

The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

And still the voters shy away from the polls as if they are afraid to be caught voting. With only 2,079 taking the trouble to cast their ballots in Monday's run-off election, it meant that each vote cast cost the City of Florence — exactly 56 cents. The total cost of the election was $1,165.00. You do your own arithmetic and see if we are correct. We congratulate L. L. Whitten on his clear-cut victory and predict for him a most successful political career. We shall be interested in following him and his slogan: "Old Enough to Know and Young Enough to Do."

• We read of a tombstone establishment advertising: "We give Trading Stamps."

• At lunch the other noon, Warren Grieb, executive vice president of Weekly Newspapers Representatives, our National advertising agency, told us of a terrifying experience that had just come his way. Enroute on a night flight to the West coast from his headquarters in New York and flying at 38,000 feet, the voice of the pilot came over the loudspeaker: "I do not want you to become alarmed but we find ourselves in a serious situation. Both motors on our right side have cut out apparently from electrical malfunction and we will attempt to find an emergency field for landing. Tighten your safety belts and remain calm. You will be advised of our progress." Grieb said that the plane seemed to be flying on its side. All aboard began to pray. A few minutes later came this advice: "We are flying at approximately 36,000 feet, losing altitude, but to forestall the gradual descent we will go into a power dive to 16,000 feet so as to have better vision of a hoped-for landing field." The power dive gave the feeling that all was over for everyone aboard but at the designated level, the plane pulled up with terrific impact and then leveled off, Grieb said. Then this announcement: "We are in contact with a small unlighted field at Tonopah, Nev., and are advised that the community has been alerted and cars are converging to ring the field to give a lighted runway. All precautions are being taken."

In the distance could be seen the cars coming from all directions and as the plane side-slipped its way toward the airfield, the pilot again advised that everything would be done for a safe landing and that all current would be cut off at the moment the plane touched ground. Grieb said that never in his flying experiences had a more perfect landing been made and immediately, when the plane came to a halt, all switches were pulled and the passengers sat there in the dark thanking God for guiding them to safety. At that moment, two flashlights, one in either end of the passenger compartment, flashed on, both, of course, using their own batteries. This was a precautionary measure included in the safety program of the airline. Then, came the relief. A youngster, about five-years-old and the only child on the plane, spoke up: "Miss (he was addressing the stewardess) may I have one of those flashlights? I've got to go to the bathroom."

• Being poor has its advantages; the car keys are never in your other pants.

• A friend tells us that on one of the hot days of last week he was driving toward Jackson, Tenn., by way of Waynesboro. Somewhere along the route he was hailed for a ride by a farmer standing beside the road. Glad to have company, he stopped and invited the man to join him. He was advised that the farmer was also enroute to Jackson. After a short distance, our friend turned on the air-conditioner and soon the car became right chilly. The farmer shivered a little, then asked our friend if he would stop and let him out, explaining: "I believe I'll get out and return home. It has turned out so cold I believe I'd better go back home and kill hogs." (We don't believe it, either.)

• It had been a long hard day at the office but after a good dinner, the husband sat back in his easy chair, picked up his newspaper, lighted his pipe and relaxed comfortably. His wife had taken her usual seat and began working a crossword puzzle. Calm and serenity settled over the household. Suddenly, she asked: "John, what is a female sheep?" "Ewe," replied her husband . . . and then the fight began.

Commissioners Name Barnes As Inferior Judge

The Lauderdale County Commissioners, empowered by the state legislature to choose an Inferior Court judge, unanimously selected John R. Barnes, solicitor for the defunct Law and Equity Court, judge of the newly-created Lauderdale County Inferior Court.

Judge Barnes took the oath of office Monday afternoon in the chamber of Lauderdale County Probate Judge Estes R. Flynt.

The establishment of the Lauderdale County Inferior Court was accomplished through an act of the special 1961 Alabama state legislature, which in the same act abolished the present Lauderdale County Law and equity court.

The new Inferior Court "shall have civil jurisdiction in cases at law in which the matter in controversy does not exceed $500, exclusive of interest and costs." It also "shall have original criminal jurisdiction of all misdemeanors committed in Lauderdale and all peace proceedings commenced in said county; and it shall have preliminary jurisdiction of all criminal and quasi-criminal proceedings cognizable in justice of the peace courts."

The appointment of a Deputy Circuit Court Solicitor will be a further innovation in the Lauderdale County system of courts and will be appointed by and work under the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court Solicitor. His duties will be to act as solicitor for the new Inferior Court.

The Inferior Court will be in session continuously from day to day and will not be a court of record, since it deals only with misdemeanors, and "there shall not be charged a solicitor's fee." The Circuit Court Clerk of Lauderdale County will be ex-officio clerk of the Lauderdale County Inferior Court.

Captain Jim Carter, Florence Detective said "It's what we call a rip job," and said no leads had turned up.

Funds To Build Waterworks At Waterloo Okehed

A loan to assist the City of Waterloo in building its public water system and other facilities has been approved, this newspaper was advised Wednesday afternoon in a telegram from Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman and Rep. Robert E. Jones.

The telegram follows: "Pleased to advise Community Facilities Administration has approved loan of eighty thousand dollars to town of Waterloo to build a public water system, including a well, treatment plant, reservoir, fire hydrants and water distribution facilities."

The Florence City Commission has announced a proposed addition to the Florence City Municipal building which would virtually double existing facilities. The addition will extend the present three-story structure north along Short Court Street over the site of the old city hall, facing onto Short Court Street with two new entrances.

