Time To Be Thankful

Dating back to the time the Pilgrims gave thanks for a bountiful harvest, Thanksgiving in America has been a time for pause and reflection on the multiple blessings we have.

However, when we are all gathered at the festive board, too many of us are prone to live for the moment in our own little world and lose sight of the real meaning of Thanksgiving...

There are many things that contribute to that opportunity, not the least of which is the fact that we live in a free country. Four-fifths of the people of the world do not have that opportunity and may never have.

Thanksgiving is meaningless unless we are thankful in our hearts for our spiritual freedom. Once we are then we can be truly thankful for the material blessings we have in such abundance and which we must share with those less fortunate to give Thanksgiving its full significance.

The Pot And The Kettle

The action taken by President Eisenhower in ordering a naval patrol to protect Guatemala and Nicaragua from communist infiltration from Cuba has been called a "warlike action" by... of all people... Fidel Castro.

It is unfortunate that the Monroe Doctrine was not invoked long ago to protect the entire Western Hemisphere from communist infiltration, and while it must be admitted there is no sure way to entirely prevent this from happening...

Maybe the Soviets are bluffing but bluffing or not they are giving aid to Castro and the situation is more than serious. Intelligent Cubans like the informed people of all the nations "south of the border" know that once they are in communist hands there is no more freedom...

The communists know where to plant their seeds and while we have slept the sleep of complacency, they have worked diligently. In Caracas, Venezuela for instance, where major American oil companies have created a big oil boom and wages and prices have skyrocketed in recent years...

Big wages have caused high prices and the thousands of poverty stricken illiterates, who cannot hold even the semi-skilled jobs face starvation. Given guns and a very minimum of communist urging they are ready to shoot "the capitalist dogs" who are causing their poverty.

Students furnish the other ripe field. And this is not only true of the Latin Americans. It is true the world over that students seem to think their destiny is somehow tied up with a revolution to reform to world. Too often they are ready to carry banners and march for practically anything so long as it doesn't make too much sense and is contrary to constituted authority or accepted codes of conduct.

President-elect Kennedy has spoken many times of his belief in the words of the immortal Teddy Roosevelt... "speak softly and carry a big stick." And the world knows when Teddy spoke he meant it AND HE WAS RESPECTED BECAUSE PEOPLE UNDERSTOOD HIS KIND OF LANGUAGE.

It will be interesting to see how Mr. Kennedy handles some of the knotty foreign problems we are facing and that threaten the peace of the world. There may be some that are insurmountable but there is one thing certain, they will be dealt with promptly and courageously.

Exchange Hears About Pig Chain

Reports given by three of the members of the Florence Exchange Club pig chain featured Tuesday's meeting of the club at Hotel Reader. George A. Porter, chairman of the agriculture committee, had charge of arrangements and presented Albert Heaslett, assistant county agent, who, in turn, presented three of the five members of the chain present.

Giving interesting reports on their efforts, Eckard Walker, of Lexington School, Billy Barnett, of Rogers High and Larry Wright of Mars Hill School, told of their problems and successes in raising the young porkers. The top profit reported was by Billy Barnett who stated that he had a bank balance today of $359 earned by his efforts following the presentation to him by the Exchange Club of one registered gilt.

James Smith, manager of Fuller's Market was introduced as a new member and Mrs. Reeder Walker, mother of Eckard, was a guest.

Clark Gable Dies at 59

Clark Gable, 59, the King of Hollywood, died last Wednesday of a heart attack at the Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital where he had been taken ten days ago when stricken with coronary thrombosis. He breathed two short gasps and died before his wife, Kay Spreckels, could be summoned from across the hall. Gable was King of the movie world from the moment he slapped Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul" in 1931 until his death; his latest movie was "The Misfits." His most famous roles were in "Gone With The Wind" and "It Happened One Night," the latter won him an Academy Award in 1934. Mrs. Gable, a heart patient also, is five months pregnant with the actor's first child. Funeral services were held last Saturday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Quiet Prevails In New Orleans

The two New Orleans public schools which have recently been integrated, were given a breathing spell Monday, when they were closed down for the Thanksgiving holiday. Classes were not to resume until Nov. 28. The recess was announced late Thursday night by Dr. James F. Redmond, public school superintendent, and permitted teachers to attend teacher association meetings in Baton Rouge Monday through Wednesday. The irate parents of white students have been boycotting the schools in an effort to bring an end to the integration.

