembly take quick action to admit 14 new African countries to the world organization before taking up the Congo situation. This would include the Congo itself. The 82-nation assembly approved the proposal unanimously.

Communists Retreat From Congo

Humiliated Soviet officials beat a retreat from the Congo Saturday, crowning with failure the Communists' daring attempt to penetrate the new nations of central Africa. The Communists flew home under the loaded guns of Congolese soldiers and on orders from Col. Joseph Mobutu, emerging Congolese strongman who expelled them after seizing power last Wednesday from Patrice Lumumba.

Late News

● Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev made a quick but dramatic trip into the heart of Harlem Tuesday to pay his respects to Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro. It was the first known meeting between the two. Khrushchev was said to have asked for the meeting, which lasted over 40 minutes at the Hotel Theresa, where Castro moved Monday night after a public tantrum over midtown hotel accommodations.

● The New York Herald Tribune reported Wednesday that President Eisenhower will offer a vast new plan for African aid and suggest a U.N. aerial peace patrol when he addresses the United Nations today. The newspaper lead story further stated that the president will urge that the United Nations be given greater responsibility than ever in a wide range of affairs, in what amounts to a vote of confidence in the U.N.

● The Air Force's new Blue Scout space rocket blasted off Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in an effort to hurl a radiation-study package 16,000 miles into space, in an experiment which could lead to a means of detecting nuclear explosions high above the earth. The 40-foot four stage rocket left the missile test center at 8:02 a.m., and an announcement 13 minutes later said that all four stages ignited successfully.

● Congolese soldiers took over government offices and Leopoldville radio station Tuesday in a crackdown on supporters of ousted Premier Patrice Lumumba. Col. Joseph Mobutu, proclaimed a military coup on Sept. 14, tightened his grip on the capital, as a heavily armed unit of Congolese soldiers stormed into the government building and turned officials of the Lumumba government out of their offices.

● The U.S. Justice Department, after a struggle with state attorneys in three courts, has a clear track to inspect Montgomery voting records. A ruling by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals allows the inspection. Atty. Gen. MacDonald Gallion said he was notified Tuesday of the decision made by an appeals court panel composed of Judges Richard T. Rives, Montgomery; Warren L. Jones, Jacksonville, Fla., and John R. Miss Peerson Tells Of Library Service

Exchange Club Learns Of Growth Of Regional Library Activities

Miss Ehel Peerson, head librarian of the Muscle Shoals Regional Library, outlined to the members of the Florence Exchange Club at Hotel Reeder Tuesday noon the great growth in services being rendered by the five libraries of the area. George Porter presented the speaker.

Miss Peerson gave an interesting report on the history of the library since its beginning as a project of the Exchange Club. She told of the various steps following until and since the region was formed and the financing of the current operations.

Pointing out the tremendous increase in borrowers as well as number of books circulated by the five libraries and the bookmobile, Miss Peerson urged the continued support of the club in the efforts being made to increase the appropriations that support the library service. The service is being handicapped by the failure of some contributing sources to meet their quotas, she pointed out.

The Rev. Cosby Summerell was a guest of the club.

REV. J. V. COSBY SUMMERELL

"Although I have lived in Florence only five years, I feel like a real Florentine. Our community is truly a blending of the old with the new. People coming to live in this area have immediately become a part of the social, civic and religious life of the city, and we have profited by this assimilation," said the Rev. Mr. Summerell when asked his impressions of the City of Florence and his reasons for choosing it as a place in which to live and raise his family.

"I believe that perhaps our best assets are our cultural advantages, and for this we can give credit particularly to our college. These advantages include the concert association, our good public library and our schools and churches," Mr. Summerell added.

Jouett Vernon Cosby Summerell was born in September 1923, in Newport News, Va., the son of Joseph Howard and Mariana Cosby Summerell. He attended elementary school and high school in Newport News and while in high school, as well as in college, was drum major of the band and a member of the orchestra. He was assistant editor of the school paper and a member of Quill and Scroll, honorary journalistic fraternity.

Upon graduation from high school, Mr. Summerell became an apprentice draftsman with the Newport News Ship Building and Dry Dock Company. He remained in this position until Sept. of 1941, at which time after making the decision to enter the ministry, he entered Hampden-Sydney College but attended for only a portion of a year as he was drafted into the army in February 1942.