To be built along the same architectural lines and with the same materials as the present municipal building, the new wing when finished will appear only as a component part of the whole structure. Corridors along each floor will tie the new wing onto the old one and will have three stories and a basement, as in the present structure.

A total of 7,000 square feet of new space for each floor will make a grand total of 28,000 square feet of new space available to the city offices. The cost is expected to be somewhere between $300,000 and $400,000.

An air-handling room for complete air conditioning will be established on each floor as well as restrooms and the basement will have space for storage, a fallout shelter and a rifle range and instruction area for the police department.

Tenants in the old city hall, on the site of which the new building will appear, have already been notified to move by January 1 with work to begin shortly thereafter.

Northington, Smith and Kranert of Florence are the architects for the project which is expected to take eighteen months to complete.

At Tuesday's meeting of the City Commission Mayor E. F. Martin was given authority to execute an agreement with Barr and Tunes, architects, for the preparation of plans, specifications and supervision for the erection of a new recreation center at Weeden Heights. Authority to proceed with plans for the municipal building was also granted.

BULLETIN

In a major speech before the UN General Assembly Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko formally rejected President Kennedy's bid for banning nuclear weapons testing but did say that his country would consider a UN role for West Berlin to help avoid a threat of war that could take "hundreds of millions of lives."

President Kennedy speaking before the United Nations Monday over a nation-wide TV and radio hookup, told the world in no uncertain terms how this nation stood with respect to the Berlin situation, nuclear testing and other cold war crises.

Opposes Troika
He especially emphasized this country's stand with regard to the appointment of a secretary-general to succeed Dag Hammarskjold, killed in a recent plane crash while enroute to plead for peace in the strife-torn Congo. The Soviets had made known their preference for a troika, or three-man executive, which Kennedy said would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis, and confidence with gross confusion."

The President told the 99-nation General Assembly in the UN that the organization's very life was at stake in the issue raised by the death of Dag Hammarskjold and he urged new strength and new roles for the United Nations.

He proposed a new approach to disarmament, which while gradual could start "now."

Soviets Challenged
He said it was "Our intention to challenge the Soviet Union, not to an arms race but to a peace race — to advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has actually been achieved. As to nuclear testing, negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks, the President said in countering Soviet insistence that they be wrapped up in disarmament talks, adding that testing can be banned now."

The President advocated a UN force to keep the peace with each member nation earmarking certain units of their military for such a purpose.

The Berlin Crisis
The President again reiterated this country's stand on Germany and specifically the Berlin crisis. He said we would not fail in our commitments to West Berlin and that in connection with a Soviet-East Berlin pact "the Western Allies are not concerned with any paper arrangement the Soviets wish to make with a regime of their own creation on territory occupied by their own troops and governed by their own agents."

"No such action can affect either our rights or our responsibilities," the President said.

The Western Allies would defend "by whatever means are forced upon them their obligations and their access to the free citizens of West Berlin and the self-determination of those citizens."

Nine Months For Five Mills

To insure operation of schools in Alabama the state-at-large will vote on an amendment to provide a 5-mill property tax increase on December 5. Six weeks later this county will vote on this 5 mill tax increase in a local election. There should not be a single dissenting vote either time.

There is only one way schools can be guaranteed nine months operation and that is by having enough money to operate that length of time. It is as simple as that and the money must come from some sort of tax. The proposed 5-mill tax will furnish the necessary fund, not only for the next fiscal year but future school terms. It is a just tax and a mild tax since it only involves an annual increase of $5.00 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

For this comparatively small increase Lauderdale County will have full school terms and adequate funds to operate on and fulfill teacher contracts. Without it schools will operate on short terms if at all and education will be seriously hampered. Should the state be forced to find other means of raising the money it might be through the income or sales tax route, already suggested as alternate means.

The foregoing is fact . . . not fiction. It is what can be done and what must be done.

An Appeal For Peace

There was no equivocation and no compromise when John F. Kennedy spoke to the United Nations General Assembly on Monday morning. It was a tough speech if one can call the truth tough. It was a speech that indicated this country's willingness to go all the way for peace or all the way for war. It placed the responsibility squarely in the lap of the Soviets.

He proposed an approach to disarmament that was both far-reaching and realistic. The approach was simple and easily understood. He invited the world to "advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has been actually achieved." He said nuclear test bans need not wait on disarmament plans. It can, he said, be implemented "NOW."

He advanced a special plan for the UN to keep the peace in the world by each member-nation ear-marking certain units of their armed forces for that purpose. These units could then be called upon as part of a UN force to prevent aggression.

As for Germany the President reiterated in no uncertain terms that this nation would live up to its commitments to West Germany. Referring to the Soviet-East German peace treaty, Mr. Kennedy said, the Western Allies are not concerned with any "paper arrangements," the Soviets have with other peoples they already govern.

Most firm was the President's stand on the one-man secretariat for the United Nations. He attacked the Soviet proposal for a three-man executive saying it would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis, and confidence with confusion."

The speech received round after round of applause by all except the Soviets and their satellites.

It was, as we said, tough, if you call the truth tough.

Your Cooperation Is Needed

When people go to a hospital they are usually sick or injured. They need both treatment and rest in order to recuperate quickly. However they do not always get the rest they need because too many well-meaning people think it their duty to visit the sick, and actually retard their recovery.

It is one thing for members of an immediate family to visit their sick but quite another thing for a stream of visitors to pour into the room during visiting hours, many times in a semi-private room where one or more of the occupants may badly need rest.