Church May Be Taxed

The Internal Revenue Service said Thursday it is investigating complaints that certain churches, other religious organizations and individual clergymen abused their tax privileges by mixing in politics during the presidential election campaign. It was reported that literature hostile to the election of a Roman Catholic, John F. Kennedy, as president, was distributed. If an exempt organization violates its privilege, it merely loses its exemption for the year involved; there is no provision for any additional penalty.

Wilbanks Gets 10 Years

John Wilbanks, accused of the rifle death of 9-year-old Barbara King of Birmingham, was set free on bond, Monday, for the first time since early July after he was sentenced to 10 years in prison. Circuit Judge Oakley Melton set appeal bond at $12,500. Wilbanks' lawyers posted it promptly and the defendant was given his liberty. Wilbanks was arrested three days after the girl's death, and was held without bond while awaiting trial. Immediately after he was sentenced, defense attorneys filed notice of appeal to a higher court.

Macon County Reveals Records

Lawyers from the U.S. Attorney General's office received the records of Macon County voter registration authorities Monday upon their request. They immediately began going through the papers for possible evidence of discrimination against prospective Negro voters who have complained they were denied the right to vote in Macon County. Registration authorities have denied discrimination, however, some Negroes have said they were required to take tests which prospective white voters did not have to undergo.

JEWETT TAYLOR FLAGG

"It was a happy day when we decided to cast our lot with the generous and hospitable people of Florence back in 1927 and Mrs. Flagg and I have never for a moment regretted our decision," is the way Mr. Flagg expressed his feeling regarding Florence as a home for the entire Flagg family.

"Being fully convinced that a 'cotton mill should be in a cotton patch,' we selected Florence as the place to establish our plant after a careful study of its many advantages as well as the cooperation we received from the townspeople. Thus Gardiner-Warring Co., an old and honored name in the textile field, was established here," Mr. Flagg continued.

Jewett Taylor Flagg was born in Buffalo, New York, December 31, 1900, the son of George Benjamin and Madeleine Taylor Flagg. He attended private elementary schools at Allen School in West Newton, Mass., and Huntington School in Boston. He was graduated from the Loomis School, a private high school, in Windsor, Conn., in 1920.

Mr. Flagg attended Lowell Technological Institute and was graduated in 1922. He was honored with a Master of Science degree and Honorary Professorship at Lowell Tech in 1953.

Mr. Flagg was married to Charlotte Brooks of Brookline, Mass., December 31, 1926. They have two daughters, Mrs. Mary Louise Flanagan of Newnan, Ga., and Mrs. Nancy Ann Kern of New Orleans, La. There are six grandchildren.

The Gardiner-Warring Company began its operations here in 1927 with 72 employees but by the end of the year there were 1,200 on the payroll. This payroll proved a boost to the local economy and Mr. Flagg, becoming active in the industrial, business and civic life of Florence and the surrounding area added much to the progress that followed.

When the depression of the early thirties moved into this area, Gardiner-Warring was the only company in Florence that was able to maintain a cash payroll that was continuous and dependable. This payroll, as far as payment in cash was concerned, was interrupted briefly during the bank holiday when payment was necessarily made in script. It is interesting to recall that upon the occasion of this script payment system that the employees were asked to draw only what they just had to have and reserve some for cash payment, later, whereupon most of them drew about half of their pay in cooperation with the management.

Throughout the years, Mr. Flagg has taken a deep interest in every development of the area. He is a member of the board of directors of The First National Bank of Florence, a member of the Board of Governors of Eliza Coffee Memorial Hospital, and vice-chairman of the Muscle Shoals Aeronautics Authority. He has played a vital part in the development of our local airport and its services and when the facility, owned jointly by the counties of Lauderdale and Colbert, was to be dedicated, he was instrumental in contracting with the Eastern Airlines to service the airport bringing his long-time friend, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of the airlines, here for the dedication. Interested in the growth of local hospital facilities and the need for a nursing home addition, he and Mrs. Flagg purchased and presented to the Eliza Coffee Memorial hospital the El Reposo Sanitarium land and buildings and authorized the naming of this splendid structure the Mitchell-Hollingsworth Annex in honor of the late Judge J. J. Mitchell and Dr. D. W. Hollingsworth. This facility is now being enlarged to near double its former size.