Mr. Summerell served with the Army Engineers in the China-Burma-India Theatre with a unit which built gas lines to air fields "over-the-hump." Mr. Summerell was discharged in 1945 with the rank of Staff Sergeant.

Following his military service, Mr. Summerell resumed his college work at William and Mary College in Virginia where he was graduated in 1948. He then attended Union Theological Seminary in Richmond for three years, being graduated in 1952 with his B.D. degree.

Mr. Summerell is a member of Theta Chi social fraternity and his interest in music again attracted him to his college's orchestra and as band drum major.

On June 5, 1947, he was married to the former Romelia Sayre, of Hampton, Va. They have two children, Paul Cosby, 8, and three-

FFA Members Set National Meet

Approximately 12,000 future farmers, advisors, and guests representing the nearly 400,000 members in all 50 states and Puerto Rico are expected to attend the gathering at Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium.

From Alabama, the delegation will include American Farmer Degree recipients, contest winners, state officers, and a number of other members, advisors, and officials.

State FFA Executive Secretary Byron F. Rawls, Auburn, and Dr. John Deloney, associate professor of agricultural education, AU, will be in charge of the Alabama delegation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Anderson, of 1824 Tunc Ave., were in Birmingham on Saturday for the Alabama-Georgia football game.

year-old Susan Read.

Mr. Summerell held his first pastorate with the First Presbyterian Church in Blackstone, Va., where he remained for four years.

In September of 1955, he was called to the First Presbyterian Church in Florence, where he is now serving as minister. He is a member and past president of the Florence Ministerial Association; a member of the Campus Christian Life Committee of the Synod of Alabama and is secretary of the Interchurch Relations Committee of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. He has served as Moderator of the North Alabama Presbytery and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian School of Christian Education, Richmond, Va.

In civic endeavors, Mr. Summerell is a member of the Rotary Club and is on the board of directors. He is a member of the board of directors of the local Red Cross chapter and of the Mental Health Association.

When asked about a hobby, Mr. Summerell listed music first, closely followed by reading and traveling. This summer, he spent three months in Scotland as an exchange minister, serving as minister at the West Kirk in Haddington, near Edinburgh, while the Rev. Joseph Ritchie of that congregation came to the First Presbyterian Church in Florence.

Mr. Summerell stated that he found the people of Scotland quaint and easy-going and the country itself full of beauty and graciousness.

"A visit to Scotland, the birthplace of the Presbyterian Church, is the goal of every Presbyterian minister," the Rev. Mr. Summerell pointed out, "and my visit and my experiences in the church and community were immensely rewarding."

All in all, it was a trip that will long be remembered, according to Mr. Summerell, as he recalled with pleasure the memorable events of this recent visit.

nounced the purchase of the property formerly occupied by the Burrell-Slater school on South Court Street and stated at that time his plans for the erection of a modern motel to which the people of the community could point with pride and moreover make use of in many ways.

He was as good as his word, sparing no expense or effort to provide the finest accommodations and to make a visit to Holiday Inn in Florence an event to be remembered. From the Olympic size swimming pool, the largest in any motel, to the Town and Country Room in the Holiday Inn restaurant that will seat 200, this splendid facility has everything the public could desire in the way of services and convenience.

Even dog kennels with free dog food, are provided guests with pets. In addition there are baby beds available, extra chairs, bridge tables, irons and ironing boards, additional linens and blankets and even Rollaway beds.

There is a television set in each of the 120 rooms, each room has controlled air-conditioning and heating, and telephones. Reservations may be teletyped in advance without charge. Laundry and dry cleaning is available daily except Saturday or Sunday.

Pool facilities are available for guests from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m. and later without the diving boards. For the children there is a safe "kiddie pool."

As Mr. Culver points out, Holiday Inn, is for everybody. It is big, roomy and accommodating and planned for the future. It answers a need for this growing community and the Shoals area. See it Sunday, use its facilities for your parties, large or small. Make visiting Holiday Inn with your family or friends, a habit.

By DR. J. S. GALLINGER, Rabbi Temple E'nai Israel, Florence, Ala.

"When man his daily work has done, His next day's work he's just begun."