If you must visit a sick friend or member of the family try and remember they are sick enough to be hospitalized and that rest is a vitally essential factor in their recovery. A very few minutes should suffice to cheer the patient and perhaps save him from spending extra days in the hospital.

Johnson Is Host To Scout Council

Leonard Johnson, chairman for Lauderdale county for the Boy Scouts of America, was host to 21 interested leaders of the Scouting movement at Camp Westmoreland Tuesday night. The business session, presided over by Mr. Johnson and Gordon Brown, Scout executive, heard reports from the six division chairmen present which showed that Lauderdale county is in top position as to Scouting in the Tennessee Valley and improving its position daily.

Mr. Johnson announced that all operating committees of the local council will meet with chairmen from over the Valley at Decatur on October 11 to hear progress reports covering 1961 and make plans for the coming Scouting year.

Lieutenants Gordon and Jacqueline Swyers, the new commanding officers of the local Salvation Army Corps, arrived in the district last week to take over their duties. They were officially greeted at the monthly advisory board meeting held at the Hotel Reeder on Thursday noon.

Beautiful Film Shown Exchange

The members of the Exchange Club enjoyed a showing of a beautiful film of Hodges Gardens, Louisiana show place, at its meeting Tuesday noon at Hotel Reeder. The program was arranged by Earle W. Darby.

Unemployed Rate Of Pay Increased

Many Alabama unemployed will be eligible next week to have a $4 weekly increase in payments and may be qualified to extend their duration of eligibility from twenty to twenty-six weeks, Ralph R. Williams, Director of the Alabama Department of Industrial Relations, announced this week.

Williams said this increase in weekly payments and extension of eligibility time was the result of the enactment of recent legislation passed in the special session of the 1961 Legislature and signed into law by Governor Patterson on September 16.

Another change in the law, Williams said, will raise the minimum weekly payment to any claimant from $6.00 to $9.00. He said this change in the law was made to make anyone eligible to draw compensation receive a sufficient amount to justify the claim.

CAPTAIN CONWAY GRADEN

No finer recognition to a lifetime of service on the Tennessee River was that of appointing Captain Graden as "Honorary Pilot" of the first steamer to pass through the new lock at Wilson Dam. High on the bridge of the Steamer Stanton K. Smith, Conway Graden known throughout the was withdrawn from the trade, and Captain Graden was transferred to the Steamer John A. Patton, operating between Chattanooga and Decatur.

Those who have known Captain Graden through the years, joined with him in appreciation of the honor bestowed on him in that thrilling moment.

Conway Graden was born near Guntersville, April 25, 1881, the son of John Thomas and Julia C. Carter Graden. He attended elementary schools in Marshall County.

After finishing his formal schooling, Captain Graden worked on a farm until he was eighteen years old when he left to take a job with the Tennessee River Navigation Company as a nightwatchman on the Steamer N. In 1901, two years later, he was promoted to Second Clerk (Mud Clerk) by the company, his duties being to check freight on the deck and on the wharf.

After completing three years as an apprentice, Captain Graden went to the U. S. Steamboat Inspection Office, Nashville, to take an examination for a mate's license. After receiving his license, he returned to Chattanooga and the company assigned him as mate on the Steamer Joe Wheeler, operating between Chattanooga and Kingston, Tenn., where he remained for a year. Captain Graden then worked as mate on several steamers until 1910 when he went back to Nashville to take the examination for his master's license.

On his return to Chattanooga, he was promoted to Captain of the Steamer James N. Trigg, operating between Chattanooga and Joppa, Ill. Ten months later, that steamer

Cancer Crusade Quota Exceeded

Lauderdale County exceeded its quota of $5,750 in the 1961 crusade of the American Cancer Society, Alabama Division, Inc. raising $6,646.27.

State Crusade Chairman Jimmy Faulkner of Bay Minette thanked all who participated in the campaign and reported that the state as a whole raised $312,634, second largest amount ever contributed in a cancer crusade in Alabama. Nationally the Crusade raised $30,691,805.

The annual crusade is held in April to put out life-saving information about cancer while raising funds to support the society's three-point program of education, research, and service.

Thirty cents of each dollar contributed go to research, 60 cents stay in the state for education and service to medically indigent cancer patients; and 10 cents are used for fund-raising, administration and purchase of educational materials.

Chairmen for this county were B. B. Wright and Adolph Abrams, both of Florence.

Fans See Good Brand Of Ball In Grid Games

Coffee 6, Russellville 6
The PAT's which failed to get home created a lot of room for "ifs" in the Russellville-Coffee battle at Russellville Friday night, but the 6-6 windup was the sensation of the Tennessee Valley Conference season to date.

The Golden Tigers, getting their first big test under new Coach Bill Doty, came back to match a first-half Coffee score but could not add the important seventh point, on which the Yellow Jackets earlier had failed. Russellville threatened several times later but Coffee defense stiffened to stave off further scoring.

Deshler 13, Butler 0
Deshler's triumphant gridiron wagon is still rolling along at an all-victorious clip spurred by latest achievement, a workmanlike 13-0 decision over Tennessee Valley Conference foe Butler of Huntsville Friday night at Tusculum.

Slightly less impressive, than in their two earlier verdicts, Buddy Moore's red-shirted maulers none-the-less had the big play when it counted on two occasions and that pretty much told the story.

Butler tore holes in the Deshler forward wall, but couldn't muster an attack sufficient to penetrate deep acreage. The scoring was brief and came like a bolt-out-of-the-blue on both occasions.

Sheffield 7, Huntsville 6
Sheffield handed rival Huntsville its third straight loss in an important Tennessee Valley Conference game at Huntsville Friday night by the narrow edge of 7-6.

