Party Whirl Continues For Bride-Elect Nancy Douglas... Bows of garden flowers lent festive charm to the new home of Mrs. Douglas Crabtree on Hermitage Drive on the evening of Monday, July thirteenth, when she and her sisters, Mrs. Roy McKinney and Miss Pat Thompson, honored bride-elect Nancy Douglas with a gift tea.

Also tendered as a compliment to Miss Douglas was the cake party of Saturday morning, July eighteenth, when Mrs. Joseph Meade, Sr., entertained at her apartment on West Tombigbee Street. Against an elevated arrangement of gladioli in the background, dainty bouquets of garden flowers graced the coffee table in the living-room and centered the round refreshment table, spread with a fringed cloth of pink linen.

Seated with the hostess were Miss Carolyn Daniel, Miss Douglas Pride, Miss Fay Parrish, Miss Carolyn Allen, Miss Lucetta Landrum, Miss Pat Thompson and Miss Wynell Atchley. Mrs. H. W. Miller will join her daughter, Mrs. F. W. Hamilton, Mr. Hamilton and their children, London and Herb, in Jackson, Miss., this week-end to begin a month's tour of the West. In Eugene and Salem, Oregon, they will visit family members before returning to their homes.

Come to Church for Services

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER — STAYS TOGETHER"

the leap of FAITH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The paratrooper has faith in his "chute." The motorist has faith in his brakes. The shopper has faith in the brand-name she buys. All of us exercise our faith a hundred times a day.

Religious faith is like its every-day cousin. It is the same implicit reliance . . . the same daring confidence.

Religious faith comes when we seek it. But there is always the leap. Man has to step from his worldly fire into the spiritual apæce where God reveals his power and love. He must decide to believe what he cannot prove!

Like the leap of the paratrooper, the leap of faith begins months earlier in careful training.

The day a family starts to attend Church regularly . . . the training begins.

Voting Places For Wheat Referendum Today Released

Eligible Voters Those Who Will Harvest More Than 15 Acres In 1960

Voting places for the referendum to be held today on marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop have been announced by Joe J. Rasch, chairman of the Lauderdale County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Beginning this morning at 8 a.m., the voting will continue until 6 p.m. at the following places: Crossroads, Belew's Store; Florence, Cooperative Building; Oakland, Smith's Store.

Farmers who are eligible to vote in the wheat quota referendum are all those who in 1960 will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest except those who are participating in the 1959 wheat feed wheat program. Under the feed wheat program, farmers may arrange with the county office to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use only on the farm, where it is grown without being subject to marketing quota penalties.

If at least two thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve the quotas, they will remain in effect for the 1960-crop wheat and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm allotments at 75 percent of parity.

Farmers who exceed the larger of the farm allotment or 15 acres will be subject to a marketing penalty of 45 percent of the wheat parity price on their "excess" wheat.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two thirds of the growers voting, the quotas and penalties will not be in effect and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their wheat allotments at 50 percent of parity, as directed by law. At current parity levels, that would be about $1.18 per bushel.

Corner on Cotton

BY BOB COLLINS

Cotton acreage for the '59-'60 season is estimated at a little more than 15.8 million... that's about 25 percent over this year's figure... just what kind of production will come from the increase will be forecast by the Department of Agriculture on August 10... with a production figure of 486 pounds per acre (that's what happened this season) or a little more—and some people think it may be more—a crop of better than 14 million bales would be in the offing... what would we do with this cotton?...

Electric Fences Control Grazing
A relatively inexpensive means for grazing control is provided by electric fences.

From the Bank
Much of the 23 percent estimated increase in acreage comes from what was the soil bank... this program kept out of production about five million cotton acres... but despite the increase there is apparently considerable underplanting since the total allotment for the country is 17.3 million acres.