The ancient folk philosopher who first coined this proverb knew human nature well. And Solomon, the wise king of Israel, had known it long before: "That which has been is that which shall be, And that which has been done is that which shall be done . . ." (Ec. 1:9)

Man, having finished his daily duties in the evening, refreshes himself through the night's sleep for the next day's tasks. Nature, having offered its harvest in the fall, rests through the winter for the next year's sowing, growing and reaping. According to this primeval sequence of restoration, application and generation, the Bible regulates the cycle of man's fate. That is why it starts the day in the evening and the year in autumn.

In keeping with this Bible ordinance, the Jewish faith still today arranges its calendar. Thus it begins the day with nightfall and sets the New Year's Day in September.

During the High Holiday season which begins with and follows the New Year's Day, ending with the day of Atonement ten days later, the Jewish celebrant is faced with a threefold challenge. He turns his inner eye backward over the year just ended and searches it for its lasting meaning. He evaluates his successes and his failures and draws his lessons for his own improvement during the coming twelve months. Thus he restores his faith.

Then he directs the searchlight of his conscience inward, examining his spiritual being with all its strengths and all its weaknesses and drawing from them the lessons for his own growth in grace. Thus he applies his faith.

And finally he lifts his gaze forward into the future charting his road toward God by the challenges and the lessons of the past and the present. He knows that the New Year offers him a new challenge, a new beginning in his search for holiness and in his approach to divinity. Thus his faith generates holiness.

This is the eternal message of the Jewish New Year. A new beginning is possible, ever and ever again; a new beginning is required of man ever and ever again. There is no end to his striving as long as there is breath within him. Every day, every year he must begin anew, he can begin anew. As long as he walks on this earth he is never eternally saved, even as he is never eternally damned. He can never be satisfied with what he has achieved and he dare never despair over his failings. Every breath, every step, every day, every year offer him another chance, another challenge, another call and another opportunity to realize more fully his inherent potential as a man to activate the best within him and to grow in piety as a child of God.

"All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn unto the Lord; . . . for the kingdom is the Lord's." (Ps. 22:28-29) such numbers as Claire De Lune, Singing in The Rain, and Green-sleeves. The feature number of the show will be Miss Caroline Tucker doing her own rendition of Bali Hi. A surprise feature will be kept top secret until the end of the show. There will also be a short demonstration in water safety by William Springer, water safety instructor of Memphis.

The first five hundred ladies attending open house will receive a beautiful Hawaiian orchid and ice cream and balloons will be available for the children, the management stated.

Shockley

After his return to the States from Arabia he was assigned to the Cadet Mess Hall at the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York, until he was discharged November 3, 1955.

Soon after the Service he joined the staff of Howard Johnson Restaurant Division, going from Cook up to Manager and he then became General Supervisor of the Southeastern area.

Mr. Shockley leased the Holiday Inn Restaurant on July 1 of this year. He says he has many plans for expanding the fine service and quality of the foods served. There are now 30 people connected with his operation. He is determined that the traveling public will find "no better food anywhere."

His services not only include the Holiday Inn Restaurant, but he also caters to wedding parties, business groups, meetings and luncheons, fashion shows in the Main Dining Room and many more special events. All facilities here at Holiday are flexible and can be converted to meet any demand.

If you require special service or special foods, Mr. Shockley says, "Just ask, and it shall be done."

Former Florentine Wed In Columbia, Tenn.

Of interest throughout this section is the marriage in Columbia, Tennessee, on September third of Bobby Lee Haddock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Lee Haddock, formerly of Florence and now at home in Columbia, and Miss Carleton Anne McNaron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ralph McNaron, also of Columbia.

The ceremony in Central Christian Church and the reception which followed were attended by a large number of Florence relatives and friends of the bridegroom's family.

The bride and groom have returned from a honeymoon trip and are now at home at 706 West Seventh Street, Columbia.

Miss Adler, Mr. Kayner Say Vows In Florida City

Solemnized in the bridal chapel of the Barcelona Hotel, Miami Beach, Florida, on Sunday afternoon, September fourth, was the marriage of Miss Dorothy Adler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Adler, formerly of Florence and now of Miami Beach, and Donald H. Kayner, son of Mrs. Alvin Kayner of Chicago and the late Mr. Kayner.

Rabbi Julius Narrat read the five o'clock vows before an altar improvised against a background of greenery and decorated with great arrangements of mixed blossoms interspersed with branched candelabra of burning tapers.