Sheffield scored in the first quarter and held the advantage throughout. Milton McDonald passed 31 yards to Jimmy Hayes to set up a one-yard plunge by Brian Rindt for the touchdown after which they made the point and led 7-0.

Bill Pape ran 35 yards in the second quarter to score for Huntsville but the point after failed and Sheffield still led, 7-6.

Rogers 6, W. Limestone 0
The Pirates of Rogers High School really lived up to their namesake by hijacking the game from the West Limestone Wildcats at Greenville Friday night, 6-0.

Out-manuevered, out-ran, and out-played during most of the game the Greenhillers, never-the-less turned in a brilliant performance to beat the rambling Limestone.

Falkville 20, LCHS 13
The Lauderdale County Tigers of Rogersville received their second defeat of the 1961 season Friday night as they lost to a tough Falkville eleven 20-13 in a game that was hard fought all the way. Neither team was willing to give up until the last sound of the whistle.

Falkville's Blue Devils took advantage of Tiger fumbles, a pass interception, and made the most of a second, third, and final period of play to defeat the Rogersville eleven on their own home soil.

Central 6, Leighton 6
Leighton playing without star halfback Michael Palmer for two and one-half quarters stopped a late fourth quarter drive to tie Central 6-6 in a game that was in doubt till the end at Leighton Friday night.

Late in the second quarter Central started the drive that gave them their lone TD when Ricky Murphy took it in with 0:55 left in the first half, tying the score 6-6.

Ardmore 40, Lexington 0
The Ardmore Flying Tigers continue undefeated with an 8-0 record and their streak of 40 points or more per contest holds after Thursday night's second half outburst that buried the previously undefeated Lexington Golden Bears 40-0 at Lexington in a Wheeler Basin Conference game.

Held on even grounds for 27 minutes of the first half, Ardmore left intermission 7-0 and poured back with 20 points to break the contest wide open in the third period and added 13 more for good measure.

FSC 9, Murray State 6
Bobby Jackson's 17-yard field goal with only 13 seconds remaining on the clock at Murray, Ky., Saturday night carried the Florence State Lions to a 9-6 upset victory over the Murray Thoroughebs. It was Jackson who fired a three-pointer last week as the Lions put Delta State in the dust by an identical score at Coffee Stadium.

Neither team offered any serious scoring threat during the third period, however the Lions dominated play during the final round before the game winning field goal wrapped up things.

Mental Center Assists In Marital Counselling

This is the THIRD of a series of articles dealing with the functions and activities of the Muscle Shoals Mental Health Center.

The Muscle Shoals Mental Health Center, realizing the need for marital counselling in this area, works closely with ministers, physicians and others to supply this service to our area which otherwise wouldn't be provided on an organized scale.

During the past two years, the Family Life Conference has pointed out this need and has recommended a marriage counselling committee be set up to include those who would be willing to render this service. They are the ministers, physicians, the dean of women at Florence State College and the staff at the Mental Health Center. Persons who need this guidance may thus choose the one they feel is best qualified to help them.

At the Mental Health Center, the counselling may be for young couples considering marriage or for couples already married but having difficulty.

Pre-Marital Counselling
When a potential marriage couple enlists the help of the staff at the center, tests are first given to help understand their personalities, predicting their success at marriage. The couple is then encouraged to discuss any questions they might have and their concerns before taking the important step.

The counselling gives the couple a chance to know what marriage is and more important, what is expected of each of them, the responsibility marriage places on their shoulders, the sacrifices, and so forth.

The counselor will attempt to clear up any misconceptions of marriage which many young couples have about marriage.

Those couples who come to the center before being married, find marriage more enlightening, having previously discussed their thoughts and problems openly, and are more likely to make a success of their marriage.

Marital Counselling
The center also provides counselling for those already married but having difficulty. The husband and wife are seen individually by two different professional staff members, so that each partner may feel more free to explore his thoughts without fear of them being disclosed to his or her spouse. Later the couples may be seen together by the counselor.

Most often, the couples' most frequent marital problems are financial, in-law, sexual incompatibility, religion, lack of maturity of one or both partners, and so forth. And sometimes, someone will tell the staff, "My husband or wife doesn't love me," "My husband or wife is having an affair," or "My husband or wife is domineering," etc.

When these and numerous other problems arise, and the couple seeks the advice of the center, the staff does not recommend that a couple divorce or stay together and makes no decisions for them. Whatever the couple decides is their own decision, and the staff at the center looks at the decision along with the couple realistically and at both advantages and disadvantages.

If the couple says divorce is the only solution to their particular problem, the counselor suggests they look at their decision a second time. He stresses the fact that a woman with children has to support them and that it is more difficult for a woman to remarry who has children. It is also pointed out a man has to pay one-half his check for support and alimony and he too, would find it difficult to remarry thus having to support two families.

However, the most important consideration should be given to the children who are difficult to raise by only one parent and who need both parents. All things should certainly be considered for divorce, like marriage, should not be a spur of the moment decision. In most cases where the couple enlist the aid of the center, their is enough satisfaction in the marriage for the couple to want to work with it and make an effort to solve their problems.

Poultry Source Of Cheap Meat

Poultry is the best good eating bargain available to the American family today, an Auburn University poultry expert says.

Not so long ago, poultry production and processing was a small-scale operation, points out Allen Brown, Auburn Extension Service poultry marketing specialist. But today, he says, it is one of our greatest mass production success stories.

This modern food miracle was made possible by advances in production, processing, and marketing—unmatched by any other food industry, declares the poultryman.