Mr. Flagg's business activities soon took on added responsibilities as his leadership in the textile field was recognized. In 1947, the name of Gardiner-Warring Co. was changed to the J. T. Flagg Knitting Co., operating under this name until it was merged with the Utica Knitting Company of Utica, N.Y., and the entire operation, which includes mills in Grantville, Ga., and Averill Park, N.Y., to form the Flagg-Utica Corp. This organization today continues its expansion program and holds an important place in the textile industry of the nation.

He is a director on the boards of the following companies: Indian Head Mills, Inc., N. Y.; Texton, Inc., Providence, R. I.; Amwool Financial Corp. and chairman of its Executive Committee; Underwear Institute, N. Y., and a member of its Executive Committee; American Woolen Company, Utica, N. Y.; Minneapolis Knitting Works, Utica, N. Y.; Commercial Warehouse Company, Utica, N. Y.

Mr. Flagg is a trustee of the following organizations: Committee for Economic Development; The Loomis Institute, Windsor, Conn. He is a member of the New York Cotton Exchange and is Chairman of the Board of Faith Mills Corp., Averill Park, N. Y.

Mr. Flagg is a member of the Union League Club, Merchants Club and Empire State Club, all located in N. Y. He is a member of the Algonquin Club of Boston, the Winano and Oyster Harbors Clubs, of Osterville on Cape Cod, Mass., and a member of Phi Psi social fraternity. He is a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, the Masons and of Trinity Episcopal Church.

Mr. Flagg is vitally interested in the activities of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, of which he is a trustee, and on May 3, at Kansas City, delivered a paper titled "A Businessman's Interest in Correction" that was featured in the October issue of the booklet, "Crime and Delinquency." His special interest in this field brings much satisfaction to him as he meets with leaders in the efforts being made to meet the challenge faced by all America.

Library Refuses $10,000 Allotment

Board of Directors Turn Down Offer By State Service For Promotion

The proposal made to the Muscle Shoals Regional Library by the Alabama Library Service at its October 30 meeting whereby $10,000 would be allotted to the local library system for certain promotion work in a nearby area, was rejected by the Board of Directors in session at the Florence-Lauderdale Library Thursday, C. M. Brewster, board chairman, announced.

After careful study by the board members and Miss Ethel Pearson, Regional Librarian, it was shown that the cost of additional professional assistance, the purchase of a second bookmobile, transportation costs and the time it would require Miss Pearson to be absent from her duties in Lauderdale and Colbert counties, would entail a loss to the Muscle Shoals Regional Library of some $10,000 to $15,000 over and above the $10,000 offered by the state service.

In rejecting the offer, which had been reported erroneously locally as a grant of $10,000, the Board of Directors pointed out that the local system is today sorely handicapped by a shortage of appropriations from some of the supporting agencies and as a result a reduced service is now given. "To add additional cost burdens," Mr. Brewster said, "would add a further handicap to the service now possible. We are interested in rendering a better service to the citizens of the two counties, which is the obligation of our board, not to add a further burden. We will, however, be happy to advise with the projected area and assist in other ways that we can without assuming any additional financial obligations."

Mr. Brewster made it clear that when the promotional work by the State Library Service has been completed, and the nearby area is in operation on a substantial and assured basis, the Muscle Shoals Regional Library would be pleased to welcome the new operation as a full-fledged partner in the local library system.

A 280-pound satellite, Tiros II, was sent into orbit at Cape Canaveral, Fla., Wednesday. Nine revolutions a minute are required to keep the satellite in orbit.

The traditional Thanksgiving Day game between Alabama State College of Montgomery and Tuskegee Institute, to be played at Cramton Bowl today, has triggered off possible racial trouble. Many signs have been posted in Montgomery urging "10,000 white people" to be at the game. Cramton Bowl is a public stadium and has been turned over to the Negroes for the game. Possible violence has been indicated at the football game, especially when eleven crosses with the words "Nov. 24" beneath them, were burned in the city Friday night, probably work of the Klu Klux Klan.