Miss Elsie Nadler, wearing a full-skirted frock of mint green peau de soie complemented by a matching Christian Dior hair bow and bouquet of matching orchids, was her sister's only attendant. Robert Lackman of Chicago, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

For the occasion of her wedding the bride chose a ballerina length gown of Alencon lace over flesh-tinted peau d'ange distinguished by a small collar and bracelet length sleeves and fastened with tiny, self-covered buttons. Her veil of double illusion cascaded from a jeweled circlet and with her white Bible she carried a cluster of white orchids.

Mrs. Adler, the former Shirley Feldman and mother of the bride, wore a sheath gown of turquoise lace and Mrs. Kayner, the bridegroom's mother, was in a draped model of fuchsia pure silk. Both wore matching veiled headresses and cymbidium orchids in blending shades fashioned their corsages.

Among the family assemblage present for the ceremony and for the wedding dinner which followed were the bride's grandfather and aunt, Albert J. Feldman and Mrs. Irving Bertell of Florence.

Now honeymooning, the couple stopped briefly in this city as a special compliment to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Feldman, who was unable to attend the nuptial event.

Among the bridegroom's distinguished forbears are his grandfather, the late Judge Alvin Sabath of Chicago, and his great grandfather, the late A. Sabath, who for forty-six years served his Illinois district in the Congress of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Kayner will be at home after Sunday, the twenty-fifth, at 432 West Belmont, Chicago.

Arriving tomorrow to be the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Ben Craig, Sr., on North Pine Street, will be Mrs. I. W. Rouzer of Birmingham, the former Olivia O'Neal of Florence.

In addition to club members, Mrs. Glenn Blouin was present for the program and the refreshment hour which followed.

Whisked from luncheons with cards to late afternoon and dinner gatherings, Mrs. Stewart sandwiched her party into the busy days which, as a guest of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson at their home on North Wood, she has experienced on former occasions.

Tuberose and pompons filled bowls along the center of the luncheon table in the Williamsburg Rooms and mixed bouquets completed the background motif.

Name cards marked places for twenty-five guests.

THE SPILLWAY

We've endured summer's heat,
More than usual this year . . .
And now that it's Fair time,
We know fall is here.

JUST HOPE WE'LL continue to have pretty days for the rest of the week, on account of the North Alabama State Fair which, according to "him-who-knows" Hewlett Jackson, (officially the secretary-manager) this year is the "best ever."

AND DIDN'T FALL come in on us in no uncertain terms? Might have known there were a couple of ladies behind it all. We're thankful to Donna and Ethel for breaking up a bad heat spell, but can't commend them for their ruthlessness elsewhere. (And we'd like to know why we can't call the hurricanes Joe and John for a while).

ENJOYED SEEING Mary Alice (Darby) Lanier with hubby (Dr.) Charles and daughter Andrea this past week as they spent a few days with the A. J. Darbys. Mary Alice was one of Madame Spillway's favorites "back when" and she is the same charming and interesting person now. Their home is in Wilmington, Delaware, where the University students call Charles "Professor" . . . This delightful threesome is here on a stop-over on their way to Atlanta to take Andrea, who is a student at Agnes Scott College . . . hope they make this travel schedule a habit, because we don't see them often enough.

ANOTHER OF OUR "old-time" favorites was here last week, so we hear. Sorry to have missed seeing Elizabeth (Weeden) Minton and John . . . they spent a few days with parents John and Jessie, at their lovely home, Sweetwater.

DON'T KNOW WHERE to present the first orchid to celebrate the birth on last Friday, September 16th, of little Jay Martin, who came into the world in our nation's capitol and was greeted by parents Jack and Joan. Probably it should go to Lottie Darnall since this is her first great-grandson . . . or to Albert and Louise Martin, the proud grandparents . . . our heartiest congratulations all the way down the line!

AND CONGRATULATIONS ARE certainly in order to Henry (Dr.) Cheney who was 91 years young last Saturday. Makes us all proud to know "the likes of him."