Poultry is not only a vastly improved product over what it was 10 years ago, adds Brown, but it now sells for much less.

Herald Editor Is 'Editor Of Week'

The Publisher's Auxiliary, published weekly by the Western Newspaper Union in Chicago, Ill., last week named Harold S. May, editor and co-publisher of this newspaper, and president of the Alabama Press Association, as "Editor of The Week."

The article, entitled "Thirty Years A Newspaperman," carried a double column picture of The Herald editor and a number of interesting episodes in his life dating back to the "old days" when he entered the newspaper field as an advertising salesman in the not-so-good depression years.

However, May saw the great changes wrought with the creation of the TVA, meeting among the important visitors to the Shoals, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Henry Ford, Harvey Firestone, and later Harry Truman.

For 14 years he was editor and publisher of the Alabama Legionnaire, official publication of the Alabama American Legion and held many important posts in the Legion, both state and local.

School Receives Aid From State

Representative Kenneth W. Bishop, Colbert County, was presented an appropriation for $15,000 by Governor John Patterson, Friday, to assist with the operating expenses of the R. C. Burns Hope Haven School for Retarded Children in Tuscumbia.

The appropriation was made to the Tuscumbia Center which serves trainable retarded children of Colbert and Lauderdale Counties and was made possible under a bill introduced by Bishop and co-sponsored by Representative Robert Broadfoot of Lauderdale County.

Hope Haven School is operated by the Muscle Shoals Association for Retarded Children and receives considerable support from the Muscle Shoals Shrine Club and a small amount from Colbert and Lauderdale County United Funds.

The trainable retarded children who attend the center are not eligible for the Special Classes in the Public Schools at the present time, due to the limited money available in the State Department of Education for the program of Special Education.

Mrs. Kay Weaver Honored

On September 17th Mrs. Kay Weaver, one of the loveliest ladies of our town, celebrated a 90th birthday. This is the annual event to which as many members of her family come as possible. This year two others joined in the honors of the celebration with her: Mary Kay Patterson of Sheffield and Mrs. Lura Harrison whose birthdays were on the 16th and 15th respectively.

Dinner was carried to the Weaver home and the huge dining room was a festive place with all the good things to eat and a birthday cake.

Miss Edna Warmack, though ill, was present and a well-wisher.

Recent Bride Entertained

On Saturday evening pink was the color motif used in the spacious social hall of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church where Mrs. Jimmie Waddell, a recent bride, was complimented with a bridal shower by Mrs. Walter Dison.

The long refreshment table was overlaid with net over pink satin with nosegays at intervals catching up the net. The centerpiece was a huge arrangement of pink roses, pink dahlias and other pink blossoms. On the pink draped table where the gifts were displayed an heirloom crystal candelabra holding five tapers each tied with pink rosebuds was the centerpiece.

Other floral arrangements were used in the room each an attraction in itself.

The attractive honoree wore pink also.

The gifts were presented by Mrs. J. R. Waddell who showed the wonderful estate of matrimony as described in the various scriptures which she quoted.

Mrs. Hubert Stanford, the honoree's mother, and a twin sister, Jean, of Corinth, Miss., were guests. Other guests were Mrs. Ray McCorkle, Mrs. Weaver Fuqua, Mrs. George McCorkle, Mrs. George Ezell, Mrs. Louis Thompson, Mrs. Jake Hauerwas and Mrs. J. O. Fowler all of Florence.

Myers Honored

Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Myers and their two daughters, Ruth Ann and Yvonne, are leaving Wednesday for Marion, Ky. The Cumberland Presbyterian Church, of which he was the pastor until his recent resignation honored the family with dinner in the church dining room on Sunday.

Large arrangements of summer blossoms were used in the attractive room where guests were seated at the long tables.

This fine family has endeared itself to the people of this community and our best wishes follow them wherever they go.

A gift was presented to them by the church.

On Monday evening three books were begun in a series of classes for their study. On October 8 revival services will begin. Rev. Hollis Kitchen is the pastor.

Rev. and Mrs. Hollis Kitchen and Molly Dale dined with Robbie and Arthur Bayles on Sunday and were their guests in the afternoon.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

HOME ACCIDENTS

The modern home contains mechanical devices and chemicals which are potential hazards to health. The worker in an industrial plant is protected against injury by safety devices, goggles, and special clothing. Proper ventilation, hoods, and face masks are guards against poisons and fumes in industrial work. The plant worker is instructed in handling dangerous material; but the housewife, in the midst of labor-saving contraptions, is on her own. Many women are unskilled in the manipulation of mechanical devices. They often are unfamiliar with the potency and danger of solvents, paint thinners, fertilizers, and insecticides. Certain substances in common use at home frequently cause poisoning because they are not recognized as being harmful. In addition to disinfectants, germicides, and insecticides, there are polishes and cleaning pastes or fluids that contain strong poisons.

Today's housewife uses power tools and electrical and mechanical devices which she is likely to operate without much concern as regards danger potential. While manufacturers of home devices design them with all safety features possible, the housewife in many instances could benefit from a course of instruction as to how properly to operate them. Electrical appliances need to be kept in good repair. Electrical equipment should not be touched when the hands or body are wet, or when standing on anything wet. May every home be safe from tragic accidents. With caution, it is possible.

Hogs Graze Well On Small Grains

Be sure to provide fall and winter grazing for your hogs, says O. N. Andrews, Auburn University Extension Service agronomist. He recommends planting small grains. Young, tender, fast-growing oats or wheat are hard to beat, he says.