Adolf Eichmann, who was captured in Argentina where he had lived under an assumed name and who is now awaiting trial in Israel for sending millions of Jews to their slaughter, admits in an account he dictated himself that he was the man who transported Jews to concentration camps and death chambers. Eichmann professed that he was not anti-semitic, although he helped distribute the yellow stars of David used to set Jews apart from others and shipped them to their doom.

Miss McPeters, Mr. Fritts Say Vows In Church Setting

Marked by an evening ceremony in St. James Methodist Church was the marriage on Saturday of Nancy Sue McPeters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ogden McPeters of 609 North Poplar Street, and Luther Wayne Fritts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Eli Fritts of 220 Norwood Boulevard.

Pledges were repeated after the Reverend Hubert Robinson, minister of the church, following nuptial selections presented by Mrs. Albert Heasley and Oliver Brazzelle.

Candlelight against a background of greenery and bouquets of white chrysanthemums caught with sprays of fern and laurel at the chancel rail detailed the setting for the wedding tableau.

Mr. McPeters gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of lace over bridal satin was designed with a close-fitting, elongated bodice distinguished by a rousing, scalloped neckline and tapering sleeves which came to points over the hands. The bouffant skirt, tiered at the back, extended to form a small train. From a crown of lace reembodyed with pearls and iridescents her veil of silk illusion cascaded to fingertip length, and she carried white roses encircled with white satin hearts.

Miss Clara Lou McPeters and Mrs. Tony Bianco, sister and aunt of the bride, were her honor attendants. Bridesmaids included Miss Virginia Flynt of Memphis, Miss Ramona Burrows of Corinth, Miss Charlotte Carter of Nashville, Miss Belinda Wilson of Florence. They wore olive green silk organza frocks fashioned with round necklines, low waistlines and full, tiered skirts. Small white fur hats and matching muffs with pinned-on nosegays of bronze chrysanthemums completed their costumes. Candelighters Linda Joy and Martha Ann Gamble, and Vonda Lou Broadfoot, cousins of the bride, wore gold-colored frocks of silk organza and wristlets of bronze mums.

The bridegroom's father served him as best man and groomsmen were his brother, Donald Fritts, Clyde Bohannon, Jr., Clifton Hicks, Tom Hite, Ronald Carter, Larry Crittenden, and Frederick Earl McPeters, brother of the bride. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McPeters was gowned in beige lace with matching accessories. Mrs. Fritts, mother of the bridegroom, wore avocado lace, and a white orchid fashioned the corsage of each. Mrs. Tim Rickard, grandmother of the bridegroom, was in plum-colored crepe with a corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. McPeters honored their daughter and her husband with a reception at The Town Club immediately after the half past seven o'clock ceremony. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Vernon Brown, Miss Martha James, Miss LaVelle McCain, Miss Susan Corum, Mrs. Howard Darby, Miss Lois Lumpkin, Miss Susan Brown, Mrs. Wilburn Brown, Mrs. Jack Smith of Birmingham, Mrs. Arthur Clark, Mrs. Claud Caddell, Miss Bonnie Bradley, Miss Martha Walker, Miss Sue Gamble, Mrs. Paul Fritts and Mrs. Newt Blackburn.

Before leaving for their honeymoon on the Gulf Coast, the bride changed to a suit of Roman blue with short, fur-trimmed jacket, small white hat and black accessories and, at her shoulder, an orchid corsage.

Returning today, they will be at home at 117 North Poplar Street, Florence.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, Miss Dennie Kendrick, Mrs. Mary Ellison, Mrs. James Triplett, all of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Garner, Tullahoma, Tennessee; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Carter, Nashville.

Miss Billie Faye Edwards Weds George Jesse Baker

At half past six o'clock on Wednesday, November ninth, Miss Billie Faye Edwards and George Jesse Baker exchanged nuptial vows in Sherrod Avenue Church of Christ, with John D. Cox, minister of the church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson Edwards of 901 Hermitage Drive, Florence, who have made the announcement, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Rosella Baker of Sheffield and Jacob Benjamin Baker of Thomasville, Georgia.

Graduated from Coffee High School before attending Florence State College, Mrs. Baker now holds a secretarial position. Mr. Baker, a Sheffield High School graduate, is a senior at Florence State.