Understand that Birmingham claimed a large number of our members this past week end. THERE WAS THE SPORTING CROWD made up of football enthusiasts like the Jimmy Whites . . . the Russell Lewises . . . the Bill Cadenheads . . . the Lloyd Johnsons . . . to name a few among Went down to look in on the new Florence Scenic Railroad on Sunday afternoon and saw many happy youngsters enjoying the ride . . . two especially bright faces on the very back seat of one of the coaches we identified as our good friends Karl and Clyde Tyree . . . HOPE YOU HAPPENED to drive by one of the local theatres last Friday night to see the gay goings-on . . . must've been about fifty-or-more teen-agers who seemed to be enjoying themselves the way only teen-agers can. Heard one of them say that the movie was to be followed by a party at the home of John (Dr.) and Muriel Ray. Know it must be at times like this that the Rays really enjoy that lovely new home!

HOPE YOU DIDN'T miss the lovely and BIG morning coffee given at the Florence Club on last Saturday by Shirley Self, Boots Finney, and Edith Edwards. They made a pretty receiving line, with Mrs. Edwards Sr., who with Mr. Edwards, has recently moved here from Minneapolis . . . a cordial "glad-you've-come" to them both.

SPEAKING OF THE PARTY, we must mention the parade of fall colors going to-and-from. (Must have made Mother Nature sit up and take notice of the competition she is to have this fall) . . . There was Mary Towles in shades of brown . . . Biddy Stewart in golden yellow . . . Dot Thomas in a rich blue . . . Edith McKelvey in turquoise . . . Gail Ozbirn in a deep egg-shell . . . "Sweetie" High-tower in navy . . . all blended with many variations of hues on the other guests.

A BIG GET-WELL card goes this week to Georganne Holloway out ECM-way. Hear that she has nothing to worry about on the "home-front" because her many friends have taken over Bob and their cute children. NOTED AT THE Presbyterian Church Sunday morning was the happy scene as the George Vrylands arrived with the Holloway-Vryland group . . . recalled the Sunday morning a few months back when the Holloways arrived there with their own and the little Tyrees, while Dorothea was "fighting the viruses."

SEE YOU AT THE FAIR . . . good-bye for now . . . until more news comes through the Spillway.

The Pleasure of A Football Game ! The Joys of A Successful Career

While we thrill to the sparkling atmosphere of a football game and cast aside any care we might have, it is right that we should enjoy these years to the fullest.

But, as we finish our high school or college training, the time comes when we must give thoughts of the future our careful attention. These thoughts should guide us to the career we plan to follow . . . the endeavor that will mean our life's work. No career open today to the young woman or young man offers so much return as that of Hair Stylist . . . the most lucrative profession available . . . when you are properly trained.

A course in beauty culture under the direction of RAY REED can be the answer. Let us give you details.

Please Accept My Humble Thanks

It is actually impossible for me to convey to you adequately my deep appreciation for the confidence expressed by the wonderful majority vote you gave me in Monday's municipal election, which elected me to another term on our City Commission. The margin of almost four to one over the combined vote of my worthy opponents, makes me feel very humble and I trust that I may merit this complimentary vote—I assure you that I shall try my best to warrant it.

The future of the City of Florence is a bright one and to meet the challenge that is ours will require careful planning. This your elected officials are pledged to do and we look forward to a continued and prosperous growth.

Again, let me express my heartfelt thanks to each of our citizens whom it shall be my pleasure to serve in the important years ahead.

Sincerely Yours,

ELLIE F. MARTIN

If the farmer gave away the cotton for a four-dollar shirt, the shirt would still cost $3.70. And if the farmer gave away the corn for a 17-cent can of corn, you would still pay 15 cents for it.

In 1946 the average family spent $767 for food, and in 1958 the same food cost $1,065. Out of this $298 increase, the farmer got $30, while non-farm handlers and workers got $268.

PIPELINERS OF ENERGY

Underground Caverns Provide Economical LPGas Storage

Where natural gas pipelines cannot economically go, liquefied petroleum gases — "bottled" in steel pressure tanks — are providing clean, economical, efficient fuel. As a result, LPGas daily is growing in importance for cooking, heating and refrigeration, and as fuel for tractors, trucks, buses and other mechanical equipment.

Butane and propane are liquid only under pressure or refrigeration. To provide economical, high-pressure storage, Texas Eastern has washed "jug wells" from the salt dome near Mont Belvieu, Texas. Here LPGas is accumulated for shipment via the Little Big Inch products pipeline to Todhunter, near Cincinnati, Ohio, where it is stored in underground caverns until needed. These caverns are mined from shale 350 feet below the surface. This storage assures ample supply of LPGas for the growing Midwest market.