White clover is another good grazing crop for hogs, points out Andrews. If you plant on moist productive soils, he says, white clover will provide a great deal of late winter and spring grazing.

Here are some suggestions to keep in mind, says Andrews. Lime and fertilize the land according to soil test. Prepare a firm, smooth seedbed. And plant three to five pounds of California ladino or Louisiana S-1 white clover per acre in late September or early October.

BELLS AROUND THE WORLD

The Indians could send a rallying call many, many miles by drums. Each drummer, stationed on a lonely ridge, would listen for the sound of distant drums, and relay the message to others waiting across the valley. Overnight a dozen tribes could be rallied to a common cause.

We don't need such crude methods of communication today. Men with a common purpose can join forces around the world at a pre-arranged time.

World Wide Communion Sunday is such an expression of unity. In every Christian land the church bells will summon men and women to the Lord's Supper on this Sunday.

And the universality of this great religious event will not depend on bells relaying the message from town to town. It will depend on folks like yourself coming to their Church to receive this Holy Sacrament.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Litter Must Have Size And Vigor

Keep your baby pigs healthy. "If you can't raise pigs you can't raise hogs. And if you can't raise hogs, there's not much need of being in the hog business," says G. B. Phillips, Auburn University Extension Service hog specialist.

Nothing affects your profits in the hog business as much as the size and vigor of the litter, he says. This business of keeping baby pigs healthy and of getting them off to a good start is important to a hog man, whether he has one sow or thirty, Phillips adds.

Care is also important, says the specialist. "The kind of pig you market depends on the care given it from birth to weaning. Pigs that do poorly during this period often never catch up."

Cleanliness is another important consideration, Phillips points out. Many disease problems that slow the start of young pigs can be prevented with a good sanitation program, he states.

Remember, too, adds the specialist, that before birth a pig lives in an environment with a controlled temperature of 102 degrees or more. He explains that after birth, he is faced with new surroundings and a much lower temperature. A chilled pig may not regain his normal body temperature for two or three days after birth, Phillips says.

Good management, he contends, is the best prevention for many of the troubles that beset baby pigs.

"Good management and proper disease prevention are the keys to increased pig profits. Prevention is much easier and less costly than most cures."

"If a pig gets a good start from birth to weaning, and if good management practices are employed during the growing and finishing period, your hog profits can go up," he adds.

Insects Attracted To Produce Dump

Cull dumps are not only undesirable; they attract insects that fly to other crops and processing plants, says Melvin Smith, Auburn Extension Service fruit and vegetable marketing specialist.

Most growers and packers have some fruits and vegetables that cannot be sold; so they look for an easy way to get rid of unwanted products, he says. And they usually dump the culls near cropland or processing plants.

The cull dumps, stresses the specialist, attract dried fruit beetles and vinegar flies. The insects then go on to infest nearby processing plants and crops.

But what most people do not realize, says Dr. Smith, is that culls do not have to be near plants and crops to cause damage. Vinegar flies have been known to travel more than six miles in 24 hours and beetles more than four miles during the same period of time, he explains.

One of the best ways to control pests in cull dumps—other than not dumping the fruit and vegetables in the first place—is to plow the fruit under, he states.

Marketing scientists have reported from preliminary studies that certain insecticides will also do the trick.

Guthion, for example, is an effective insecticide, says Dr. Smith. In tests, it prevented larva development for two weeks after it was applied at the rate of one pound per 100 square feet. About eight gallons of the solution should be used per 100 square feet for good penetration, Dr. Smith explains.

The scientists also tested endrin, heptachlor and malathion. While these tests were not as extensive as those with guthion, all the compounds gave good results, he points out. Costs were also lower.

Contact your county agent for more information.

Farm Facts

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that production of farm commodities in the U. S. S. R. during 1958 was about two-thirds of the U. S. level.

During 1958, the latest year for which comparisons are available, Soviet farm production made up 11% of the total world agricultural production and U. S. farm production comprised 16%.

On a per capita basis, Soviet output is about half that of the United States. The Soviet Union is placed in a favorable position by using the 1958 season (Russia's record year) to compare farm output with ours.

Although weather also was favorable in the United States during 1958, it was not as favorable as that in Russia. Soviet farm output during a year with more average weather is probably nearer 60% of U. S. farm output.

Despite a land mass 2½ times the size of the United States, the U. S. S. R.'s area of cropland, including hay land, exceeds ours only by Russian farm output is about 2/3 that of the United States.

In terms of land suitable for tillage, the United States probably has more. In 1960, the Soviets sowed 501 million acres of crops as compared to 329 million acres sown by the United States.

CARE OF SPRAYERS

Tractor sprayers are precision equipment and require special care at storage time. Certain jobs are necessary and must be done to properly store sprayers so that they will be usable next spring.

The entire sprayer should be flushed with warm, soapy water before being removed from the tractor. Rinse thoroughly with clean water. Dismantle the sprayer, drain and let dry. All nozzles, strainers, and the pump should be taken apart, washed again and allowed to dry. Special care should be given the small strainers and tips in the nozzles. A soft brush should be used to wash them. No metal blade or brush should touch the nozzle or its parts. All small parts should be placed in a bag or box and stored with the spray rig.

Piston and gear pumps should be flushed with oil after cleaning. Diaphragm and roller pumps should be flushed with a rust inhibitor after cleaning. All openings in pumps, valves, hoses, etc. should be plugged.

The tank should be cleaned thoroughly and dried, an application of light oil inside may protect it from rust. If the inside of the tank is rusty, discard it.

In the spring the sprayer should be removed from storage and tested under field conditions before time for it to be used.