It's not too surprising to find that the states with the largest percentage of increase over last year's planting are in the Southeast... for instance, South Carolina has an increase of 143 percent for the new crop... the following table shows the percentage of increase over the '58-'59 crop:

South Carolina	143%
Georgia	88%
Alabama	57%
North Carolina	55%
Louisiana	45%
Missouri	35%
Mississippi	31%
Oklahoma	30%
Tennessee	27%
Arkansas	24%
California	20%
Texas	18%
New Mexico	11%
Arizona	1%

Agricultural Reminders
By HERMAN MARKS
Assistant County Agent

Don't overlook alfalfa in planning your hay and grazing program this fall. It is an excellent crop to be used as hay or grazing. If you are planning for this valuable crop, be sure to secure a soil test to determine the kind and amount of fertilizer to use and if lime is needed the test will reveal the amount to supply. Lime should be applied approximately sixty days before seeding if at all possible. If you have not had your soil tested, be sure to do this immediately.

There are a number of farmers in this area who have had good success with alfalfa, but in checking with them they have started preparing land well in advance, used a recommended variety, used an ample supply of fertilizer and lime, inoculated their seed, and used plenty of high quality seed. Several farmers have asked us recently the question of what grazing crops to seed for hogs this fall? Alfalfa is a good crop for hogs if it can be grown on your farm. White clover (including ladino), crimson clover, or vetch are good grazing crops for hogs also. In general legumes are better grazing crops than grasses. Since hogs do not eat legumes alone work fine as a grazing crop. Lawrence Owens North of Oliver is planning now for ladino clover to be grazed by his expanding hog program this fall. Mr. Owens has already secured a soil test to determine his fertilizer and lime needs. Let me emphasize regardless of the crop you are planning to seed before planting is highly important. Preparation should include several important factors: Incorporating organic matter into the soil; aerating the soil to promote proper bacterial growth and chemical reactions; pulverizing and reorganization of the soil particles; compacting or firming the soil to remove air pockets and promote the upward movement of moisture; and destroying weeds. Doing these jobs involves a number of operations which extend over a period of time from a few hours to several days.

Planting Hybrid Corn Increases
Alabama farmers planted 84 percent of their corn acreage with hybrid seed in 1959 compared with 83 percent in 1958, according to the Alabama Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This means 1,887,000 acres were planted to hybrid corn out of 2,247,000 acres of all corn planted in Alabama in 1959. Heaviest use of hybrids continues to be in the Tennessee Valley, Sand Mountain and southeastern areas of the State.

In the United States, corn acreage planted with hybrid seed increased sharply this year in line with the increase in all corn acreage. Hybrids were planted on 81 million acres compared with 70 million last year and 68 million in 1957. The percentage of total corn acres planted with hybrids edged upward to 94.8 percent compared with 94.0 percent last year. The commercial corn sections in all areas of the country have been planting nearly all acreage with hybrids for some years. About the only minor producing areas of the Southern States, the Rocky Mountain States and western Dakotas where the hybrid fraction ranges below four-fifths. The more important producing Coastal areas of the Southeastern States, eastern Dakotas and most irrigation sections of the Rocky Mountain States are planting mostly hybrids.

Electric Fences Control Grazing

Portable electric fences are now being improved to give better service in controlled grazing of pastures. This controlled grazing, which is commonly practiced by dairy men, means fencing off small areas of pasture to be grazed for short periods. This system encourages the animals to graze a particular area quickly and uniformly and causes less loss from trampling and contamination.

Entirely satisfactory electric fences must withstand frequent testing by livestock and be readily movable. And since they are used from early spring to late fall, they must be effective in all types of weather.

One problem is the loss of electrical energy under humid or wet conditions. This loss is mainly caused by surface leakage across insulators which may partially short-circuit the fence. Such leakage is due to a surface film of moisture and dirt on the insulators. In wet weather or when the humidity is 75 percent or more, materials such as polyethylene have about one-tenth the surface leakage of conventional porcelain insulators. The use of portable posts, quick wire-attaching equipment, gate hooks, and convenient fence lay-outs can reduce the labor needed to move the fences. The fence controller be a commercially manufactured one that has been approved by the Underwriters Laboratory.

More than 55,000 homeless men are aided each year in the rehabilitation program which The Salvation Army conducts in more than 100 Men's Social Service Centers in the United States.