Bride Of Saturday Feted At Luncheon

Among the courtesies extended in honor of Miss Nancy Sue McPeters prior to her marriage on Saturday to Luther Wayne Fritts, was the luncheon to which Mrs. William Scarborough was hostess at noontime on Wednesday, November sixteenth.

The event took place at Phillips' Restaurant and the hostess used chrysanthemums in the wedding colors of bronze and white to fashion her table decoration.

Seated with the bride, chick in a suit of grey wool with white jersey blouse and grey accessories, were her mother, Mrs. Earl McPeters, and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Huey E. Fritts, Miss Belinda Wilson, Miss Susan Corum, Miss Lois Lumpkin, Miss Ramona Burrows, Miss LaVelle McCain and the hostess.

Silver in her chosen pattern was the honoree's gift from Mrs. Scarborough.

Pierian Club Hears Guest Speaker

Mr. Shrader Casey, Mrs. W. O. Whitten and Mrs. W. F. Hodges were hostesses to the Pierian Club meeting of Tuesday, November fifteenth, welcoming members at the Casey home, 927 Olive St.

During the business hour Mrs. H. J. Willis was chosen to represent the club at the Family Life Conference, and plans for the Christmas party were discussed.

For the program, Miss Tera Hitchcock reviewed Noel B. Gerson's "Yankee From Tennessee," a biography of Andrew Jackson whom the author describes as "a rugged individual and a self-educated man of considerable stature who rose from poverty to become the seventeenth president of the United States, serving his country in the shadow of Abraham Lincoln."

A tea hour concluded the meeting.

Mrs. Miller Hostess To Hypatian Club

"The book is equally as fascinating as the title" was the comment of one Hypatian Club member who heard Mrs. Fred Ashe review "Ninety Dozen Glasses" at the club's meeting of a week ago.

Written by Marguerite Wagner Cullman whose husband, Howard S. Cullman, was American Commissioner General to the 1958 World's Fair in Brussels, the book reveals the author's impression of The Fair, gives incidences and sidelights, and tells of interesting people whom she, in the capacity of official hostess, met and in many cases entertained. The title portrays in brief the enormity of the entertainment scale.

Mrs. Tom Miller was the day's hostess; her home in Cliff Haven the setting.

Mrs. Craig Fetes Nashville Houseguest

THE SPILLWAY

I can say one thing
To which I know you'll adhere . . .
Thanksgiving's one of the very best
Times of the year . . .

IF YOU DON'T AGREE, just join any group you happen to meet this week, and you'll hear happy talk of sons and daughters home from college . . . of "tables that groan" under the weight of feasts that reveal the prosperity about us . . . of football games that, excite young and old alike . . . of families gathering together from far and near . . . of party-ing—both the formal and informal variety . . . of vacation from school lessons . . . and of just being happy to live in a land where we do pause together for thanks-giving.

'TIS ALSO the height of the hunting season, and the men hereabouts are busy with their activities along this line . . . one of the proudest right now is (Doc) Jim Middleton, who is having the head of a 200 pound deer mounted so that he can show the fruits of his hunting trip with several friends down on Thomas (also Doc) Bennett's hunting reservation near Cherokee. (We're quite impressed with the idea of a "private hunting ground.")

AND THIS IS NOT THE ONLY type hunting that is going on . . . hear that Dewey Hopper returned from a trip recently with pheasants, not only for wife-Jackie to COOK, but also for her to WEAR . . . Watch for Jackie's new pheasant-feathered hat, which we bet will be lovely.

BY THE WAY, haven't heard yet of Gilman Doss's annual trip in conquest of these colorful birds, but know he must be planning one.

JUST HAFTA' SAY "I told you so" . . . since the formal announcement has come out . . . The "local business man" we mentioned last week is Stanley Rosenbaum, who will be "Professor R." come next fall at Florence State. And we do intend to AT-tend some of his classes, because we've heard Stanley speak on many occasions, and have never failed to be impressed and informed.

SO GLAD THAT Thalia Arnett cut her hospital stay short and arrived home in time to welcome the Snyders—son Don, Marita, and their beautiful little daughters, Donna and Blair. They've come for Thanksgiving week with Thalia and Buster . . . from St. Louis where Don is with Hayes Aircraft Corporation, and where we hear they've just built a lovely new home.