All farm machinery and equipment is too expensive to be abused. Clean it up, oil it and put it in some kind of shed for the winter months ahead. It has been properly said that "Farm machinery and equipment rusts out faster than it wears out." Don't be guilty of allowing this to happen to you.

HANDLING DAMP COTTON

Spread wet picked cotton out on a tarpaulin or other suitable material and allow it to dry before loading it into a truck headed for the gin. Use a truck body large enough to hold a bale of cotton without packing. Tramping cotton, especially when damp, breaks the fibers, thus, lowering the grade and reducing the price.

A considerable amount of cotton in the county has a large amount of foliage (green leaves) on it. These leaves are preventing sunlight from reaching the bolls and are causing a delay in opening. If a high percentage of young bolls are still on the cotton it is possible that the cotton should not be defoliated. On the other hand, if mature bolls are beginning to rot, and the amount of cotton being lost is greater than the amount being gained by the crop of young bolls, it may be wise to remove the leaves with a recommended defoliant. This is a decision each farmer will have to make for himself.

If you have a clover-grass pasture and have not fertilized it this should be done as soon as possible. Pastures can't work without plant food. Undesirable weeds use a large amount of plant food and moisture. A good pasture clipping job should be done by all farmers. Most weeds have already produced mature seeds. However, this is not true on all farms and a clipping with a mower will prevent an increased crop of weeds next year.

William A. Barnett and Elmer Hitchcock are well pleased with their corn crop in the bend of the river area. They are expecting high yields, following a good fertilization program.

Warrior Vetch Seed Producer

Warrior vetch is proving its value to Alabama farmers.

The vetch offers farmers an outstanding advantage because of its ability to produce seed on Alabama soil and under Alabama conditions, says Melvin Moore, Auburn University Extension Service seed marketing specialist.

The Warrior variety, developed by Dr. E. D. Donnelly of the Auburn University Experiment Station, was released in 1958.

It is resistant to vetch bruchid (weevil), an insect which almost prohibits seed production on all other varieties being used in Alabama, says Moore.

The specialist says that Alabama has attempted to keep all Warrior vetch seed production under the state's seed certification program. In this way farmers can be sure of getting genetically pure Warrior vetch seed when they buy certified seed.

A reasonably good supply of foundation registered and certified Warrior vetch seed is available for planting this fall, adds the expert.

However, he reminds, farmers who plan to produce certified seed for harvest in the spring must use either foundation or registered seed in planting the fall crop. Certified Warrior vetch seed cannot be used for the production of certified seed.

In other words, says Moore, this crop is handled under a strict limited generation system under the state seed certification program.

For best seed production, states the specialist, farmers should plant in cotton middles and leave the cotton stalks standing to support the vetch next spring.

Cotton Important In Fall Wardrobe

Cottons in a blaze of colors, a flurry of shapes and textures are again the favored costume for young fashionables this fall, reports Jeanne Priester, Auburn Extension Service clothing specialist.

Little girl designs will follow adult lines, she says. Dresses will fit loose but closer to the body than usual. They will have a flared skirt beneath long torsos which will create a relaxed effect. And fashions will have grownup tailoring with Paris-inspired side pleats and lower waistlines.

Miss Priester says cotton will also play a big role in boys' wear. Corduroy, she says, will be stronger than ever in suits, jackets, slacks, sport shirts, and stadium coats this winter. A new husky basket weave in bold block plaids will be featured in outdoor garments, adds the specialist.

DONALD R. BEHEL COMPLETES TRAINING

Donald R. Behel, son of Mrs. Vera I. Behel of Route 7, Florence, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Military ceremonies marked the end of nine weeks of "boot camp" and included a full dress parade and review before high ranking officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "raw recruit" is developed into a Navy Bluejacket, ready for duty with the fleet.

Attics Should Be Kept Free Of Bats

Fall is bat flying time. Earl Kennamer, Auburn Service fish and wildlife specialist, says bats head for your attic during the fall season. They will get in through holes or the louver in your attic.

Use "bat proofing" to control bats. Just close up all the holes in the attic with steel wool, and tack hardware cloth inside the attic against the louver, says the specialist.

If you are still bothered, says Kennamer, put moth balls in the attic. You can also control the bats by spraying the attic with a mixture of one pound of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder and one gallon of water.

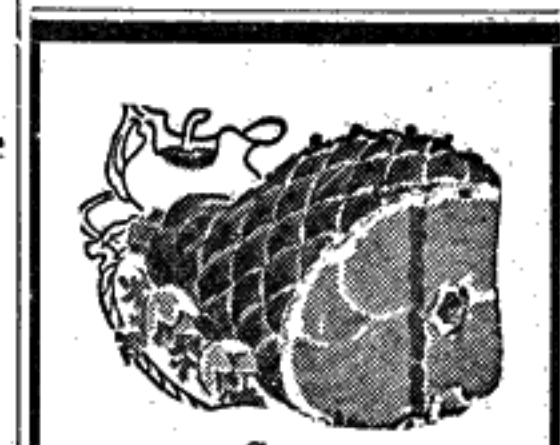

Take precautions when using this mixture, says the expert. DDT is poisonous.

Squeeze a few drops of lemon juice into the pan while fish cooks. It keeps the fish white and firm.

TVA Report Shows Forest Industry Is Big Business

During the 1961 fiscal year the annual value of forest products in the Tennessee Valley reached $500,000,000, an increase of $50,000,000 over previous estimates, TVA reported today. Fifteen years ago forest product values were estimated at $327 million.