LPGas, motor fuel and burner oils, shipped via Little Big Inch, are only a part of the energy products transported by the Texas Eastern systems. Through look-ahead planning, as demonstrated by the Little Big Inch, Texas Eastern moves forward as Pipeliner of Energy to the Nation.

FILE FOR GASOLINE TAX REFUND BY SEPT. 30

Alabama farmers must file for tax refunds on gasoline soon. Extension Economist Foy Helms reports that the deadline for filing Federal Internal Service Form 2240 is September 30. Refunds will cover federal tax paid on gasoline used on the farm during the period from July 1, 1959 to June 30, 1960. Helms says the federal tax on gasoline was increased from three to four cents per gallon in October last year. And if farmers bought and used gasoline for farming purposes before that time, the refund will be three cents a gallon. After that date, the refund is four cents a gallon.

Forms are available at the county agent's office.

Farm Review and Forecast

Small Pecan Crop Seen For State

Alabama's pecan crop will be small again this year.

Production in the state is forecast at 17.5 million pounds, compared to 15.2 million pounds produced last year, reports A. W. Jones, Auburn Extension marketing specialist. But this still isn't very many nuts.

Jones says coastal counties that had a near failure crop last year have a fair crop in 1960, but as a whole the outlook is disappointing even in that area. Central areas of the state generally had a good crop last year, but fewer pecans are indicated for that area this year.

However, the pecan crop for the entire U.S. is forecast at nearly 182 million pounds—the largest crop since 1953. And if this production is realized, it will be 27 per cent above 1959 and 21 per cent higher than average.

During 1959 Japan bought 11.5 million pounds of U.S. fluecured tobacco.

Feed Exemptions, Other Factors Aid Poultry Industry

Retail sales tax exemptions on some of the major raw materials of farm production are saving farmers about $3 million a year and at the same time resulting in a healthy expansion of the state's rural economy.

Sen. Walter C. Givhan, of Dallas County, declares that the exemption on feed and some other necessities has been a major factor especially in the development of Alabama's multi-million-dollar poultry industry.

"This expansion has not only increased taxable farm income, but has resulted in huge expenditures for building materials, utilities, equipment and other merchandise with the result that the additional revenue to the state has far exceeded any loss as a result of the exemptions," the farmer-legislator said.

"Savings on cotton and peanut insect poisons and other insecticides and fungicides also have resulted in wider use of these materials in line with Auburn recommendations, bringing about increased yields in the fields and a more healthy livestock economy."

Senator Givhan, who is president of his county Farm Bureau and secretary-treasurer of the Alabama Farm Bureau, was one of the authors of the Bureau-sponsored legislation providing for the exemptions. He said official estimates from state capitol sources placed annual savings to farmers at $2,485,000 on feeds and $428,313 on insecticides, based on recent sales figures.

The Farm Bureau, official spokesman for more than 75,000 Alabama Farm families, successfully opposed efforts during the last session of the legislature to slap a retail sales tax on these materials.

Order Early For Big Game

Civic and hunting clubs can have an elk or buffalo dinner. But they'll have to get their orders in early, says Earl F. Kennamer, Auburn University fish and wildlife specialist.

The meat will be available at the opening of the annual big game disposal sale by the U.S. Department of the Interior. Orders will be filled on a "first come, first served" basis, Kennamer says half an elk costs $50, and a whole carcass, $100; half a buffalo sells for $90, a whole carcass, $180. A few quarters of buffalo are available at $45 each.

Periodic reduction of game herds is necessary for protection of range and for management purposes. Surplus elk and buffalo are available at Wichita Mountains National Wildlife Refuge, Cache, Oklahoma; National Bison Range, Moiese, Montana; Fort Niobrara National Wildlife Refuge, Valentine, Nebraska; Sullys Hill National Game Preserve; Fort Totten, North Dakota. And orders are now being solicited.

For official price lists and conditions of sale, Kennamer says to write the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D.C. or to the manager of one of the four refuges.

CRITTENDEN ON USS MACON

Larry N. Crittenden, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. Crittenden of 411 N. Cherry, Florence, is serving aboard the heavy cruiser USS Macon operating out of Boston, Mass.