THE MOST LUDICROUS SIGHT we've seen recently, and we've been around, is to watch D. C. O'Steen, who knows nothing about bowling, each noon give bowling lessons to Nolen Dawson . . . who appears to be learning fast from his more or less expert teacher . . . which should prove something to the educators.

GONE FOR A TIME is Mae Irvine, who left last week for Thanksgiving with Polly and Turner (Rice) in Birmingham . . . then on to be with other-daughter Mae Erskine and Alec (Fowler) in Boonton, New Jersey, for Christmas. We'll miss her here, but wish her happy holidays with her family . . . hoping that when the snows get deep in New Jersey, she'll hie herself back to the Sunny South.

FROM THE LAND WHERE "the cotton, and the corn and 'aters grow," there comes the grapevine too . . . reaching all the way back to Alabam . . . Madam gathers interesting items about recent-Florentines-now-of-Richmond . . . Helana and Paul Wilson . . . In a new locale but already with a host of friends . . . they're enjoying week-end jaunts at Old Point Comfort . . . and Fredericksburg . . . and Yorktown . . . and Williamsburg . . . Charlottesville . . .

AND between times, Helana is "up to her old tricks" at the bridge table . . . raking in her share of 'em after every shuffle-and-deal . . . Seems that she won the top award at two successive meetings of the Richmond Newcomers Club recently, where she is pitted against such players as ex-localite Anne Sailors Harris . . . All pleasant to hear, but we must add that Richmond's gain is our loss.

HEAR THAT HUNDREDS attended the Open House at Marshall Pless's new business establishment on Sunday, and that the compliments were extravagant, as was the setting . . . Wife Lois's talent and industry assisting that of Marshall's have resulted in a real show place, they say, and we plan to visit this "conversation piece" very soon.

LOSING BY A WHISKER is no fun but there's some satisfaction in being close . . . we mean Allen Thornton's near miss in his bid for a free trip . . . with all the trimmings . . . to the Rose Bowl game . . . Allen was one of 29 in the nation that just missed the boat in the Kickoff Bowl Trip contest by guessing wrong on one game.

THERE HAS ALSO BEEN MUCH TALK of another event of Sunday afternoon . . . the Children's Style Show at Holiday Inn had all the earmarks of a "real grown-up" style show, with the cutest and prettiest models you ever saw, ranging in ages from three-to-twelve-years, and looking like pictures out of a fashion plate in the latest small-fry fashions . . . Margaret Zimmerman and Scott Lindstrom added a "specially cute note as they strolled around together, refusing to be anything but a "twosome," and a very handsome couple they did make . . . and three-year old Laura Roberts, looking like a "dream walking" was assisted by big-sister Jorie, who also was self-appointed assistant to the style commentator, adding spice to the entire show.

UNTIL MORE NEWS COMES THROUGH THE SPILLWAYS, IT'S GOODBYE FOR NOW.

News Of Rogersville
By Mrs. Oswald Waddell
Phone CH 4-3256

Civitan Auxiliary:
On Tuesday evening Mrs. Rex Roberson entertained the Civitan Auxiliary at her home with Mrs. B. R. Thornton presiding.

The devotional was given by Mrs. C. J. Pennington in the absence of Mrs. Gerald Harris, club chaplain.

Program plans for the year are to have a guest speaker each meeting, the first being Mrs. Olga Harvery, who, being very adept at flower arranging, chose it as her topic.

A salad with tasty nut bread and punch or coffee was served to the members and these guests: Mrs. Travis McKee, Mrs. Hubert McKee, Mrs. Lum Applton of Minor Hill, Tenn., and Mrs. Sam Spry, W.S.C.

In the home of Mrs. Henry Hudson, also on Tuesday evening, the W.S.C. of the Methodist Church, whose president is Miss Sarah Fuqua, met for their foreign mission study, "One Mission, One World," which was given by Mrs. Essie Goad.

Mrs. Louis Fuqua gave the devotional and in the brief business a report was made by Mrs. Thurston Vickers of the contributions made toward the project for Camp Sumatonga.

The hostess served date parfait with coffee to the sixteen present.

Garden Club:
Thursday evening the Rogersville Garden Club met in the home of Miss Dessie Crow in Killen.

Mrs. Buford Mitchum presided over the meeting. Mrs. Rex Roberson gave the devotional. Plans were announced in which every family would be urged to decorate its front door for the holidays. Judging will be done by club members who are not participating and prizes will be given.