Mill payrolls in the period 1946-1960 went from $91 million to $124 million. Average annual wage increased from $2,800 to $3,500. All values are in terms of 1960 dollars.

According to Kenneth Seigworth, Director of TVA's Division of Forestry Relations, forest product annual values are expected to reach $1,200,000,000 by the year 2000, and payrolls should reach $310,000,000.

"In terms of employment and wages," he said, "the forest products industry now ranks third among Valley manufacturers; only textiles and chemicals surpass it."

TVA's work in forestry is a cooperative effort, involving the U.S. Forest Service, state forestry and extension agencies, watershed associations, industry, and landowners.

Seigworth said the year 1960, the last half of which falls in the 1961 fiscal year, was a "year of stock taking TVA foresters."

He said they re inventoried the forest resource, the forest products industry, reappraised the status of management on private forest lands, reassessed the quality of fire protection, and examined the woodland grazing situation in the Tennessee Valley portions of Kentucky, Virginia, and North Carolina.

"In 1934," he said, "soon after TVA came into existence, the total forest area of the Valley was estimated at 14,060,000 acres. This had increased to 14,500,000 acres by 1946 and to 15,210,000 acres by 1960, an 8.2 percent gain in 26 years."

"Of the 125 Valley counties, 114 now have organized state fire protection. Considering all factors, state and TVA foresters judge protection to be adequate in 68 counties, near adequate in 38, and inadequate in 8. The unprotected forest land in the Valley portions of the 11 remaining counties totals about 650,000 acres."

"Public awareness of forest values is more evident than ever before. More and more investors are putting capital in timberland."

Cheese was used as a food more than 4,000 years ago, and during the voyage of the Pilgrims, cheese was included in the stores of the Mayflower.

BEAR FACTS—This Eustis, Maine, bruin stopped to talk to a friend, but discovered that it was only a sign. He, however, would be quick to agree that forest fires are dangerous and a menace to his way of life. Smokey turned out to be a better friend than he thought.

Scores Effort To Abolish Poll Tax

Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) today rejected as "unwarranted, unnecessary and unjustifiable" a proposed constitutional amendment to force the State to abolish the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting.

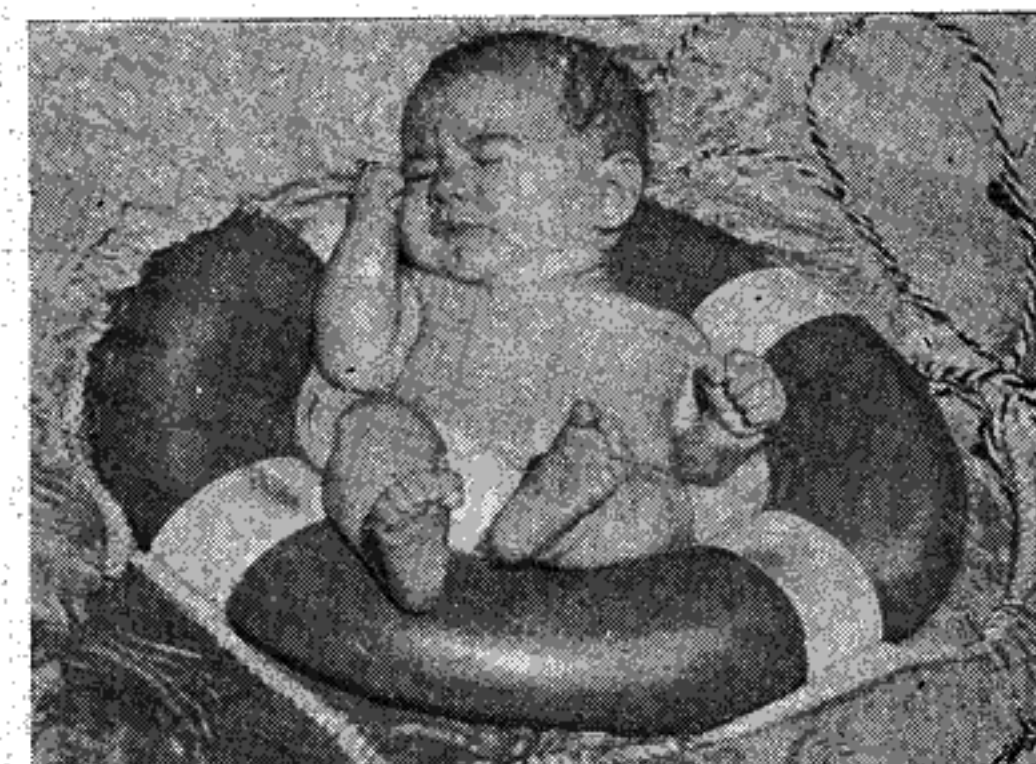

Hill carried his fight against what he called "this further effort to encroach on the rights of the States and of the people" to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the proposed constitutional amendment.

"Any decision to abolish the poll tax," Hill declared, "is one which the people of Alabama and the other States having a poll tax should make for themselves without pressure, harassment, or interference."

"I believe," Hill continued, "that if Congress should undertake at this time to establish the precedent of enacting into the Constitution itself the personal predilections of a temporary majority, then it shall have opened up a veritable Pandora's box of evils that might well come back to haunt it again and again."

Hill said, "It was never intended by the Founding Fathers that the Federal Government should whitewash away the rights of the people and of the States, either by legislative fiat or by constitutional amendment." Hill cited provisions of the Constitution and court decisions to support his contention that "the States alone have the power to determine the qualifications of their voters. This is a right of the States that was intended to be and ought to be preserved for their exclusive determination."