Always unload a gun and lock it with the ammunition in some safe place. And keep the key beyond the reach of children.

Changes Made In Hunting Season

Seasons for hunting, trapping, fishing, and bag and creel limits in Alabama have already been set for the 1960-61 season.

According to Extension Fish and Wildlife Specialist Earl Kennamer, one of the major changes approved by the State's Advisory Board of Conservation is unlimited permits for hunters in the National Forest Management areas. Previously these permit requirements caused many hunting permit requests to be turned away. But it was the Board's opinion that lifting the restriction would "allow everyone to participate in the hunts if they want to. And since permits are unlimited and several areas will open on the same date, there will be no appreciable increase in the number of hunters participating in National Forest hunts."

September 1, 1959 were 9.8 per cent of the season's total. Slow ginnings reflect lateness of the crop and delayed harvest. Progress of ginning ranged from barely starting on Sand Mountain to slightly over one-third complete in southeast Alabama. Since August 1, weather has cleared enabling growers to make good progress picking cotton.

Another major change is the law that permits shooting deer with antlers of any size above the hairline, states Kennamer. Last year's regulations required that a four-inch antler must be visible.

Store Farm Machinery Now

With the fall season here, farmers have finished with land preparation, planting, and cultivation equipment. And they will soon be finished with harvesting machinery.

According to Extension Engineer J. T. Gaillard, smart operators are thoroughly cleaning, washing, servicing, checking, and repairing all machines before putting them into storage. Fertilizer hoppers and boxes are washed and then covered with a heavy oil. And all plows and land-polished surfaces are coated with a rust preventive or heavy grease.

Gaillard says that after the equipment is processed it is stored under a shed or inside a building for protection from the weather. He adds that storing farm machines on wooden blocks prevents them from coming in contact with damp ground or concrete floors. "A little time spent now will prevent loss of time during next year's cropping season," states the Auburn University engineer.

"The interest rate is important but I was thinking of more than the cost... I wanted a lender who followed sound lending practices; one who knew the farmers' angle and had the reputation of staying with farmers in bad years."

Miss Jerry Miller of Huntsville has been visiting relatives here.

Our sympathy is with the Cox family in the death of Henderson Cox on Sept. 17th. He was a life long citizen of Killen, and had many friends. Members of his family out-of-town who attended his funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Cox of Thomasville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cox of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Dee Cox of Rome, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kellar of Paragould, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl McFall and Mr. and Mrs. T. Thompson of Knoxville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hale and children visited relatives in Decatur last Saturday.

MARINE PFC WILLIS RETURNS TO DUTY

Marine Pfc. David W. Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Willis of 602 Howell St., returned to Mayport, Fla. aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt completed a six-month tour with the Sixth Fleet, Greece, Italy and Spain.

While in the Mediterranean, the carrier visited ports in France, and dry.

Keep the poultry house clean and dry.

Experts say that one percent of all dairy calves are twins and only two-thousandths of one percent are triplets.

How do some families get so very money-wise?

Do they do more with their money than you do with yours?

Maybe it's the family down the street . . . You're pretty sure that they don't make any more money than you do, yet they always seem to be the ones who take the trips . . . refurbish the living room . . . buy the new car . . . build the addition to the house.

How does it happen? How do some families get so very money-wise? One reason could be the way they handle it . . .

You see, handling money properly is like doing anything else properly. It takes some learning, some practice, some skill.

Behind most money-wise families, stands a full-service commercial Bank. A Bank that's ready and able to help in all matters of sound financial planning . . . and experienced in all the ways of making your money do more — go farther.

Perhaps best of all, when you work with a full-service Bank, you build character, reputation — your "standing" in your community.

This record of personal responsibility is a pretty wonderful thing to have . . . wherever you live and whatever you do.

WHAT IS A FULL-SERVICE BANK?
It's simply a complete Bank, a commercial Bank. For, unlike many financial institutions that offer only one or two services, a full-service commercial Bank handles all your money needs. These services include:

• Savings Accounts • Checking Accounts • Personal Loans • Car Loans • Home Loans • Business and Farm Loans. By using these services you build your Personal Standing in your community.

Our neighborhood full-service commercial Bank stands ready to help you with all your financial needs.