Guests were Mrs. Larry Gautney and Mrs. Jack Gautney of Killen and Miss Sarah Fuqua of Rogersville.

Members consider it a special treat every year to meet in this lovely home and the hostess served a salad with nut bread to them, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Jack Gautney.

Youth Banquet:
The Cumberland Presbyterian fellowship hall was the scene of a Thanksgiving dinner on Saturday evening when the young people of the church dined together before hearing their foreign mission study, "Into All the World With Him," given by Jane Tucker.

The golds and browns of autumn prevailed in decorations of the long tables and a typical Thanksgiving menu was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bedingfield were sponsors of the group.

Golden Wedding Anniversary:
A lovely affair was that on Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4 when Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Waddell were guests of honor at a reception for them at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Waddell on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Waddell was lovely in a beige lace over taffeta with two symmetrical orchids, the gift of her husband, at her shoulder, and he looked the handsome bridegroom in black.

Receiving the numerous guests with them were their four sons, Dick, James, Helen and Oswald, with their families. The granddaughters, Priscilla, Cora Sue, Betsy and Mary Lou assisted with the gifts and the guests.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Herd Sire Affects Income Of Cattle

During the next three months many Alabama cattlemen will be making a decision that will affect beef cattle income for several years—the selection of a bull to use as a herd sire.

Some of the bulls being sold this fall either through association consignment sales or breeder production sales carry information on the weaning weight, gain on feeding test, weight per day of the entire animal's life, and the confirmation score. Bob Farquhar, Auburn Extension beef marketing specialist, highly recommends these two sources when the information is available because the records take most of the guesswork out of selecting a herd sire. Unfortunately, there are not enough of these bulls to fill the needs of Alabama cattlemen. A neighboring registered breeder is also a possible source. Cattlemen should spend a half-day here selecting prospective herd sires, Farquhar says, giving consideration, size, and scale of both sire and dam as well as milking ability of the dam.

Spray San Jose Scale With Oil

Fruit trees are favorites around farm and city homes in Alabama. Farmers landscaping lawns nearly always include an apple, peach, plum, or cherry while the city version features flowering peach, plum, or quince.

All of these trees are subject to attack by the San Jose scale which W. A. Ruffin, Auburn Extension entomologist, says is the most serious fruit tree pest in Alabama. Ruffin says that trees heavily infested with this insect should be sprayed with a good grade oil emulsion as soon as all the leaves have fallen or at any time during the dormant period of the tree except when there is a danger of a hard freeze within 24 to 48 hours.

Oil emulsions can be bought at most feed and seed stores. The entomologist advises sprayers to follow directions on the label closely and to coat all parts of the tree thoroughly since the spray kills insects by smothering them.

GOOD BEDDING "MUST" FOR FARROWING HOUSE

Pig producers who are expecting to have a busy time in their farrowing houses soon are arranging to have a good supply of bedding on hand.

Good bedding is particularly important in chilly fall weather, says G. B. Phillips, Auburn Extension Service specialist in animal industry. Although oat straw is the old standby for bedding baby pigs, it has one definite disadvantage in that it bunches easily. Many farmers are finding that chopping the straw improves the quality. And others are using sawdust or wood shavings quite effectively, the specialist says.

Cotton Is Half Of 1956 Surplus

The long-troublesome cotton surplus, now about half of the 1956 peak, has shrunk to the point at which it constitutes no more than adequate insurance against a crop failure or an international emergency.

According to Foy Helms, Auburn Extension economist, U. S. Department of Agriculture figures show that stocks of cotton were down to 7.6 million bales at the start of the current marketing season of Aug. 1. This represented a decline of 1.3 million bales from the same date a year earlier.

The carryover of 14.5 million bales in 1956 was the largest on record, that of 7.6 million bales on Aug. 1 this year was the smallest since 1953. The 1960 crop is expected to total about the same as the 1959 crop, Helms says. And the carryover on Aug. 1, 1961, is expected to be about 7.2 million bales.

September has been designated National Wool Month by a joint resolution of Congress.

Food shoppers have about 8,000 items to choose from today, and predictions are that there will be even more within the next few years.

Price Squeeze On Producers Felt

Farm Bureau Told Of Problem Facing South's Cotton Growers

"The cost-price squeeze on the producer's profits," is one of the major problems of the entire cotton industry, according to J. Craig Smith, Sylacauga, president of the National Cotton Council.

This, he said in addressing the annual convention of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation at Mobile, points up the urgent need for research. Through lower production costs and a higher quality product—both of which can be achieved through research—farmers can realize greater profits and cotton can compete in price with artificial fibers and other substitutes.

He emphasized that cotton must be competitive in terms of its attractiveness to the grower and his resources of production. It also must be competitive in terms of permitting it to hold or expand markets.

Mr. Smith noted that the Secretary of Agriculture has wide leeway to adjust price supports up or down in the light of shifting competitive conditions. In view of conditions now faced, the Cotton Council believes the support level for 1961 should be above the minimum possible under the law, he added.

Another thing to keep in mind, he pointed out, is that under the new law enacted in 1958, government cotton stocks cannot be sold next season at less than 115 per cent of the support level. This means that the market could advance four to five cents a pound before coming into competition with government stocks.

"I want to make it perfectly clear," he said, "that I'm an advocate of price supports—at as high a level as the grower can have and still hold the markets he wants."

"But profits depend on a whole lot more than arbitrary price determination by the government. Over any period of time, the price of cotton must reflect its use-value and attractiveness in a highly competitive market place. A price that is arbitrarily set higher than this means loss of sales, loss of acreage, loss of production. But cotton can have a higher price, without losing markets, if its quality and value are increased through research."

RECORDS GIVE POULTRYMAN LOOK AT TOTAL OPERATION

Record-keeping may be a little time consuming, but the practice is well worthwhile to a poultryman who is not satisfied with his present income.

A poultryman with a good set of records can easily analyze his total operation and see where improvements need to be made, says J. R. Hubbard, Auburn Extension poultry specialist. Records need not be too complicated, but Hubbard says that they should be complete enough to supply an egg producer with information on the rate of lay per hen, the amount of feed it takes to produce a dozen eggs, the mortality rate of the flock, the cost of production and the amount of sales.

Improperly Wired Fence Is Deadly

A single strand of electrically charged wire stretched on simple uprights around a patch of grazing crop is an innocent looking device for keeping cattle hemmed in. But such a device, referred to as an electric fence, can be fatal for cattle, children, and grownups.

Bill Cox, Auburn Extension engineer, says that wire stretched on posts with a charge of electricity connected at the source is a booby trap rather than an electric fence. The engineer warns that electricity should be connected to a fence only through a properly built, completely approved electric fence controller which uses only high voltage and very low current. Since the shock is not continuous and lasts only a moment, a person may be released from the fence without danger.

"Safe electric controllers are not built by amateur mechanics and electricians, Cox adds.

Way Discovered To Wash Wool

Consumers may look forward to buying all-wool washable fabrics in the near future.

United States Department of Agriculture scientists have discovered a new treatment that shrinks wool fabrics and makes them safely washable in machines. The process consists of covering wool fibers with a chemical coating. Treated fabrics retain wool's natural soft texture and yet wash without shrinking and dry without wrinkling, says Jeanne Priester, Auburn Extension clothing specialist.

In laboratory tests the new treatment has proved successful for shrink-proofing wool suitings, knitted wear, blankets, and other wool goods.

Annual Veterans Christmas Gift Program Pushed

The splendid program, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Florence-Lauderdale Post No. 11 and now in its 16th year, which provides gifts for patients in the Veterans Hospital, Tuscaloosa, to give to each member of their families, has Thursday, December 1 as a deadline, Mrs. Florence Gibbons advises.

Last year, and for many years previously, the Florence unit led the state in number and value of gifts presented and it is hoped this year will be no exception. Upwrapped gifts for the wives and children of these veterans should be taken to the American Legion Home, S. Court Street, between this date and December 1st when they will be shipped to the hospital for display in the Gift Shop. The patients then select the gifts for their families, all free to him, and then sent without additional cost to the members designated.

The regular Thursday covered luncheon will be held next Thursday when members of the Auxiliary will complete the packing and preparation for shipment to the VA hospital. It is urged that all planning to make gifts for this splendid cause do so between now and the December 1st deadline, Mrs. Gibbons said.
